

"Silistria, Ghiurgevo, and Rudschuk, still hold out."

Under all these circumstances, therefore, it is very probable we shall receive some important intelligence from the present encampment of the Russians, long before we can hear any thing of the capture of the Turkish capital. We shall furnish some further particulars on this subject in our next.

From late English and Irish papers we have copied many interesting articles in our columns of today, agreeably to our intimation last week.

A General Meeting of the Subscribers to the Fredericton Library, is requested at the Library Room, on Monday next, the 3rd of November, at 12 o'clock.

CATHOLIC QUESTION.

From the New Times, Aug. 25.

That the Duke of Wellington and Mr. Peel are desirous of settling the Catholic question, we do firmly believe. But this desire is common to all Protestants. It must be the anxious wish of every good subject and every loyal man, to see an end put to the heart burnings of Ireland, and the faction which has so long ruled and divided that country, crushed by the strong arm of the law. If the Roman Catholics will give us security, the doors of Parliament will be opened to them at once. All that we seek are those guarantees in favor of the Religious institutions of the country, which will give to the sovereign that wholesome controul over the clergy and Romish missionaries of Ireland, which will secure the loyalty of the Catholic prelates, and the good behaviour of the subordinate priesthood. The Protestants of Great Britain have never demanded more than this, and mean and imbecile would they be, were they to demand less than this. We have offered these to them again and again; these terms we will offer them; these terms, we believe, we will, before long, put it in their power either to accept or reject. If accepted, the question is set at rest—if rejected, a series of measures will be pursued in Ireland, which the Catholics little dream of, and the effects of which, we fear, they will have cause to repent bitterly.

The Duke of Wellington, in his last speech on the question, stated, that if it was settled at all, it could only be settled by a Bill. The policy of negotiating with the See of Rome, the noble Duke considered to be extremely objectionable. That the British government should recognize the authority or the consent of the Pope in any measure intended for the relief and regulation of its own subjects, he was decidedly opposed to. In fact, such a proceeding would be degrading to the dignity and the just rights of the Crown. It would be admitting the existence of a foreign sovereignty, which we deny. The reasoning of the Duke of Wellington was clear and convincing. The Pope of Rome cannot be recognised by any concession; whatever is done for the Catholics must be the free and spontaneous act of the British Parliament.

PROSPECTUS

A WEEKLY PAPER

TO BE ENTITLED

THE NEW-BRUNSWICK RELIGIOUS AND LITERARY JOURNAL.

To be Published at the Office of THE CITY GAZETTE, as soon as a sufficient number of Subscribers shall be obtained to justify the undertaking.

Alexander McLeod, Editor.

In an age which with peculiar propriety is denominated, "THE AGE OF IMPROVEMENT," and in a Colony of the British Empire, which is now fast rising in importance, and in which the means of knowledge are increasing and taking a wider range,—it has been suggested that as true Religion, sound principle, and good morals, are the foundation of every thing that is truly great and excellent in man; that whatever has a tendency in any measure to promote these, is, in a proportional degree entitled to favourable consideration, and to countenance and support from the Public. Periodicals, having religious instruction for their basis, have in other places been found to be a most efficient auxiliary to the labours of Gospel Ministers, and have greatly contributed to the diffusion and spread of the sacred and saving influence of Religion, and of "whatsoever things are true, just, lovely, and of good report."

In compliance with the earnest and repeated requests of persons deeply interested in this subject, and with an humble hope that it may in some small measure, at least, contribute towards so desirable an object, the present work, though with much diffidence, is intended to be undertaken.

The New Brunswick Religious and Literary Journal, as its title imports, will be occupied chiefly with matter of a religious nature and character, and as opportunity offers, with articles of literature and science, morals, domestic economy, and general information. In the religious department will be given, choice selections of Memoirs and Biographical accounts of persons of different religious denominations, who have been eminent for their piety, and their literary attainments and usefulness; well-authenticated accounts of the spread of vital religion; extracts from Missionary and Bible Society, and Sunday School and Tract Society publications and reports, &c. &c. In making these selections and extracts, while a proper respect will be carefully cherished towards the publications and established Institutions of Great Britain and her dependencies, yet, having the vast world before him, the Editor will have no hesitation in extracting from the publications of other countries, whatever he may suppose to be applicable to the circumstances of this and the neighbouring Provinces, and that may in any measure conduce to the prosperity of Religion, to the improvement of Public Institutions, and to the amelioration and improvement of morals.

That this publication will have a favourable aspect towards the doctrines which are taught, and the discipline which is exercised, among that body of christians, with which for many years the Editor has been, and is now connected, may reasonably be anticipated; but, that it shall breathe a liberal, catholic, and friendly spirit, towards other denominations of christians, may with equal confidence, be expected.

As there is not at present, either in this or in the neighbouring Province, in a course of publication, any work of a similar character, it is presumed that the Editor will not be thought to trespass upon, or even to interfere with, any other man's field of labour. And as in a religious point of view, the circumstances and the wants of both Provinces are nearly, if not quite similar to each other, whatever may be found substantially useful to the one, cannot be altogether inapplicable to the other. If this idea be correct, it may not be considered as presuming too much, if a favourable concurrence from the friends of religion in Nova-Scotia, be anticipated.

As usefulness on the most extensive scale, in the departments already mentioned, is the principal object designed in this publication; articles from any quarter, having this object in view, well written, and conceived in a liberal spirit, will be carefully attended to. But, as the Editor will solely be accountable to the public, for the matter which it contains, he must always be understood to have reserved to himself the right of exercising his own discretion upon the articles which may be offered.
