

POETS' CORNER.

SONG.

"THE HOUSE OF BRUNSWICK."

Tune.—"The Muses at ambrosial treat."

Sung at the Pitt Club by Mr. TAYLOR, with great applause.

When Britain, great and brave in vain,
Saw Slavery dark'ning round,
And felt her mighty arm again
With cross and fetter bound;
Turn'd upon Heav'n, her anxious eyes
Beheld the Star of Brunswick rise.

Broad as the beacon's sudden flame
Along the mountain's brow,
In gath'ring light the Splendour came
To wake the land below;
But never on the cloud of war
Shone emblem, like that golden Star.

Ris'n, upon man, to set no more,
It beam'd along the wave;
Till Britain's Isle, from shore to shore,
The rich reflection gave.

Then stopp'd the orb its course on high,
Above thy cradle, Liberty!
Britain! thy heart is firm and bold,
And keen thy native spear;
And never lip of mortal told
To thee the words of fear,
Nor e'er did mortal laurel twine
On helm or diadem like thine!

Yet, prouder praise; that, Liberty,
Where'er her footsteps roam,
Teaching her sons to live or die,
Makes the green isle her home.
And while she lingers in our sphere,
That Star shall point her temple here.

A cloud may o'er its lustre sail,
The cloud shall roll away;
The hand of Heav'n its radiance veil,
It beams with dearer ray.
Still to the nations blazing far,
Britain's lov'd guide! THE BRUNSWICK STAR.

FROM THE BOSTON CENTINEL.

The following Dirge to the memory of Dr. JOHN WARREN, last Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, &c. &c. written by the Rt. W. and Rev. Dr. HARRIS, was sung with great effect by a select choir of Amateurs, in Grand Lodge.

BEGIN we now the song of woe
Whose strains in mournful numbers flow;
Sad are the rites funereal paid,
Solemn the requiem for the dead.

Brethren! we all remember well
On glory's mount how Warren fell;
And we, with thoughtful duteous care,
Raised and inscribed a column there.

Another, and like honor'd name
Allied by birth, and worth, and fame
Now claims that tribute of our praise
Which here our band fraternal pays.

Alike by wise and good rever'd,
Alike to Masonry endear'd,
A Master once our Lodge to guide
Its light, and ornament, and pride.

Skill'd in the healing art to ease
The wretched victim of disease,
And by his kindness to impart
A balsam to the wounded heart.

Those who confided in that skill
Now sink despondent o'er their ill,
And oh! what now the hearts shall cheer
His presence once enliven'd here?

Others regret a friend remov'd,
We mourn a brother most belov'd:
They plant the cypress near his shrine,
Around it we the cassia twine.

Brother! while here we shall remain
We will thy memory retain:
And closing then our Lodge, we'll rise
To meet in that above the skies,

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

House of Commons, May 22.

The Regent's Message.

Lord Castlereagh appeared at the Bar of the House, and announced a Message from His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, which was read by the Speaker, as follows:

"G. P. R.

"His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, acting in the name and on the behalf of his Majesty, thinks it right to inform his faithful Commons, that in consequence of events which have recently taken place in France, in direct contravention of the Treaty entered into at Paris last year for preserving the peace of Europe, has judged it necessary to enter into engagements with his Allies, to adopt such steps as circumstances may require against the common enemy, and for preventing the revival of measures which could only have for their object to destroy the Peace and Liberties of Europe; and his Royal Highness confidently relies upon the House of Commons to support him in such steps as he may find it necessary to take, in conjunction with his Allies, at this momentous crisis,

"His Royal Highness has given orders that copies of the Treaties into which he has entered with the Allies should immediately be laid before the House for its information."
