

their grateful respect, and the kind reception they had given him and the other visitors. In returning the party partook of a collation at the house of George Lee, Esq. Among the Company we noticed the Secretary of the Province and Lady, The Hon. George Shore and Lady, The Hon. Thomas Baillie, Commissioner of Crown Lands, and Mrs. Bartlet Ramsford, also the Hon. S. P. Hurd, Surveyor-General, The Venerable Archdeacon Best, and C. S. Putnam, Esq. Commissioners for Indian Affairs—George, Charles, and Thos. Lee, and James Holbrook, Esq. Several of the officers of the 81st Regiment, the Barrack Master, Dr. Wainford, Dr. Furner, &c. &c.; and many other Ladies and Gentlemen. The Band of the 81st accompanied the Stegias, and played a variety of tunes at the village. The day was exceedingly fine.

TWELFTH NIGHT.

On Saturday evening last, being Twelfth Night, a Juvenile party was given by Lady DOUGLAS, at Government House, to a number of young Ladies and Gentlemen of this town and neighbourhood. Her Ladyship and the Misses DOUGLAS spared no pains to contribute to the amusement of their little guests; and every expedient was resorted to, calculated to excite mirth and merriment. His Excellency took the greatest pleasure in amusing the playful group. Several well-dressed characters were most ably sustained by Capt. DOUGLAS and others; and the whole went off with the greatest spirit; the little visitors being highly delighted with their evening's entertainment.

On our last page we have commenced some very interesting documents, on the subject of the COLONIAL TRADE; and we would beg to direct the attention of our readers to a diligent perusal of them; as they possess very important information, and place this matter in the clearest light.

We have in the present number concluded our Extracts from the chief body of the Pamphlet on the Boundary line; and we shall on Tuesday next, furnish our readers with the Tables alluded to therein. Such observations as we may deem necessary to make upon this work, will follow, in regular order, under the head of our 'Reminiscences.'

The Editor of the Novascotian in his number of the 3rd inst. has noticed our publication of the annual Report of the Society in this Town, under the Patronage of Lady Douglas, for the encouragement of good and honest female servants, in very flattering terms; and we are happy to observe that he is endeavouring to prevail upon the Ladies of Halifax to form a similar society; which we are perfectly satisfied would be followed by the most beneficial advantages. The Editor of the Novascotian, in his remarks upon the subject, thus concludes:—"We can conceive of no institution which can exercise a more judicious or effective influence in improving and rewarding with its proper praise, the moral character of servants. We have before given our feeble counsel upon this subject, but we again earnestly request the Ladies of Halifax to associate themselves into a society of the same kind here; and in doing so we are satisfied, we consult the interest of the servant as much as of the mistress."

ACCIDENT.

Last evening, a Mr. Mills, an industrious farmer, about twelve miles above Fredericton, had the misfortune to have a sled run over him, which broke his thigh bone, dislocated his hip, and otherwise seriously injured him. It is lamentable to state that the messenger who came to Fredericton had to return without any medical assistance.—Communicated.
