

experienced and careful navigator, who has been in the service of the company for twenty years, and, as well as the officers and crew, well skilled in the care and navigation of steamers between France and London. The Britannia had her stern knocked away, and a portion of her larboard bow stove in, by the collision. The hole was stopped up by blankets and tarpaulins by the crews of both vessels, and the exterior covered over with canvas, to prevent the water pouring in. The Britannia was not deeply laden, or she would, in all probability, have shared the same fate as the Phenix, and every soul on board the two steamers would have perished.

The passengers belonging to the Phenix consisted of forty persons, and the crew, engineers, stokers, and firemen, to thirty more, and a majority of them were below in their sleeping berths when the collision took place. The crash is described as tremendous, and the water immediately began rushing into the engine room and cabins. The terrified passengers ran upon deck in their night clothes, and were immediately lowered into the boats. The safety of the female passengers was first secured, and the male passengers followed. Captain Lefort behaved in a very cool and discreet manner, and was the last person to leave the vessel. After seeing every one into the boats, he called out the name of the crew, and, upon ascertaining that they were all safe, he lowered himself by a rope into one of the boats alongside. Immediately afterwards the decks of the vessel blew up, some of the cabin windows were blown out, and the vessel went down, nearly engulfing one of the boats. One lady passenger, while being lowered into a boat alongside, fell into the sea, and George Haslett, one of the crew, whose duty it was to steer the vessel from Gravesend to the North Foreland, jumped overboard after her. They were both picked up. Two French gentlemen who were asleep in their cabins were aroused with some difficulty by George Dines, the steward of the Phenix. The water had nearly reached the top of the saloon table when Dines pulled them out of their berths and forced them on deck, when they learned the vessel was sinking, and before they had time to recover from their fright were lowered into a boat. Dines is a loser to the amount of £200 by this unfortunate calamity. The Britannia had a trysail and a main-sail set when the collision took place, and the way she had on her, independent of the power of her engines, which were stopped before the collision happened, was sufficient to sink a vessel like the Phenix. There is no doubt the tallow in the hold of the latter vessel kept her afloat so long, and to this fortunate circumstance may be attributed the preservation of the people on board.

An appalling calamity occurred on Saturday morning week at the Farnacres Colliery, adjacent to the village of Bensham, near Newcastle upon Tyne, by which five persons lost their lives. It appears about one o'clock a loud explosion was heard to proceed from the pit. The people rushed to the spot, and shouted to the labourers in the pit, for the purpose of ascertaining what had happened. No answer being received, a stone was thrown down, when it was discovered that springs had burst into the pit, which was filling rapidly, and that the five pitmen had perished in the waters. The bodies of the unfortunate creatures have not been recovered, nor can any idea be formed when the water will be exhausted so as to admit of a search. On Sunday the pit (which is twenty fathoms in depth) was completely full.

DUBLIN, Oct. 29.—A messenger arrived in Dublin this morning, to request the immediate attendance of Sir Philip Crampton, Surgeon-General, at Mulgrave Castle, where the Marquis of Normanby is suffering from an injury in the hand, which has produced an abscess that extends towards the arm. Sir Philip sailed for Liverpool this afternoon, on his way to Mulgrave Castle.

The Hon. Admiral Elphinstone Fleming, the lately appointed Governor of Greenwich Hospital, died on Friday, at Leamington, Spa, whither he had gone about a month ago, to consult Dr. Jeppison, feeling his health severely attacked.

It is the Hon. Robert Campbell Scarlett, eldest son of Lord Abinger, who has purchased the Marquis of Huntley's romantic seat of Inverloch Castle, for the sum of £75,150. It was originally bought by the Marquis in 1834, for £56,000.

At this moment, in Glasgow, there are 3000 public houses among 290,000 persons, included in 58,000 families, being nearly one public house for every twenty families. The number of inhabited houses is about 30,000, so that every tenth house is appropriated to the sale of spirits.

BIBLE FOR THE BLIND.—The Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury have just awarded the sum of £400 towards printing a Bible for the blind, under the superintendence of a committee at Glasgow, and which was to be finally completed this month. It will be contained in fifteen volumes, large super royal quarto, and in all there will be 3,300 volumes printed. There will be in each 2,470 pages, each containing 37 lines, and will consist of 1,160 reams of paper, weighing 9,860 pounds. The New Testament has been already completed in four volumes, and contains 42 lines in each page. No fewer than 10,850 volumes have already been published by the Glasgow Society for the Instruction of the Blind.

We believe that the Right Hon. Mr. Macaulay, will be proposed as Lord Rector by the Liberals of Glasgow College, in opposition to Lord Lyndhurst. The election takes place on the 15th next month.—Glasgow Constitution.

The Rev. Dr. Jacob had an interview with Lord John Russell on Saturday, at the Colonial Office.

In Palestine a great number of people get their living by working crosses, beads, rosaries, and amulets, and mother-of-pearl shells, which are brought generally from the Red Sea, and engraved with religious subjects, chiselled in relief. These usually represent saints, or some objects of devotion associated with the Holy Land. Among them are models of the holy sepulchre in wood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl; drinking-cups, from the deposits of the Jordan, with verses from the Bible engraved on them, being nearly as black as ebony, and taking a fine polish. Of these and other similar articles there was formerly a large sale in the market place of Bethlehem, and in many parts of Jerusalem; but the Terrasanta monks have lately taken the trade from the peasantry, whom they are said to have menaced with excommunication if they sold such relics to travellers. The monopoly of the trade is now in the hands of the monks, and they obtain monopoly prices.—Report on Syria for Lord Palmerston.

SAINT ANDREW'S DAY.

On Monday last the Members of the "Frederickton Society of Saint Andrew" celebrated the Anniversary of their Tutelar Saint by dining together at Mr. Jackson's Hotel. His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, accompanied by his suite, honored the company with his presence on the occasion. Major Cairnes, Commandant, and several Officers of the Garrison, with a number of other Gentlemen, were also present as Guests. We delayed preparing the Gazette for the Press, until the latest moment, in expectation of having it in our power to give our readers the particulars of this interesting Festival, but we are obliged to postpone the subject until our next number.

[From the New York Albion.]

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

We beg to announce that it is our intention to issue TWO NEW PLATES during the ensuing year, in a style superior to any thing of the kind that has yet issued from this office.

The first will be a portrait of the DUKE OF WELLINGTON, executed on steel by an artist of first rate abilities, recently arrived in this country. It is copied from the celebrated painting prepared for the Corporation of Dover, and represents the illustrious chief in a very favorable attitude. The plate is promised us by the engraver on the 1st of February, when we shall immediately cause the impressions to be forwarded to our respective subscribers as fast as they can be wrought off.

The second plate will represent WINDSOR CASTLE; a view taken from the most favorable point. Besides the historical interest attached to this subject, it will form a picture of great beauty, excelling that of Buckingham Palace. In addition to an extensive view, it will combine much detail. The foreground is very animated, presenting, besides other living objects, a party of Her Majesty's Life Guards, mounted, and in full costume. This engraving we have entrusted to Mr. Dick, who engages to deliver it to us in July.

The delay in bringing out our Prints, experienced on one or two occasions, did not originate with us, but with the artist, who, in his anxiety to produce a good picture, exceeded the time he had prescribed for himself. A few of our readers may have felt disappointment at his tardiness, but they had, in consequence, a better finished picture.

The value and excellence of these two Plates, given as they will be without cost of any kind to the subscribers—will render the Albion one of the very cheapest periodicals published in this country.

MEDAL REWARDED.—The Medal which was subscribed for by the Young men at Halifax, to be presented to Capt. Peloso, who saved the survivors of the Brig Vernon of this port from the hands of the Pirates, was received by the Caledonia, and has been placed in the shop of Mr. Brown, Jeweller, for public inspection. It weighs nearly five ounces, is made of fine gold, and cost £50 sterling. The medal bears on one side the following inscription in English, on the other side, the same in Spanish.

Presented
TO CAPT. ANTONIO PELOSO,
Of Havana.
BY THE YOUNG MEN OF HALIFAX,
As a Testimonial
Of their Gratitude and Esteem,
For his Gallantry
In Capturing the Pirates
Who murdered Capt. Cunningham,
And two Seamen of the Brig Vernon,
Near Cape Antonio,
On the 15th day of May, A. D. 1840.
And for his generosity
Towards his countrymen
The survivors of the crew
Of that vessel.

The chain is very massive, and elegantly devised and wrought, connected to the Medal by an anchor.—Morning Herald.

ORDINATION.—On Friday last, the Rev. Angus McIntyre was ordained here, previous to his proceeding to Charlotte Town, P. E. Island, having been appointed by the Colonial Committee to that interesting charge. Mr. McIntyre is a young man of high talent. The Synod of Argyle awarded him the premium for divinity, and Edinburgh University the Macpherson Bursary of £100 for his literary distinction. Mr. McIntyre is also a distinguished Celtic scholar—having translated several treatises for the good of his countrymen, and he carries with him a new Gaelic Grammar in MS. on a condensed and popular plan, which we have no doubt will prove worthy of its author. Mr. McIntyre, we believe, left on Saturday, via Liverpool, for Halifax, per steamer, to join his anxious flock, who are many of them Emigrants from the bounds of the Presbytery of Mull, and his own former neighbours.—Scottish Guardian.

AN ESCAPE.—After the manner of Baron Trenck.—Two of the convicts, named James H. Cooper and Gardiner W. Harrington, escaped from the Penitentiary at Baton Rouge, on the night of the 18th instant. The manner in which they effected their escape, although ingenious, deserves notice, not for its ingenuity alone, but to know what man will undergo for the recovery of liberty.

To prevent the effects of humidity, the cells in the lower story have a counter arch of brick under the plank floor. These convicts, with a very fine saw, made an opening in the floor in the darkest part of their cells, the joints of which would deceive the most experienced eye, particularly as they always left a little sand on the floor, with the apparent intention of keeping their cells clean. By these openings they could descend in the night. They commenced by cutting through a brick wall, three feet thick, which separated their cells; then thro' the wall communicating to another cell, in order to have space to put the bricks and earth to be taken from their intended excavation.

This excavation was about fourteen feet in length, at a depth of four and a half feet. To make this subterraneous cavity, they first pierced through a wall two feet thick, then through the foundations of an outside wall six and a half feet thick: making the opening for their exit in the great court of the Penitentiary. They thence descended into the garden by the roof of a work shed. This labour must have required at least six months, for the tools found in the excavation consisted of three small pieces of iron, two of which are old mortaring chisels, three quarters of an inch broad.

We got the above particulars from an article in the Baton Rouge Gazette, which states that one of the men who escaped has been apprehended and brought back, and adds: "the warden of the Penitentiary lately learned from a prisoner, that two who had previously escaped are now at the head of a band of robbers, about thirty miles beyond Mobile, on the great mail route."—N. O. Picayune.

PROSPECTUS.

THE MONTHLY REVIEW, DEVOTED TO THE
CIVIL GOVERNMENT OF THE CANADAS.

THE Canadas have been united under an amended constitution—the foundation has been laid for an improved system of government. The success of that constitution will greatly depend upon a correct understanding and a just appreciation of its principles; and the advantages of the new system of government will be essentially influenced by the views and feelings of the inhabitants of the Canadas themselves. At a period so eventful, and under circumstances so peculiar, it is of the utmost importance that the principles of the constitution should be carefully analysed, and dispassionately expounded; that the relations between this and the mother country, and the mutual advantages connected with those relations, should be explained and illustrated; the duties of the several branches of the government and the different classes of the community stated and enforced; the natural, commercial, and agricultural resources and interests of these provinces investigated and developed; a comprehensive and efficient system of public education discussed and established; the subject of emigration practically considered in proportion to its vast importance; the various measures adapted to promote the welfare of all classes of the people originated and advocated; and a taste for intellectual improvement and refinement encouraged and cultivated.

Such are the objects of the MONTHLY REVIEW; objects which it is intended, to pursue with views and feelings as unbiased and comprehensive as those of the government itself. Such a publication is a desideratum in the Canadas. The subjects to which its pages will be devoted require, at the present juncture, a more elaborate discussion than is suitable to the columns of a newspaper, and ought to be embodied in a convenient and permanent form. The topics discussed, and the subjects introduced, will become more varied as the immediate objects which have called the publication into existence shall have been accomplished. A monthly retrospect of public affairs, containing notices and observations respecting the measures of the government, and the leading events and questions of the day, will appear in each number.

THE MONTHLY REVIEW will, for the time present, be conducted under the supervision of JOHN WAUGH, Esquire, late Editor of The Upper Canada Herald, assisted by several able writers in the two Canadas. A general invitation is also given to Gentlemen of talents and acquirements to contribute to the columns of the REVIEW. Each number will contain from 60 to 80 pages, royal octavo, double columns, small type and fine English paper. Each volume will contain not far from seven hundred pages, and furnish about as much reading matter as is contained in three common octavo volumes of five hundred pages each.

TERMS—Price 20s. per year, including postage, payable in advance. As the work is undertaken with no view to emolument, it will be enlarged and improved in proportion to the amount of available subscriptions. It will not be sent to any Subscriber without payment of six months subscription in advance. No subscription received for less than six months. All Post Masters are respectfully requested to act as Agents. Any Post Master or other person forwarding the names of six Subscribers, with the subscriptions, will receive a copy, gratis, during the same period. The first number will appear on the first day of January, 1841. All communications must be addressed to the Editor of the MONTHLY REVIEW, Toronto, and be post paid.

The Editor is permitted and authorised to add, that the MONTHLY REVIEW has been undertaken with the sanction and under the patronage of HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL; although the writers alone will be responsible for the matter which it may contain. Toronto, Nov. 4, 1840.
