

is, the quantity of corn taken out of the market, will be supplied from abroad.

Upon these, and other considerations, we are compelled to suspend our opinions as to the good policy of meddling too extensively with the Corn Laws at the present period. We certainly think rents are generally too high, but should dread any measure which would too suddenly and generally reduce them. And still more must we feel for farmers holding upon leases, many of whom would be ruined by any measure violently reducing the price of corn. The peculiarity of this question is in this point. In manufacturing an overstocked market, and a price too low to pay the cost of production, very briefly remedy themselves—the loom stops, and the market rises. In agriculture—the farmer, who is too generally a man working from hand to mouth, cannot stop—his rent goes on; if he is nearly ruined one year, he must still plough and sow, and hope for the best in the very teeth of all reasonable expectation. It is out of the question to let his land remain idle, and lose such an amount as his rent. Hence, any permanent reduction in the rate of the price, upon which he hired his land, is certain to ruin him. He has no alternative but between becoming a pauper and a farmer. Hence, he sticks to his land to the very last, and is irretrievably ruined, and not unfrequently his landlord is ruined with him.

We trust, however, that no one will so far misunderstand us as to consider us advocates for high rents, and eighty or even a seventy shillings' price of corn. Our proposition is briefly this:—Beware how you thin such a large class of men as that of the British landlords and farmers holding upon leases. Beware, lest this system of free trade carries you into a system, which may totally change the character of the country, and violently root up the ancient stock of English gentry. We have lived enough to see more of this freedom, as it is called, than our sober experience will allow us to approve. In France, we have seen a free people, and we saw how they used their liberty. In England, we have seen a free press, and we daily and hourly see what it is. Mr. Huskisson has lately showed us free trade, and we see the country almost ruined by it. A free navigation has almost destroyed the national predominance of the British shipping interest. Free manufactures have covered the northern counties of England with beggars. There wants now only a free agriculture to bring our Squires to the same level, to reduce them to so many Poor Knights of Windsor, or send them begging to Mr. Huskisson to be employed as excise-men.

Again, however, we say, rents are certainly too high. But the landlords, at this present moment have their rents very ill paid. At the present price of wheat, fifty-four shillings the quarter, farmers find it difficult to rub on. We have no objection to see the average system revised, or abolished; but the fixed, permanent, hereditary interest, in the soil of the country, must be protected.

CHEMICAL EMBROCATION, OR WHITWELL'S ORIGINAL OPODEDOC.

Treble the strength of the hard kind,
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

THIS article is now, beyond all dispute, considered by every Physician of extensive practice in the United States as the best known external remedy in all cases of Bruises, Sprains, Gout, Rheumatism, Cramp, Nummox, Stiffness of the Neck or Limbs, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Stings of Insects, Vegetable Poisons &c.

The use of this celebrated remedy is not confined to the American States. Orders for it are constantly received from South America, the West Indies, Nova Scotia, Lower Canada, and in one instance orders were received from England and Russia.—In a late letter, to the Proprietor from St. Salvador, the writer observes, "Your Opodoc begins to be well known and fully appreciated," &c.

Certificates have been received, sufficient to fill a column of a paper. A few only of the first respectability are attached to the directions—among which is one from a Physician of the highest grade in Europe or America.

Pause before you Purchase.

No one circumstance can more fully prove the value and great demand for this Medicine, than the numerous servile and contemptible imitations in existence—some have so closely imitated the stamp and type of the outside wrapper, as to be difficult of detection, except only by the omission of the NAME. Therefore, as you value your Life or Limb, be sure to ask for and receive only, or you may be most wretchedly imposed upon.

Whitwell's Opodoc

At the same place may be had, the

Aromatic Snuff,

celebrated throughout the American Continent, in cases of Catarrh and Headache, Drowsiness, Depression of Spirits, Vapors, Dimness of Eye-sight, and all disorders of the head. From its most fragrant and grateful quality, it completely counteracts the effects of a bad atmosphere, and being greatly antiputrescent, is indispensable for all who watch with or visit the sick.

The Opodoc, is recommended by Dr. MITCHELL, of New-York, M. D. L. L. D. Professors of Botany and Materia Medica in their College of Physicians: The SNUFF, by Dr. WATERHOUSE, Professor of the Theory and practice of Physic in the University of Cambridge.

The above articles, warranted Genuine, will constantly be kept on hand by SAMUEL KENDALL, jun. who is appointed Agent for the Inventors.

Fredericton, 25th April, 1826.
