THE public are hereby informed that the office of Impost and Excise (for collecting provincial duties) is held at the house of William Tyng, Esq; Water-street. The owners of such cargoes as have been entered at the Custom-House office, and owing to the illaess of the late Collector of Impost and Excise not made entry of in the said office of Impost and Excise, are requested immediately to attend this office with a manifest of their cargoes.

THOMAS BARCLAY,
Collector of Impost and Excise Duties for the District of the River St. Johns.

Part Town, April 17, 1784.

SAMUEL D. STREET,
NOTARY PUBLIC,
and Conveyancer,

WILL transact all Notarial business, &c. (for the present) at Major Stodholm's Office, Fort-Howe.

HARBOURED, or otherwise CON-CEALED.

THE following Negroes belonging to the subscriber, viz. Edward Morris, an elderly negro about five feet five inches high, by trade a mason, has a remarkable wound in his forehead which shews a hole resembling a bullet shot, is a celebrated methodist preacher among the negroes, was bred at Fairfield in Connecticut; also Charity his wife, a half bred Indian of the tribe on Long-Island, province of New-York, and a small boy about eleven years of age, son of the said wench by an Indian father.

Andrew Bush, a comely stout negro, remarkable high forwarded, generally called the Widow's Peek, formerly the property of Doctor Bush, in Connecticut, is a remarkable good miller, which practice he has been used all his life to, also his wife Eanus, a yellow mustee.

And Peter Cock, a young negro, comely countenance, bandy with one leg, and has spent best part of the last six months at the house and in the neighbourhood of a person named White Raymond, in or near the lower cove, at Parr.

N. B. The subscriber thinks it his duty to apprise the public that for the better security of indented servants, slaves, &c. there is a law of the province enacting, that any person harbouring, concealing, or otherwise encouraging indented servants, apprentices or slaves from their master or their service, for every such offence shall forfeit the sum of ten pounds, &c. And whereas the subscriber is well informed that a certain Mr. Dibble, has encouraged some of the aforesaid servants, and as he is determined, however secure said Mr. Dibble may suppose himself by virtue of his commission of the peace, assures the public, however exalted the person, that he is determined on putting the laws in force against said Dibble: And as he the said Mr. Dibble, after taking great pains to council and recommend the subscriber's servants, by lodging a vexatious and false complaint before three Magistrates, in hopes by such complaint to have them liberated, but failing in this, for which the peculiar thanks of the subscriber is due to John Coffin, Esq; for his impartiality in hearing and judiciously determining the same to be false, vexatious and groundless, has endeavoured, by various means and arts, to become proprietor of said sub-scriber's indented servants, under pretence of purchasing them, but which subscriber hereby, as he has done before, informs him, said Dibble, that he will not have any bargain, or other negotiation whatever touching the above servants, with him, and hereby once more forwards him from farther harbouring, concealing, or otherwise preventing said negroes from returning to their duty, under penalty of the law in such case provided.

And the subscriber, tenacious of doing an injury to any individual who has innocently, and unaware of the above penalty, employed any of the aforesaid deserters, most particularly submits the danger of such conduct to their serious consideration, and hopes for their readiness in apprehending and returning to the said proprietor the above indented persons, and in particular the gentlemen who are well known to the subscriber, who for some months past, at Mauderville, have employed the above mentioned Andrew Bush and Eanus his wife, which will be acknowledged with gratitude, the contrary will be deemed injurious to the party, and recompence will be sought accordingly.
