THINGS OF VALUE.

Pearl—I don't believe the Van de Courtneys keep any servants. Rubr—Why do you think so? Pearl—Because you never see any broken bric-a-brac in their ashbox. Mrs Wunder—Yes, our new cook is an awfully good girl, but I think she is almost fanatical. Mrs Askie—How is that? Mrs Wunder—Why, she is so opposed to flirting that she will not mash the potatoes. There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill, it might aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound undiluted state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the frailties of the system are strengthened and its strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite, and health. Lyman of Toronto, has given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

Deacon De Goode—Why don't you go to church, neighbor? Neighbor—No time. Churches are too slow for this age. They don't fit into our 20th-century millennium civilization, no sirree. 'Um—well, what would you suggest instead?' 'Can't say exactly, but it ought to be some sort of a put-a-nickel-in-the-slot-and-save-your-soul machine. Cannot be beat.—Mr. D. Steinbach, Zurich, writes:—"I have used DR. THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL in my family for a number of years, and I can safely say that it cannot be beat for the cure of croup, it cuts and sprays. My little boy has had attacks of croup several times, and one dose of DR. THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL was sufficient for a perfect cure. I take great pleasure in recommending it as a family medicine, and I would not be without a bottle in my house." "They say that 'Mam' Poppin is so busy getting new photographs of herself that she has no time to think of marriage." "Yes. Man proposes and Mame just poses." It may be only a trifling cold, but neglect it and it will fasten its fangs in your lungs and you will soon be carried to an untimely grave. In this country we have sudden changes and must expect to have coughs and colds. We cannot avoid them, but we can effect a cure by using Bickie's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that has never been known to fail in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis and all affections of the throat. Dittydent—Well, old man, I have at last summoned enough courage to propose to Miss Spinster, who lives next door. Noxley—Good! And are you going to be married? Dittydent—O, I can't tell that; you see she hasn't answered my letter yet. Suffer No More.—There are thousands who live miserable lives because dyspepsia dulls the faculties and shadows existence with the cloud of depression. One way to dispel the vapors that beset the victims of this disorder is to order them a course of Farnese's Vegetable Pills, which act among the best vegetable pills known, being easy to take and are most efficacious in their action. A trial of them will prove this. Church—I want you to know that I wear no man's collar! Gotham—No; I judge by the way it looks that your wife made the one you have got on now. A Recognized Regulator.—To bring the digestive organs into symmetrical working is the aim of physicians when they find a patient suffering from stomach irregularities, and for this purpose they can prescribe nothing better than Farnese's Vegetable Pills, which will be found a pleasant medicine of surprising virtue in bringing the refractory organs into subjection and restoring them to normal action, in which condition only can they perform their duties properly. "Dogs are a good deal like human beings, aren't they?" "Yes, they are. For instance, take yours. That dog is stupid enough to have a pedigree a yard long."

He Believed He'd Remain.

An absent minded farmer had an unfortunate experience at a Memphis hotel, which has induced him to jot down a few important words for use the next time he goes to the city. He registered at the desk shortly after supper, and hung about the office until nine o'clock, when he remarked to the clerk that he believed he would 'remain.' 'Very well,' said the affable clerk. Another hour went by, and the old

CROUPY COUGHS OF CHILDREN.

The tendency to croup is a foe that all parents have to fight. Croup comes in the night, when the help must be right at hand if it is to help at all. Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam is a blessing to all families where there are children subject to attacks of croup or any mean cough. It has a wonderful reputation for its efficiency and fully deserves it. You cannot tell what night your child may wake up choking to death with croup. In such a case what do you do? Send for a doctor and wait an hour, or perhaps two hours, while the child is gasping for breath? How much simpler where the true specific for croupy coughs and all throat troubles is right at hand. Indeed, no other way is safe with young children in the house. Adamsen's Cough Balsam is a most delicate medicine for children, relieving the little throats at once. Its action is soothing and certain. It clears out the phlegm, which produces the croupy condition, and is a safeguard which no mother who knows about it will dispense with. All coughs and inflammation of the throat or bronchial tubes are cured by the Balsam with promptness that surprises. All druggists sell it. 25 cents. The genuine has "F. W. Kinsman, & Co." blown in the bottle.

farmer came again to the desk, and observed with decision: 'I say, I believe I'll remain.' 'Of course by all means, if you wish,' again replied the clerk. As the clock struck eleven the old man, now so sleepy that he could barely keep his eyes open, angrily called out: 'By gum, I say I believe I'll remain!' 'Certainly, so you've said,' answered the clerk, 'and when you're ready to retire you can find your key at the desk.' 'Retire!' yelled the farmer, jumping to his feet. 'That's the word I've been trying to think of for two hours. Gi' me that key. I'll sleep till ten o'clock tomorrow to make up for lost time!'

Wouldn't It Jar You. (With Apologies in the New York Journal.)

If you were the director of the Louisville May Festival chorus. And your chorus was composed mostly of member of church choirs, Sunday school pupils, and ministers. And you selected Villiers Standford's Phaudrig Crohoon for the chorus to sing. And in the chorus occurred the words 'The same was like Hell.' And the ministers and Sunday school teachers objected to singing the naughty word. And when it came to rehearsal only a few unregenerated sons of Belial sang it. And the rest of the chorus struck, and forced you to change the objectionable line to 'The same was right well.' Wouldn't it make you mad?—The Concert-Goer. Disheartening. Even the clergyman, noble and inspiring as his vocation is, has now and then his bad moments. 'O sir,' said a poor man to a Scotch minister, who was by no means a popular preacher, 'well do I like the day when you give us the sermon.' 'Indeed,' said the minister, flushing with pleasure, 'I wish there were more like you, my good woman; it is seldom I hear such words from anyone.' 'Maybe their hearing's stronger than mine, sir,' said the woman, promptly, 'but when you preach I can always get a good seat.'

When we observe a family row that has been handed down from generation to generation we conclude that it must have been thoroughly well kick up in the first instance.
