The Fiance—Mrs. Malaprop—That young Mr. Jenkins. Has engaged to be married, you know M. s. Gobbie—Indeed? And is that the young woman with the... M. s. Malaprop—Yes that is it.

Christmas week is always dull in society circles and this year for many reasons there has been especially the case, but with the new year the prospects are that the season of gaiety will begin again. Of course there may be arrivals and departures on account of the holidays but many who have failed to observe the recent health regulations found it inconvenient to come to St. John.

The sudden illness of Mrs. McKeown a bride of a short time from smallpox shocked the community but all are glad to know that she is not in a serious condition.

Captain Akerys sudden death at the residence of his brother-in-law when he had just arrived to spend Christmas was particularly distressing because his aged wife was there to greet him and the arrangement was to spend a few days in the City with their numerous friends. The Captain has lived in Fredericton a long time and all who knew him had the greatest respect for him.

Mr. H. J. Anderson brought home his bride a few days ago and the announcement is made that she is in St. John for the holidays and many pleasant events are understood to be in contemplation for them.

The afternoon and evening of the festival day were marked by good theatrical performances in the Opera House and York Theatre, the former having the excellent Baker Stock Company, which has now gone to Halifax, and the York, the old time favorite, Price Webber, and Elvina Grey. It would not be Christmas in St. John without Mr. Webber and his Company. He has always had excellent patronage and this year was no exception.

Miss May B. Carter of St. Stephen spent a day or two in the city on route to visit her sister Mrs. King at St. John's Creek.

Mr. F. Shary went to Fredericton Tuesday evening. He expects to visit Toronto in a few days and will be absent some time.

Mrs. E. S. Carter is spending a few days in Fredericton the guest of her mother Mrs. Fenely at Linden Hall.

Mrs. James Stratton, who has been the guest of her daughter for the past five months has returned to Ottawa.

Rev. G. D. Ireland, of Woodstock, is spending the holiday in the city, the guests of Rev. Dr. Fraser. James Curran of Chatham, spent the holiday with friends in the city.

Harry Domville arrived from Dawson to spend the holiday with his father, Col. D. M. Domville at Rotheray.

Mr. and Mrs. McNally returned from Chatham to spend Christmas in the city.

John Dick spent Christmas with his family and will return to Kentville on Monday.

Lieut. Grant M. Farrell of Halifax, formerly attached to the B. R. C. I. at Fredericton, has received a lieutenant's commission in the new Canadian contingent.

Alvan McAvity, son of John McAvity is home for Christmas on H. V. R. D.

Norman McLeod of the Metropolitan Insurance Company went to Fredericton Tuesday to spend the holidays with his parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. McLeod.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Farmer of Hampton were guests of Mrs. Palmer, Queen Square on Christmas day and Thursday.

Tute's Distinction.

'Tute' is an old negro well known, according to the Philadelphia Ledger, to many of the attaches of the city hall, for whom he does odd jobs at their homes.

One day Tute asked one of his employers if he would kindly read a note for him. The request was granted. The note proved to be a perfectly legible request for the Tute's services as a white-washer and cleaner of cellars.

'Why, Tute,' said the man, 'this is very plainly written, and you ought to be able to read it yourself. I have frequently seen you reading the papers.'

'Well, that's just it,' replied Tute. 'I kin read readin' readin', but I can't read writin' readin.'
