Commissioner of Crown Lands and Forests.

Department for Crown Lands and Forests,
Fredericton, 25th Sept 1827

We learn the crops in general this Season excellent, wheat excepted, which almost as far as the Tobique River has been seriously damaged by rust, in some instances nearly ruined. Above the Tobique, all through the Madawaska, the wheat is excel-

BARBAROUS OUTRAGE.

We understand that about 3 weeks ago, 2 men in the Parish of Wakefield in this County, one in the employ of Mr. Connell American, and the other an Irishman, being drinking together in the course of the day, quarrelled—in the middle of the night the Irishman returned with three others to a lone house where the American others were sleeping, and dragging the American from his bed, attempted to hang him, failing in their endeavours, they inhumanly threw him upon the fire and burnt him dreadfully, and after otherwise illusing him, left him for dead. The parties are all known, and strange to say they are allowed to go unpunished. We are also informed that about the same time the same persons, suspected, in Woodstock, caught the Deputy Sheriff's horse and cut both his ears off to the head. Such acts cover the inhuman perpetrators with disgrace, and we sincerely trust they will be brought to proper account.

ORDINATION.

On Sunday last, pursuant to notice, the Bishop held an ordination in the Church of St. Paul's. The morning prayers were read by the Rev. W. W. WALKER, and a noble sermon was preached by the Rev. M. A. CRAWLEY, both candidates for the Order of Priesthood. The text which the Reverend gentleman selected, was peculiarly appropriate to the solemn ceremony of the day.—“How shall they preach except they be sent?”—Rom. x. 1st part of 15th verse. The preacher commenced by lamenting in the words of the pious layman, ELSON, that modesty which prevented authorised ministers of God's Word, from sufficiently explaining the authority of their commission, and their peculiar claims upon the attention and respect of their people, clearly traced the scriptural origin of the three distinct orders, which still obtain in the ministry of the Christian Church. From the example of the early founders of heresies among the brethren, and of some teachers who by transgression, or by apostasy, fell; he showed that those who received from Christ Himself the authority of delegating ministerial Commission, were not supernaturally guided in individual appointments, but more than the present Governors of the Church, and that consequently the successors of the Apostles may without presumption exercise this power in the present day. He concluded by expressing a desire, that in the day of the Lord Jesus, the flock of each pastor might be his hope, and his joy, and a crown of rejoicing.

If envy were on such an occasion admitted, or any other feeling than that of rejoicing in the good of our brethren of the Church, we should be disposed to envy our neighbouring Province so promising a young minister. We learn that two of the recently ordained clergy derive their titles for orders from New Brunswick, and are licensed to preach in that Province; that a third is destined for the island of Newfoundland, and we trust that the remaining two will be stationed in their native country.

After the sermon, the Bishop's Chaplain presented the following gentlemen, all graduates of King's College, Windsor, for priest's ordination.—Reverends William W. Walker, B. A. and George M. Cawley, M. A.—and for the order of Deacons, Messrs. Otto Schwartz Weeks, M. A. Mather Byles Desbrisey, B. A. and Ad-dington Davenport Parker, B. A. In the ordination of the former, such priests as were in attendance, Rev. Dr. Rowland, Rector of Shelburne, Rev. E. L. Benwell, Rector of Dartmouth, and the Admiral's and Bishop's Chaplains, assisted for the imposition of hands.

From the devout silence of the people during the pauses which were left in the services, and in which they were affectionately desired by the Bishop to make their prayers secretly to God for His blessing, we trust that these spaces were duly improved; that many an humble supplication was at these impressive moments poured to the throne of Grace, and that the dedicated Ministers of our most Holy Religion, may experience comfort in the persuasion that they possess our regard, are remembered in our prayers, and may depend on our co-operation.

We have great pleasure in quoting the foregoing, particularly as regards the Reverend Mr. M. Cawley, and are happy to embrace this occasion to testify our sincere pleasure at the deserved estimation in which the Reverend gentleman is held in the sister Province. He is indeed an ornament to this Province, and to the sacred profession he has chosen for his pursuit in life; and we believe we utter nothing but the general opinion of this community, in adding, that his virtuous conduct has entitled him to the approbation thus publicly expressed, and we cordially wish the Reverend gentleman every happiness he deserves, and Providence can bestow.

We understand the Reverend Ad-dington Parker, is intended for the Parishes of Prince William and Queensbury; and from what we have learnt, we may congratulate the Inhabitants of those Parishes on the appointment of so promising a labourer in the Vineyard of Christ.

It appears there is no room to doubt the genuineness of the article we copied in our number of the 11th inst. respecting a Treaty for effecting Peace between the Ottoman Porte and Greece, as the Manifesto of the Porte (which will be found in today's Impression) protesting against any interference on the part of a foreign power, must have been delivered in consequence of a knowledge of the existence of some such transaction, notwithstanding the date of the Manifesto being anterior to that of the Treaty. Although we most sincerely hope something will now be done for the pacification of unhappy Greece, we cannot, from the tone of the Manifesto, indulge in any sanguine expectations.—It is said under date, Constantinople, July 10, that the Ambassadors of Russia, England, and France, are waiting for decisive instructions relative to the answer received from the Porte.

Irish Harvest (County of Dublin.)—Within the memory of the oldest man living, there has not been such a prospect at this period of the year. The strength and luxuriance of the wheat, oats, barley, potatoes, &c. &c., almost surpasses belief, and far exceeds all our former experience. In a ride of twenty miles, you will not meet with an unpromising field of corn or potatoes, or scarcely a meadow under the weight of which the earth does not appear to sink.

The Atlas, complaining that the Macadamized streets in London are not sufficiently watered to keep down “the clouds of granite dust which rise with every breath of wind” and threaten serious injury to the eyesight, observes:—“For our own parts, we are convinced that the quantity of granite dust we have received in our eyes during the last two summers, would make a very respectable millstone, if restored to its primitive consistency; and we must frankly confess, that we had rather be excused the credit of seeing through mill-stones in this particular manner—by instalments as it were.”

Professor Brande stated in a lecture, lately delivered at the Royal Institution, that there were eight presses employed in the Mint, and that each press produced 3,600 pieces per hour; but, making allowance for occasional stoppages, the daily produce of each press might be reckoned at 30,000 pieces; the eight presses, therefore, furnish a diurnal average of 240,000 pieces.

Charles Buonaparte, son of Lucien Buonaparte, who resided some years ago in this country, has been several evenings in the House of Peers, to hear the debates, and was with becoming courtesy occupied with a seat near the Throne. He speaks the English language correctly, and with fluency, and seemed to pay great attention to the discussion. He is extremely like his late uncle, Napoleon, in countenance and figure.

The Duchess of St. Alban's intends, it is said, to give a magnificent fete before the close of the fashionable season, at her villa near Highgate.

We understand the late Mrs. Courts has settled £20,000 a year on the Duke of St. Alban's, and that any further expectations, in the event of her death, are rendered contingent. This grant is for his Grace's life only. We have not heard what provision is settled on the issue of the marriage.—(Brighton Gazette.)
