THINGS OF VALUE.

The first half of life the old house is too small for the large family; the last half of life the old family is too small for the large house.
 There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the frailties of the system are corrected and strength given by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite, Northrup & Lyman of Toronto, by giving to the public their Superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists' this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.
 Wife (after a tiff)—Just see that dog and cat there; how peacefully they get on together.
 Husband—The them together and see how they'll act.

A TONIC FOR THE DEBILITATED.—Parmentier's Vegetable Pills by acting mildly but thoroughly on the secretions of the body are a valuable tonic, stimulating the sagging organs to healthful action and restoring them to full vigor. They can be taken in graduated doses and so used that they can be discontinued at any time without return of ailments which they were used to allay.
 Mrs Clunbleigh—But Henry dear, in that photograph you have but one button on your coat.
 Mr Clunbleigh—Thank heaven, you've noticed it at last! That's why I had the photograph taken.

TO PREVENT IS BETTER THAN TO REPENT.—A little medicine in the shape of the wonderful pellets which are known as Parmentier's Vegetable Pills administered at the proper time and with the directions adhered to often prevent a serious attack of sickness and save money which would go to the doctor. In all irregularities of the digestive organs they are an invaluable corrective and by cleansing the blood they clear the skin of imperfections.
 Voice of the Lookout—Mr Binglebunzer, seven women are coming down the road with axes!
 The proprietor—What, ho, there! Drop the drawbridge, flood the sidewalk, close up the iron shutters, stretch the barb wire, fetch up the fire hose, light the sulphur pans, and stand ready to let loose the mice! Now let 'em come!

There is danger in neglecting a cold. Many who have died of consumption dated their troubles from exposure, followed by a cold which settled on their lungs, and in a short time they were in the hands of the best physician. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, before it was too late, their lives would have been spared. This medicine has no equal for curing coughs, colds and all affections of the throat and lungs.
 'Don't you think this all night business of the Montreal carters is demoralizing?' asked Weirldy, as he dodged a plunging burlow and caught the last car that took tickets.
 'Yes,' said Gimlet, 'it leads to many a man being driven to drink.'

Totally Deaf.—Mr. S. E. Candell, Port Perry, writes: "I contracted a severe cold last winter, which resulted in my becoming totally deaf in one ear and partially so in the other. After trying various remedies, and consulting several doctors, without obtaining any relief, I was advised to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. I warmed the Oil and poured a little of it into my ear, and before one-half the bottle was used my hearing was completely restored. I have heard of other cases of deafness being cured by the use of this medicine."

The Dyspeptic Omnibal.
 A Cannibal was seated on a green Pacific isle. With the temperature at ninety-nine degrees. His dress was rather scanty, in a truly savage style. Just a pair of Boston garters round his knees.
 But he didn't seem quite happy, for now and then a groan.
 Escaped—which tore his savage breast in two; And he chanted in a melancholy, meditative tone The ditty that I now repeat to you.
 'I've eaten hostile tribesmen without a single question, I've feasted on the yellow, black and brown; But I never have encountered such a fit of indigestion As accompanied the minister from town.
 'I have tried the Umbago, boiled and roasted, baked and fried; I have chewed the woolly Oolah stuffed with yam; But for all the after symptoms from the dishes I have tried I wouldn't give a Bamballoodam.
 But I caught the missionary calmly strolling on the main; Cooked and served him dressed exactly comme il faut. But a feeling deep within me, makes it disagreeably plain That the missionary surely is de trop.
 'I have eaten hostile tribesmen with the greatest of urbanity; I have feasted on the yellow, black and brown, But to eat a missionary was the acme of insanity. You can't keep a good man down.'
 —"Yale Record."

CROUPY COUGHS OF CHILDREN.

The tendency to croup is a foe that all parents have to fight. Croup comes in the night, when help must be right at hand if it is to be helpful. Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is a blessing to all families where there are children subject to attacks of croup or any mean cough. It has a wonderful reputation for its efficiency and truly deserves it.
 You cannot tell what night your child may wake up choking to death with croup. In such a case what do you do? Send for a doctor and wait an hour or perhaps two hours, while the child is gasping for breath? How much simpler were the true specific for croupy coughs and all throat troubles is right at hand. Indeed, no other way is safe with young children in the house.
 Adamson's Cough Balsam is a most delicate medicine for children, relieving the little throats at once. Its action is soothing and certain. It clears out the phlegm, which produces the croupy condition, and is a safeguard which no mother who knows about it will dispense with. All coughs and inflammation of the throat or bronchial tubes are cured by the Balsam with promptness that surprises. All druggists sell it, 25 cents. The genuine has "F. W. Kinsman & Co." blown in the bottle.

A Reputation for Himself.

Herbert Gladstone seems to be unwilling to be known to fame merely as a son of his father, and has started out to make a reputation for himself. His letter to his constituents make such a bold attack on the present government and such a fierce demand for reforms that it has created as much of a sensation as one of his distinguished father's eloquent speeches.
 Mr. Gladstone is not content with showing how many popular demands have been refused and how many measures of national importance ignored, but he insists on saddling the whole responsibility for this disobedience to the popular will on the conservative party [and the ministry now in power. He is even understood to suggest again, though not in plain terms, the abolition of the house of lords.

It is some time now since we have heard anything about the once famous popular dictum that the house of lords must be 'amended or ended,' and this particular war, when the nation is in the throes of war, seems inauspicious for renewing it; but Mr. Gladstone may be shrewd enough to see that this is a good time for effort in that direction. The British people are growing very restive under the burdens of the war; they are beginning to grumble loudly and to cast about them for a scapegoat to bear the responsibility of the mismanagement of which we on this side of the Atlantic have heard so much. What if Mr. Gladstone shall succeed in persuading them that the house of lords is the real scapegoat? They seem almost ready to listen to this kind of talk now.

Kind pedestrain—Here's half a dollar, my poor man. Instead of living this way you don't you learn a trade? Panhandler—I would, sir, if I knew of a better one than this.
