BOSTON, MAY 9.

Spanish Pirate.

Capt. Gatechair, of the sch. Milford, arrived at Baltimore, relates the following piratical conduct of a Spanish privateer. The subject we trust, will arrest the immediate attention of government; and such measures be adopted, as to secure our merchant vessels against similar depredations.

"May 2, at 2, P. M. latt. 32. 30, long. 74, discovered a sail in the N. W. standing to the E. took her to be an American sch'r apparently desirous of speaking us. At 3, P. M. within gun-shot, she hoisted an English ensign, and fired a gun to windward, which struck within a few yards of our cut water; when within hail ordered me under his lee, to get out my boat and bring my papers on board; at this moment found her to be manned by Spaniards, but finding it impracticable to make my escape, got out my boat and went on board with three hands—immediately on my arrival, I and my crew were ordered out of the boat, which was instantly manned with 5 Carthagenians, armed with pistols and cutlasses, who boarded the Milford, and after having mustered all hands aft, commenced plundering, which they did to a considerable amount. In the mean time, (after a consultation among the officers of the Pirate) I was informed that it was their intention to burn the Milford, and was told I must either stay on board of them, or with my crew take my boat and proceed on my way. After remonstrating with the commander some time, stating that part of the schooner belonged to me that I was a young man with a family just begining the world, and the loss the sch'r would be the total ruin of me and my family. I was told after a second consulation among themselves, that on account of my family they would allow me to proceed on my way. At this moment I perceived those on board the Milford, hoisting out the hold some cases of valuable dry goods. I immediately turned to the commander and informed him that those goods belonged to a young man passenger on board, and the loss of the goods would be his certain ruin. After pleading in this manner a considerable time, he ordered his men to return immediately with what they then had, but before they left the Milford they broke open one case of dry goods, and took about one half of the contents with them. On the arrival of the boat, I and my men were allowed to go on board the Milford, and proceed on our way. The Pirate left us under a press of sail standing on his course. At 5, P. M. made sail and stood on our course; at 6 P. M. lost sight of him. The above schooner was formerly the Thetis, of Baltimore, now mounting six long nines, carriage guns, and one long 18 on a pivot. They made particular search and inquiries after Spaniards. They said they were just out of Havana, bound on a cruise off Montevideo. They also state that they had burnt foor American vessels since they were out; the names of which they did not choose to give. I recollect perfectly well of having seen the Captain of the schooner in Baltimore, frequently.
