Supreme Court,
EASTER TERM 8 GEO 4TH, 21ST MAY 1827.
John W. Weldon, Esquire Attorney at Law having taken the oaths, was admitted a Barrister of this Court.

On Wednesday, the 9th instant, His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor inspected the Detachment of the 82nd Regiment stationed here under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Creagh.
His Excellency returned to Fredericton from St. John, on the 15th.

London papers to the 16th, and Liverpool to the 17th ultimo, have been received. The new Ministry is the leading topic of discussion. The changes which are rumoured to be likely to take place in consequence of the resignation of those Ministers mentioned in our last, will be found in another part of our paper. We must, however, be content to wait for further information before we can consider any of the arrangements supposed, to be definitive; although there is little room to doubt the elevation of two or three. It appears that neither of the resignations are regretted but that of Mr. Peel the Secretary of the Home Department, who is believed to have acted on this occasion from considerations, arising out of views entirely personal to himself. With regard to the others, the nation received the intelligence of their conduct, at this important crisis, when they knew, themselves, that their united talent was most in requisition, with surprise! The plebeian origin of Mr. Canning, and his overwhelming talents, urged as the unworthy, though of course avowed, motives of their resignation. This is the general language of the English papers. But if, as it is further asserted, the intention of those great persons was merely to testify His Majesty in his choice, and to testify Mr. Canning into a compromise of his transcendent abilities, how completely have they been deceived! The firmness with which His Majesty met this opposition on the part of men in whom he had such confidence and His Majesty's instant determination to conform to their wishes, has only increased
