

Queen, and Her Majesty's Royal and beloved Consort."

This address was listened to with great attention, and was clearly heard by many thousands, who could not refrain from cheering several of its noble sentiments. At the end three times three cheers and three more were given for the QUEEN and Prince ALBERT, the Band of the 69th playing "God save the Queen,"—three cheers were then proposed for His Excellency, which was responded to most heartily and unanimously with three times three, one more, and then another, and then three hearty cheers for Lady HARVEY, which His Excellency suitably acknowledged.

The Procession was then re-formed in order, and returned down Germain street to King street and up to the St. John Hotel, where His Excellency alighted and again addressed the Procession from the door of the Hotel, expressing his high gratification with the proceedings of the day, and the enthusiastic reception he had met with from the people of Saint John on an occasion which reflected the highest honour upon them and upon their City, which should always have his most strenuous exertions for its interest.

The various bodies then separated; the trades marched past His Excellency into Charlotte Street, and thence returned to their halls of meeting. The utmost order and regularity prevailed throughout; indeed it was quite admirable to observe the excellent manner in which the procession formed, and kept up its line during the whole occasion.—The day was exceedingly fine, and although the streets were crowded to excess beyond all former precedent, yet no disorder, and not a single accident, however trifling, occurred. Every place from which a view of the procession could be obtained seemed to swarm with human beings, young and old, eager to obtain a view, and not a little astonished as well as delighted with the extent and magnificence of the display which but a few were prepared to expect.

Owing to the shortness of the notice, several of the Trades who intended to join were unable to make the necessary preparation, and many banners which were expected to be displayed could not be finished in time. Those which were borne, and they were not a few, were very magnificent, reflecting great credit on the artists, and the good taste of the different trades who had provided them. The Blacksmiths and those who marched with them had inscribed on their banners "Industry and Benevolence unite us in Friendship." "By Hammer in hand, all Arts do stand." "Arts, Trades and Manufactures." The next banner of the Sons of Vulcan, bearing their Arms was much admired, and they were accompanied by a car, drawn by black horses, with a representation of two smiths at work at their anvil, the loud and incessant strokes of whose hammers (which appeared to have been worked by machinery) were greeted with frequent cheers. The Carpenters, who were very numerous, wore a red scarf, and each carried a long white wand. They bore aloft one banner with the five architectural orders, and one with their arms, on which were inscribed the words "Great Britain, Ireland, and the Colonies." "Union is Strength." The Tailors were preceded by the golden fleece; each man wore a blue scarf, and their banner bore "Concordia parva res crescit." They were accompanied by a car, handsomely fitted up, and drawn by splendidly caparisoned Horses, representing the Garden of Eden. In the centre stood a large tree, hung with abundance of beautiful fruit: the old serpent was twined round the trunk, and the figures of Adam and Eve, as large as life, stood under the branches. The whole of this pageant was exceedingly well got up, and was perfect of its kind. We could not learn to whom the credit of preparing it was due, but whoever it was deserves great praise for taste and skill. The Bakers were very neatly dressed, each man wearing a straw hat (of uniform shape) and blue ribbon, with a snow white apron, and white gloves; their appearance was particularly pleasing and prepossessing. They carried a very large "Horn of Plenty," and the banner of the trade, with the motto "For the good of all." The Cordwainers, a numerous body, were dressed in white pantaloons and white gloves, with uniform aprons of chamois leather, bound with blue ribbon, and trimmed with rosettes of the same. Their splendid banner bore their arms and the motto "Freres Cordonniers."

The banners, we are informed, were chiefly designed by Mr. G. N. Smith, and painted by Messrs. Smith, Holman and Foulis; they reflect great credit on the talents and skill of the artists. It would be impossible, within our limits to give a technical description of the devices, &c. which would be highly interesting to those skilled in Heraldry, or to describe the numerous badges, staves of office, insignia, emblems, models, &c. borne by the several trades, suffice to say, that the pageant far exceeded anything we conceived it possible for New Brunswick to display, and the whole procession produced a most glorious and heart-stirring effect—an effect which will long live in the memories of all who witnessed it, and which we hesitate not to say, will have great and powerful influence upon the destinies of the Province.

DR. GESNER'S MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY.—After the Procession, on Wednesday last, His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, attended by His Suite, visited the large and valuable collection of objects of Natural History belonging to Dr. Gesner. The collection has of late been greatly enriched by numerous specimens of minerals and fossils from the recent discoveries of Dr. G. and by some particularly fine specimens of the deer tribe. A bell moose killed in December last, weighing, when alive, upwards of eight hundred pounds, has been exceedingly well prepared, and set up by the Doctor himself, and this specimen, from its extraordinary size and great beauty, formed a very attractive object, while other good specimens of the caribou and red deer was much noticed. The very extensive collection of British American minerals and fossils, many of them of rare beauty and uncommon richness, excited great admiration as well as surprise, from their displaying such ample proof of the yet hidden wealth of this part of Her Majesty's dominions.—A very neat and almost unique collection of the birds of New Brunswick, was carefully noticed, and his Excellency expressed great satisfaction in being enabled to examine, through the labors of one person, a collection so varied and interesting. On parting, he paid Dr. Gesner a very high compliment for his enthusiastic zeal and unwearied perseverance, which had carried him through labour and fatigue of no ordinary character, and by which the interests of science had been so greatly advanced in these Provinces.

THE STEAM SHIP NORTH AMERICA.—After leaving Dr. Gesner's, His Excellency and Suite proceeded to the Steam Ship North America, where they were received by Mr. Whitney, the proprietor, who waited upon His Excellency over the ship, and pointed out the various arrangements. The neat hangings, the perfect style of finishing, the elegant furniture, and great pains taken to afford every comfort and accommodation to passengers, called forth His Excellency's most unqualified approbation. A table was laid in the Saloon, covered with a great variety of choice refreshments, of which the distinguished party partook, washing down the delicious viands and fruit with brimming glasses of sparkling champagne.—His Excellency proposed the health of Mr. Whitney, and congratulated him on having produced a most superb steam-ship, which he trusted would receive a liberal support, and afford him that rich reward which his enterprise and public spirit so deservedly merited. The toast was drunk in a bumper, and on leaving the ship, His Excellency thanked Mr. Whitney for his courtesy and attention, and assured him that he should always take a lively interest in the success of his spirited undertaking, and should rejoice to hear that it proved profitable and answered his most sanguine expectations.

GRAND BALL IN HONOR OF HER MAJESTY'S NUPTIALS.

On Wednesday evening this splendid affair took place at the St. John Hotel, and was attended by all the beauty and fashion of the City. The rooms were beautifully fitted up with a great variety of tasteful decorations, and a profusion of coloured lamps. The splendid silk and satin banners of the Trades, which had been used in the Procession of the day, were hung from the walls, and were greatly admired. The Band of the 69th Regiment and Mr. Curry's Quadrille Band were in attendance, and Quadrille and Waltz followed each other in rapid succession until one o'clock, when the Supper Rooms were thrown open, and the excellent catering of the Messrs. Scammell received ample justice. His Worship the Mayor presided at Supper, and first proposed the health of Her Majesty Queen VICTORIA and the Royal Consort Prince ALBERT, with every wish for their happiness and welfare in the married state. It is needless to say that this toast was received by all in a manner befitting the occasion, and the many fervent aspirations we then heard for the happiness of the Royal pair, displayed the deep seated loyalty and affection of Her Majesty's subjects in this part of the widely extended dominions of the British Empire. The health of Sir JOHN HARVEY was next given, and was received in the most enthusiastic manner. After the loud and long continued cheering had subsided, His Excellency expressed very feelingly the unmixed pleasure he had enjoyed during his visit to St. John, and the heartfelt gratification he had felt from the cordial and hearty welcome and the numerous courtesies which had been tendered him by persons of all classes and conditions in the City. His Excellency alluded to the hospitality he had received in St. John, on his first visit to it, five and twenty years since, and stated that the favorable impression he then received of New Brunswick, had created a strong desire again to re-visit it, and attach himself to its interests and prosperity.

The health of Lady HARVEY and the fair daughters of New Brunswick was then drunk with three times three and all the honors. His Excellency in acknowledging the compliment, expressed his sincere regret that indisposition had prevented Her Ladyship from joining him in his visit to the City, a disappointment, which he felt assured Her Ladyship would also deeply feel.

Dancing was resumed after supper, and kept up until a late hour. All the arrangements of the Ball were excellent, reflecting much credit on the Managers, and upon the Messrs. Scammell, who so ably and fully carried out their wishes in every particular. A more brilliant Ball, or one which displayed more spirit, gaiety and real enjoyment, has seldom if ever taken place in the City of Saint John.

At a meeting of the Rector, Church-wardens and Vestry of Trinity Church, in the Parish of Saint John, held at the Vestry on Thursday, 28th May, 1840.

Read a letter from the Honorable the Attorney General, as follows:

FREDERICTON, 18th May, 1840.

"GENTLEMEN,—Having this day seen in the last Saint John Courier, the result of a meeting of the members of the Church of England, in the Parish of Saint John, called to take into consideration measures for providing suitable Salaries for the Clergymen of the Parish; and having long entertained an opinion, that the Spiritual Pastors and Teachers of the Episcopal Church, in that flourishing and populous City, as well as in all other large and prosperous communities within this Province, should be maintained and supported in their holy calling, by the members of the Church without extrinsic aid; and feeling much gratified that a measure so deeply connected with the welfare and prosperity of the Church, to which from Gospel principles I belong; and having by the blessing of Providence in my exertions been placed in a situation in my temporal concerns to enable me so to do; I now propose, in furtherance of that christian spirit which so eminently manifested itself at that meeting, and having a large number of children and grand-children, whose spiritual welfare I consider most intimately connected with upholding and supporting the Church of God, as apostolically established through the Redeemer, I beg leave to add my mite, in aid and encouragement of this first and good essay towards its independent establishment, by a subscription of the annual sum of Ten pounds; and to secure the payment of the same I shall transfer by assignment to the corporation of the Church, a Lease of property paying that rent, for the Term of Twenty-one years.

"I have the Honor to be,
"Your obedient servant,
CHARLES J. PETERS."
"To the Rector, Church-wardens, and Vestry of Trinity Church,
in Saint John."

We understand that Patrick Healey was, on Friday last, discharged from his confinement in the Gaol at Kingston, by warrant from His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, sent express for that purpose, Her Majesty having been graciously pleased to extend to him Her Royal Pardon.

It will be remembered, that Healey was indicted jointly with Terence Leonard, James M'Monagle, and Michael Coill, for the murder of Bernard Coyle; and the three first prisoners convicted; Leonard being first tried separately; and the others afterwards tried jointly, at the same time severing in their defenses.

On the trial of Healey, M'Monagle and Coill, the wife of Leonard was tendered as a witness for the defendants, Healey and Coill, but her admissibility opposed as well on behalf of the prosecution, as the other prisoner M'Monagle; and the learned Judge being of opinion that she was incompetent, under the circumstances, rejected the testimony; reserving the question for the consideration of the other Judges, who, subsequently, after hearing an argument from the prisoner's Counsel, confirmed the Judge's opinion.

The Judges agreed in recommending that Healey's sentence should be commuted, and His Excellency was pleased to grant him a reprieve until the Royal pleasure was known. The recommendation of the Judges, together with the notes of the trials, and a written argument of Healey's Counsel were transmitted to England, and laid by the Secretary of State, before the Law Officers of the Crown; who were of opinion that after Leonard's conviction, his wife should have been received as a witness for Healey, as her testimony could not then affect her husband who was already tried, although not sentenced; and according to the merciful course pursued in such cases, they advised a Pardon.

This, as the opinion of Her Majesty's Attorney and Solicitor General, two men of great learning and experience, is entitled to all respect; and although of course not carrying with it the weight which would be given to the judgment of the fifteen Judges of England, yet is the usual authority upon which Government acts in respect to cases from the Colonial Courts.

On another point, submitted also to the Crown Lawyers, they were of opinion that the direction of the Judge at the trial, on the question whether the offence might be reduced to manslaughter, was unexceptionable.—Courier.

Gagetown CANAL.

To connect the waters of the River Saint John with those of Grimross Creek, by cutting through the Intervale at King's Head Tavern.—To be eight feet in depth at all places, to the extent of forty five feet wide on the bottom, and thence tapering on the sides, as will be seen per the plan.

On the River side, the excavations will require to commence at 66 feet beyond summer low water mark, and which low water mark line is to be considered as being at four rods distance, extended into the river or on the bank, from the notched tree standing on the centre of the Highway, and stated to be the bounds between the lands of Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Vail. The excavations for the Canal, beyond the 45 feet on the bottom, to rise on the sides at the rate of two feet bevel for one foot descent, thus leaving the top waters of the Canal 77 feet wide. The excavated earth to be placed on the side grounds and ends of the Canal, as shown by the letters A, B, C, D, and E, on the plan, and the further sides of such excavations to be sufficiently sodded on their faces, except on the piles at the ends.

It is estimated that there may be 32,000 cubic yards to be moved, and the same is supposed to be of alluvial soil, clay and sand. The total length of the Canal, including the River and Creek excavations, so as to carry the eight feet depth of water, is 1047 feet per the plan.

Also,—Driving on each tip of the Canal, at where it joins the River, Twenty Four PILES, of not less than 12 inches, Pine or Spruce Timber, of such lengths as to be at all parts, where required, 4 feet below the bottom range of the Canal, and thirteen feet above it—to be driven of an angling form where required. The spaces inside of such Pile ranges to be filled, from the extreme to the bank, with alternate layers of brush and stone.—Like PILES, to the extent of twice on each tip, to be driven on the Grimross side of the Canal, making in the whole 72 Piles, all of which to be secured by adequate Stringers being placed on the same, when driven.

Parties offering for this work must be prepared with unexceptionable Security, and plans of the grounds, &c. &c. will be found with the Subscribers, at Saint John and at Gagetown, and any required explanations afforded.
