JOHN S. SAUNDERS,
Surveyor General.
Crown Land Office, October 5, 1840.

By permission we publish the following extracts from the General Orders issued by their Excellencies Lieutenant General Sir Colin Campbell, on his departure, and Major General Sir John Harvey, on his assuming the command of the Troops in the Lower Provinces.

HALIFAX, 3d October, 1840.

GENERAL ORDERS.

No. 1.—The Lieutenant General Commanding, being about to return to England, directs, in conformity with instructions from the General Commanding in Chief, that the following arrangements shall take effect on his departure, until further orders:—

1. The command of the Troops in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and their Dependencies, will devolve on His Excellency Major General Sir John Harvey, K. C. B. & K. C. H., the Head Quarters of the Command being transferred to New Brunswick.

2. Colonel Smelt, 37th Regiment, will take charge of the Troops stationed in Halifax, &c.

3. The Heads of Departments at Halifax will report to and receive orders from Major General Sir John Harvey, on all subjects connected with the Service, in the command.

4. Lieutenant Arthur Wellington Campbell, 14th Regiment, who accompanies the Lieutenant General to England, will deliver over the charge of the Military Secretary's Office to Mr. A. G. Blair, First Clerk in the Department, until a Successor to Lieutenant A. W. Campbell shall be appointed by Major General Sir John Harvey.

The Lieutenant General cannot separate himself from the Troops he has so long commanded, without requesting His Excellency Major General Sir John Harvey, to accept his best thanks for the aid and assistance he has so often received from him. His best thanks are also due to the Heads of Departments, as well as to the other Officers, Staff and Regimental, for the zeal and attention they have uniformly displayed in the discharge of their respective duties; he will ever remember with satisfaction that, during a period of more than six years, the Officers serving under his orders have been distinguished—on some occasions, particularly in New Brunswick, under very trying circumstances—for zeal, judgement and discretion.

To the non-commissioned Officers and Soldiers the Lieutenant General Commanding desires also to express his high approbation of their general good conduct, qualified only by a feeling of deep regret for the proneness that has at times prevailed among them, to desert the Standards of their Country—a crime at once disgraceful to them as Men, as Soldiers, and as Christians. This, with a disposition to indulge too freely in the use of spirituous liquors, to which most other irregularities may be traced, are the only serious crimes which the Lieutenant General has had to notice and repress during his command—and he now, at parting, earnestly and solemnly entreats the Troops to subdue propensities, which, while they destroy character, happiness and health, have thrown a shade over the bright and noble qualities for which the British Soldier has ever been distinguished.

The Lieutenant General now bids an affectionate farewell to the Troops under his command, and assures them, collectively and individually, that they will ever have his best wishes for their welfare and prosperity.

HEAD QUARTERS, Fredericton, 2d October, 1840.

GENERAL ORDERS.

No. 1. In obedience to the gracious commands of the Queen, conveyed through the General Commanding in Chief, and His Excellency the Commander of the Forces, Major General Sir John Harvey assumes the command of the Troops stationed in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and their Dependencies, upon the departure of His Excellency Lieutenant General Sir Colin Campbell, and directs that all Orders issued by the Lieutenant General may be considered in full force until further orders.

No. 2.—The Head Quarters of the Division are transferred to Fredericton.

No. 3.—Captain Tryon, 43d Light Infantry, is appointed Military Secretary, and Ensign F. C. Harvey, 34th Regiment, Aid-de-Camp to the Major General Commanding.

No. 4.—Colonel Smelt, C. B., 37th Regt. will take charge of the Troops at Halifax, with the rank and pay of a Colonel on the Staff, with one Aid-de-Camp, until further orders.

No. 5.—Major General Sir John Harvey invites the serious attention of the Troops to the advice so forcibly and affectionately given to them by His Excellency Lieutenant General Sir Colin Campbell, and earnestly hopes that nothing may occur to weaken the strength of the compliment to the general excellence of their conduct, with which that advice is accompanied; it will be the Major General's anxious endeavors to do all that may be in his power to promote their comfort, and he looks to no other return than a continuance of their general meritorious conduct, and an abandonment of those propensities alike injurious to themselves and detrimental to the Queen's service, to which his predecessor has so feelingly adverted.

By Command.

S. TRYON,
Military Secretary.

GENTLEMEN,—The very flattering address which I have received at your hands, as a Committee appointed to present the same, demands my warmest acknowledgements; and while I tender you my sincere thanks for your congratulations, it affords me the highest satisfaction to learn that my conduct in the discharge of the duties of a public situation has met with the approval of so large and respectable a portion of the community;—and I would take this opportunity of publicly expressing, through you, the obligation I feel under to the Inhabitants of Fredericton generally, for the uniform kindness I have experienced from them during my brief residence in this place. I came amongst you a stranger, but I leave you with regret; and can assure you that wherever Providence may direct my steps, Fredericton will always occupy a place in my affections, and to hear of its welfare and prosperity will at all times afford me the most lively satisfaction.
