McAlpine's City Directory for this year has been published and is in many respects the best directory yet issued. It is much fuller than those of past years and is in every way a most useful publication. All the banks with the names of the agents are given and all incorporated companies with their officers are set forth. In the names of firms the partners are given and throughout the book each page of the name list has at the top a black letter index of first and second letters will catch the eye. The price of the book to non-subscribers is $3.50 and is on sale at McMillan and Nelson & Co.,

First Lady M. A.

Miss Annie M. Bigney has just received the M. A. degree from Kings. She graduated B. A. from Mt. Allison in 1898 and has since been making a specialty of German under Prof Bober. Miss Bigney enjoys the unique honor of being the only lady on whom classic Kings has ever conferred the degree of M. A. At her graduation the students sang "For she is a jolly good fellow" and gave three enthusiastic cheers for "our lady graduate." She is a daughter of Rev. J. G. Bigney of Hantsport.

Orange Excursion.

The Orangemen's excursion to Mencten yesterday proved to be a very successful event. The 12th of July has a record of being a fine day and this year was no exception to the rule. The number of excursionists who took advantage of the cheap rates from Fredericton, and St. John were very large and all speak of enjoying themselves thoroughly.

A Pleasant Time.

A very pleasant Strawberry festival was held at the Mater Misericordiae Home on Sydney street on Wednesday. The inmates of the institution had a very enjoyable time. In the evening a musical and literary programme was carried out and altogether the affair was one long to be remembered by those in attendance.

Physician and Soldier.

A Sergeant of Royal Engineers who has lately returned from Africa, tells a good story in a London daily of Lord Kitchener's stern sense of justice. In the sergeant's company there was a private who always did his duty in a quiet, unobtrusive manner, which gained for him a certain respect from his immediate superiors and companions. One morning this man presented himself at the office and reported that he was ill and unfit for duty. He was ordered to appear before Doctor X., the medical officer of the corps, who pronounced him in good health and ordered him back to duty.

Against this order there was no appeal, and the soldier returned to his work, which was preparing planks for a temporary bridge. He found it impossible to work, and mentioned the fact to the sergeant, with whom he was on most friendly terms.

"Why not lay the case before Lord Kitchener?" asked the sergeant. "He is in the office now."

"Oh, I dare not," replied the man. "He is too stand-off and cold."

"Well, if you're afraid, I'll do it myself," said the sergeant, and he did.

"Order the man here at once," said Kitchener, without looking up, "and also Doctors Y. and Z."

Each of these doctors he made examine the man in his presence. Doctor Y. reported "typhoid in a marked stage," and Doctor Z made the same diagnosis.

"Send for Dr. X. immediately!" said Lord Kitchener.

"Please Dr. X. examine this man carefully. He is either ill or malingering."

Dr. X performed the commanded task, and nervously said: "Sir, I fear that I have made a slight mistake. This man is in the early signs of typhoid."

"Have the man at once removed to the hospital," came the order, "and you sir, apply to the adjutant for your papers, and at your earliest convenience return to England."

A Plunge in Oil

There is a story told of Mr. Rockefeller's first venture in the oil business. Indeed, he has been known to tell the story himself with evident appreciation of its humor. It was away back in the early sixties, when he was engaged in the grain business in Cleveland, Ohio.

One of his customers a Mr Breed, was the owner of an oil well at Titusville. Mr Rockefeller became interested in the account of the well, and consented to go to see it with a prospect of purchasing. The next week he appeared. Mr Breed tells of this visit.

"The well was about eight miles below Titusville on Oil Creek. The roads were very bad and we rode horseback. We left the horse tied to a tree and went the last half mile on foot. The path led over a sort of bayou six feet across. The oil men threw the sediment from the oil tanks into the bayou and the mixture of oily mud and water was inky black.

"To cross the bayou we had to walk a log, which was slippery from the snow of the previous night. I crossed safely, and was about to offer Mr Rockefeller a helping hand when he slipped and fell into the bayou.

"He sank into the tarry mud nearly to his hips, ruining his clothes, which happened to be new and light-colored. It took us half an hour, working with barrel-staves to scrape off the tar, so that he could walk. His first remark after he was out of the bayou was: 'Breed you've got me into the oil business head and ears.'

"He bought the oil and a new suit of clothes before he left Titusville. Mr. Rockefeller and rarely meet, but when we do we always have a laugh over his first plunge into the oil business."

A great many people live according to their convictions, especially those who reside in the penitentiary.

Your Nose

That is what you should breathe through—not your mouth.

But there may be times when your catarrh is so bad you can't breathe through it. Breathing through the mouth is always bad for the lungs, and it is especially so when their delicate tissues have been weakened by the scrofulous condition of the blood on which catarrh depends.

Alfred E. Yungse, Roerstown, Pa., suffered from catarrh for years. His head felt bad, there was a ringing in his ears, and he could not breathe through one of his nostrils nor clear his head.

After trying several catarrh specifics from which he derived no benefit, he was completely cured, according to his own statement, by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

This great medicine radically and permanently cures catarrh by cleansing the blood and building up the whole system.

HOOD'S PILLS are the favorite cathartic. 25c.

Odd Number Unlucky.

During a course of lectures on "Scotland and the Scots" an Oxford professor delivered a feeling tribute to the interperity and endurance of the sons of the earth.

"These hardy men," remarked the professor, "think nothing of swimming across the Tay three times before the breakfast."

The respectful silence which followed this announcement was broken by a loud guffaw from the middle of the room.

"Sir," said the professor angrily addressing the culprit, "perhaps you will explain what you mean by this outburst?"

"I was not thinking sir," replied the offender, "that if your story be true, the poor Scotch chaps would find themselves on the wrong side for their clothes."

A Dream Dispelled.

The woman was standing in the doorway, shading her eyes with her hand. She called across the garden:—

"You, Innocence Williams! Come in honey, outeu that hot sun. You'll burn yer little cheeks ez brown ez a berry. Come in, Innocence!"

One would have expected to see a fairy-like creature rise, as from the heart of a flower, and drift dreamily over the violet beds. But instead a gaunt, tall figure, with face browned and bonneted, shambled toward the house, dragging a dead rattlesnake by its rattles.

It was Innocence Williams. "Thar, mammy!" she explained, tossing the snake over the palings. "That makes 10 I've kilt sence the fust o' June!"

Respectfully Referred.

As the Green Bag has it, Chief Justice Marshall used to narrate with great glee the following correspondence on a point of honor between Governor Giles of Virginia and Patrick Henry;

"Sir" wrote the governor, "I understand that you have called me a bobtail politician, I wish to know if it be true, and if true, your meaning."

"R. W. Giles."

Patrick Henry's reply came promptly: "Sir, I do not recollect calling you a bobtail politician at any time, but think it probable that I have. I can't say what I did mean; but if you will tell me what you think I meant, I will say whether you are correct or not."

Very Respectfully, "Patrick Henry"

This was leaving it to Giles with a vengeance; but as there were no further correspondence, the Governor of Virginia must have read satisfaction somewhere between the lines of Patrick Henry's brilliantly equivocal reply.

Bronchitic Sufferers

Act foolishly. If they improve ever so little when the fine weather comes, they relax effort and drift back into the old condition which it possible, becomes more chronic. Hit Bronchitis hard in the summer and you'll get rid of it, and drive it right out of the system. In winter it is almost impossible to do this. Inhale Catarrhozone regularly, it's a dead sure thing on Bronchitis. It goes into the most minute air cells of the lungs, bathes all parts of the bronchial tubes with its healing, germ destroying vapor, and cures every time. Highly endorsed by all competent druggists and doctors. 25c. and $1.00.

Crimsonbeak—I think a crab is about the most stubborn thing I know of. Yeast—How so? "Why, you can go and row about the river for hours and never get a bite, but if you happen to get one measly specimen in the boat you've got to be an acrobat to keep from getting a bite, every minute."

In Fashion Land.

All that is best in dress is certainly of a soft, clinging description.

The girl who always looks crisp and fresh gives her bathing suit a pressing between each dip.

The fondness for white this season is extending even to the tennis and outing suits.

Touches of black velvet to touch off the gown or hat are becoming almost indispensable.

The thin dresses of the summer are notable for their simplicity. Quaint, old fashions are being revived, and on muslins, swisses, and the like, simple lines and trimmings rule.
