“OUT OF SORTS.”

Nothing tastes good. Nothing gives pleasure. The mind is dull and sluggish. The will is weak. Little things cause great irritation. What's the matter? The probabilities are that the stomach is deranged and the liver involved.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes a man who is run down and dispirited feel like a new being. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, stirs the sluggish liver into action, and increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so that there is an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Dr. Edward Jacobs, of Marengo, Crawford Co., Indiana, writes: "After three years of suffering with liver trouble and malaria I gave up all hopes of ever getting stout again, the last chance was to try your medicine. I had tried all the home doctors and received but little relief. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his Pleasant Pellets I am stout and hearty. It is due entirely to your wonderful medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Plethoric Picnic Pie.

The joyous picnic season is here, but that it does not bring peace and happiness to all alike is clearly shown by a composition written on the subject by a girl in a New York school:

"May parties will soon be ripe, and the June walk season will follow hard upon. The difference between a May party and a June walk is a simple matter of chronology. Each has its queen of brief authority and its chaperon of absolute sway. Each has also its hamper, which is as deadly an enemy to the Manhattan populace as the frying pan to the Kansas farm-hand. I took an inventory of one of these hampers last year, and as I was a member of the physiology class at the time, it startled me out of a session's growth.

"When the hamper was opened the chaperon drew forth one bag of sandwiches and one pie; one bottle of pickles, one pie, one sponge cake, one pie, one roast chicken, one pie, one bottle of lemon juice, one pie, one bag of assorted cookies, one pie, one dozen doughnuts, one pie, one package of biscuits and one pie. This was all, except that there were a few extra pies at the bottom, for the purpose of forestalling famine.

"The chaperon wondered after luncheon why the boys and girls didn't enter into their play with as much zest as they did when they first arrived at the park. I didn't. I was studying history at the time and only a few days before a lucid explanation had been given why the boa-constrictor takes a month's nap after dining on far more digestible food than anything I saw in Central Park that day.

Temptation.

In our carelessness we too often tempt other people, sometimes without knowing it. Sir Edward Malet writes in 'Shifting Scenes' that he had gone to a hotel, at Milan, and eager to see the sights, sallied forth, leaving his portmanteau yawning, his dressing case ajar, and money on the table.
 I thought of nothing save that I was once more in Italy. Still I locked my door, and took the key with me.

When I came back, an aged and shriveled housemaid followed me into the room. She was wringing her hands.

"Ah, mie signora!" cried she, going up to the dressing table and opening a little drawer. "Is this yours?"

In the drawer lay ten or dozen gold pieces.

"Yes," I said, "they are mine."

"Ah, signore, how could you do it? How could you do leave this money about? It was all lying on the table."

"Why, I locked my door. I knew it was safe."

"No," she cried, "it was not safe! It was cruel to put such temptation in my way! She sank upon a chair and burst into tears. 'Think of me, signore. I am very poor. I have six children to keep and a husband who can do no work. The money would make me rich, and you leave it on the table, the gold pieces all loose to dazzle my eyes and to put the devil into my heart! Through your thoughtlessness I might go to jail, my children might starve, my husband die. Ah, signore mio. never do it again! Think of the poor. Be merciful to us. Do not put temptation in our way.'

Just as Good!

Perhaps! Don't you run the risk, though, but always buy the well tested and sure pop corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Sure, safe and painless. Putnam's removes corns painlessly in twenty four hours. If your druggist does not sell it, send 25 cents to N. C.
