place horse. Joy! Yet it occurs to memory that the Casino was closed upon a similar occasion last year and that the "Closed" sign hung out on Saturday looked strangely like one seen before.

But that is not all. During the week, foretooth, a Florodora girl was widely advertised as having been seized with nervous prostration in its most dreaded form, just because she had been up to Sing Sing and had been strapped in the death chair.

And then, of a Friday night, the lights went out at the Casino, they say, just after 9 o'clock and declined to come back for half an hour. Can one blame them?

The Major's Predictions.

"I hear that the major has predicted a frost for the Fourth of July.

"Who's the major?"

"Why, he's the man who predicted an earthquake last June!"

"Did the earthquake come?"

"No—but the entire settlement had the child, an' went to shaking so that some o' the buildings fell down, an' you couldn't tell whether it wuz an earthquake or no!"

Entering the kitchen, thereupon I found a policeman hugging the cook.

"A nice cuisine this," exclaimed I with all the irony I could summon.

"Ah, a nice squeeze scene, indeed!" faltered the cook, blushing violently.

At this the officer laughed a buoyant laugh and admonished me to chase myself.

The crab may not be as good eating as the lobster, but he'll do in a pinch.

"What was the cause of the trouble in the woman's club?"

"The majority adopted a resolution limiting the time of each woman for speaking on any question to three hours."

life with the somewhat archaic sociality of a remote Spanish town and the medieval conditions of Morocco, as they are but superficially affected by European contact, the scenes being laid in those three countries.

Roy N. Hair, musical director of the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, was seriously injured while boarding a car in Brooklyn last Monday evening. The car started before Mr Hair was firmly on, throwing him violently upon his head, and cutting a gash which required eight stitches to close. His left arm was also badly sprained. Concussion of the brain was for a time feared, and although that danger is thought past, it will doubtless be some time before his friends will see him in his accustomed place.

After the arduous work and constant travel of twenty seasons in one play and part, Lewis Morrison retired from the role of Mephisto in Faust after playing it five thousand times. The temporary retirement lengthened into two years. His California home and pleasant social surroundings proved strong inducements to retire permanently, for Lewis Morrison is one of the few actors who possesses a competency. He has evidently caught the old fever again, however, for he is to represent, Nuremberg in a new scenic production of Faust.

Richard Mansfield and his fine company gave Kansas city two nights of He ry V on May 13, 14. Mr. Mansfield occupied the stage of the Auditorium Theatre, the Woodward Stock company, resigning the house to him on those days. The business done by Henry V was very good. Mr. Mansfield came near having his tour cut short, however, by quarantine against smallpox, and had the health officers been a little more sure of their diagnosis even the August Mansfield person would not have been spared. It came about through one of the local supers who was discovered to have smallpox after playing two nights on the same stage as Mansfield. The super was sent to the hospital for contagious disease, and the Mansfield train pulled out a few minutes ahead of the health officers, who hastened to the station.

Edna Wallace Hopper is making a great sensation in New York and has received a full advertisement from a little event, speaking of which the Dramatic Mirror says. "There was no matinee at the Casino on Saturday. It was given out that this extraordinary hiatus in Florodora's long run was due to the fact that Edna Wallace Hopper, of the cast, desiring to attend a horse race, yeleft the Brooklyn handicap, at Gravesend track, Saturday afternoon, had bought out the house, paying $1,700 or so for same, never dreaming of course, that she might have an understudy. The Casino press agent even exhibited photographic facsimiles of Mrs. Hopper's cheque, and so who could doubt the truth?"

Then Sunday's papers told how Mrs. Hopper went to the race, lost ever so much on the winner but—ah, happy chance!—made up nearly all of it on the Why?

Why is Fry's Cocoa pure and rich and delicate in flavor, and most economical to use? Why does it go farther than others? Why is it called the household Cocoa? Because it is concentrated and nothing but absolutely pure Cocoa. "Best" because no other is quite so good. There is "much in little" in
