HARD, RACKING COUGH.

Barring accidents, the person who gets along with the least amount of cough will live the longest. Of course, the right time to attack a cough is at the commencement, when it is a simple thing for the right treatment to drive the cough quickly away. As a general thing, however, people spend so much time experimenting with various remedies that the cough is well under way before they know it. Then comes the long siege. You feel the hard, racking all through your system, and get relief from nothing. You fill your stomach with nauseating mixtures to no purpose. Then you use compounds containing narcotic, which deceive temporarily, and leave you sicker than ever. Some coughs of this kind hang on for weeks or even months, and of course, they frequently develop into serious lung troubles. A true specific for all coughs is Admson's Botanic Cough Balsam, and it should be kept in the house against every emergency. With a cough that has become chronic the first effect of this remedy is a lessening of the dull sensation of pain which usually is felt with such a cough. Then you are conscious that the soreness is leaving you and presently the desire for cough grows less frequent. All this process is brought about by the healing properties of the Balsam. It is a compound of barks and gums. You can test it, 25 cents at any druggist's. Get the genuine with "F. W. Kinsman & Co." blown on the bottle.

A school for the deaf and dumb is given up to studies in still life.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr THOMAS' EXTRACTIVE OIL, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of irremediable rheumatism, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonary and corrective.

They scared me with hobgoblins When I was a little lad They scare me now with microbes, And they're pretty near as bad.

PREVENT DISORDER.—At the first symptoms of intestinal disorder, Farnes' Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventive of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

When a blind man falls in love he can truly say that his sweetheart is out of sight.

DO NOT DELAY.—When through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Farnes' Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assail the intruder. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.
