

Gentlemen appointed to draft the Constitution and Rules, be requested to obtain the signatures of all of those willing to further this object. After a vote of thanks to the Sheriff, the Meeting was adjourned.

HENRY W. BALDWIN, Chairman.
R. CARMAN, Secretary.

Draft of the Constitutional Rules of the Gloucester County Emigrants Society.

RULE 1st.—That this Society be called the Gloucester County Emigrants Society, and its object shall be to afford advice, information and employment to Emigrants from the United Kingdom or elsewhere on their arrival within this County.

RULE 2d.—That this Society shall co-operate and communicate with all similar institutions in the Province, the better to advance the common object of encouraging Immigration.

RULE 3d.—That a subscription of not less than five shillings, paid annually, or a donation of five pounds shall constitute a member, the subscriptions for the present, to be paid immediately, and for every succeeding year, to be paid on or before the second Tuesday in January—but contributions of all kinds consistently with the object of the Society, will be thankfully received at all times.

RULE 4th.—To manage the business of this Society, there shall be elected annually, one President, two Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and thirteen Members, who shall, together, compose a Committee to direct the application of the funds, and superintend and control the conduct of the affairs of the Society.

RULE 5th.—Five Members of the managing Committee shall constitute a quorum.

RULE 6th.—It shall be the duty of the Secretary to attend and Record the proceedings at the Annual Meetings, as well as at the Meetings of the Committee of Management, in a Book to be by him kept for that purpose, he shall also keep a Register Book, in which he shall insert all particulars of applications from persons desirous of selling lands, or of employing Mechanics, Labourers, or Servants, as well as the names and occupations of the Emigrants who seek employment, and where they may be found, with any other matter calculated to forward the design of this Society.

RULE 7th.—The Committee of Management shall have the power to apply the funds of the Society at their discretion, and shall aid and assist the Secretary in providing employment for Emigrants, and supplying them with useful information, advice and pecuniary relief when they need it.

RULE 8th.—That a Meeting of the Committee of Management shall be held three times during the year, that is to say, on the second Tuesday in April, July and October, but a Special Meeting may be called at any time by the Secretary, should occasion require it, at the request of two or more Members of the Committee, made to him in writing for that purpose.

RULE 9th.—That the Treasurer shall have charge of the funds of the Society, and it shall be his duty to collect all subscriptions, grants and contributions, and to pay out the same under the direction of the Committee of Management. He shall exhibit the state of his accounts at the Quarterly Meeting of the Committee of Management, and at the Annual Meeting of the Society.

RULE 10th.—When an office becomes vacant by resignation, death or removal, the Committee of Management shall have power to appoint a suitable person to fill such vacant office until the next succeeding Annual Meeting.

RULE 11th.—No Rule of this Society shall be altered or rescinded, but at the Annual Meeting, by the votes of a majority of the Members present.

Moved and carried unanimously, That the foregoing Rules be adopted.

HENRY W. BALDWIN, Chairman.
R. CARMAN, Secretary.

PIRACY.—Capt. Taylor, boarding officer at Balize, reports the capture of a Pirate; in his letter he says:—"I immediately started the prize sloop for this place, with two of the revenue boatmen in her; and got under way with the Izard and ran back to North Point, where I found a small black schooner lying at anchor, which I at once boarded, examined and searched, but found nothing to confirm the fisherman's information but a number of sweeps or large oars. The captain was absent, but a Mr. Ellis Abbott, whom I found on board the schooner, with six others, told me they were out for the purpose of passing the summer on a fishing party, and that the captain had the licence with him. I returned on board of the Izard, and anchored about a mile above them, to the northward. Not perfectly satisfied or free from suspicion, the next morning, being the 30th of May, we got under weigh again with the Izard; blowing a fresh breeze from NNW. On approaching the black schooner, and going very fast through the water, I saw a man jump overboard from her and swim towards us; as we passed him rapidly, he shouted—"Capt. Taylor protect me!" On hearing which, I clapped the helm hard down, tacked instantly, and reached the man just as two other men in a skiff from the schooner overtook him. We hauled him on the Izard's deck. He said his name was Thompson; that he had been kidnapped in Mobile; the schooner was a piratical vessel; and to prove what he said, if I would protect and go back again with him, he would show me where their arms were concealed. I anchored the Izard close to her, and accompanied by Thompson searched again—found the arms stowed away under the bread lockers, and the ammunition, consisting of balls and powder, in abundance. Being at once satisfied in my own mind of her piratical character—(Mr. Wadsworth of our Legislature, and Dr. Harrison, who were with me, being both convinced also, and agreeing with me in opinion)—I seized her, took her at once in tow, deprived her of arms and ammunition, and made all sail for this place, where I arrived with all seven of my prisoners, a few hours past, and the prize schooner. The prisoners I have in irons and in prison, besides strongly guarded, subject to your order.

"On further examination, we found several pair more of high-priced pistols, a back and breast piece of heavy iron armor and skull cap to suit, dirks and bowie knives in plenty, a paper of declaration of war and no quarter—a copy of which, with two of his cards I send you—and last, though not least, the pirate's flag: a blue field, with death's head and marrow bones in white in the centre.

"My cruise and arrival here has created much excitement among our citizens; and my prisoners are consequently well guarded. You need be under no apprehension—not one of them shall escape.

With sincere respect, your obdt serv't,
Wm. B. G. TAYLOR,
Boarding Officer, Belize.

DENIS PRIEUR, Esq.
Collector of the Port of New Orleans."

Accompanying this letter was the flag of the pirate and a copy of the paper found in the Captain's chest, being the articles of the agreement entered into by the pirate. A copy of this document is annexed.

ARTICLES OF AGREEMENT.

We, the undersigned, being the children of nature, have lawfully and wholly as much right to enjoy here, in all her stores, as any other who is of woman born; but being deprived of all these blessings by the artful designs of those who possess in more than superabundance the stores that were intended for all, we are compelled to come forward, protest against all the world, and thus obtain our rights. From this day we declare war against the world, and with the same treatment as her children would use us now were we in their possession, we will use them; as no quarters are offered us, none can be expected. We do, and have formed a constitution this day for the better regulation of ourselves, knowing it to be for our mutual benefit, and as order and safety may be concerned, we are bound to ourselves and to one another. Our tie is cemented with blood, and nothing less than blood will propitiate and atone for any of us who act contrary to our laws. Death being the warrant knell of all those who in time of action, shall, through cowardice, negligence, or disaffection, yield, cause others to yield, or cry for quarters.

Article 1st. It is the captain's absolute right of determining in all questions, concerning fighting, chasing, or being chased, what course to pursue.

Article 2d. The captain has the power of appointing officers for the different departments of the ship.

Article 3d. It is the captain's duty at all times to preserve peace and order, and in case of mutiny, or the appearance of one, to take what course he should think best; the captain having the entire command during the voyage.

Article 4th. It is the duty of all on board to obey the commands of the captain relating to the navigation of the vessel, her coming to action and the preservation of good order; such authority is necessary to the safety of the whole.

Further and more extraordinary developments were expected to be made in the course of a day or two. Enough has been discovered, however, to show that a most infamous scheme has been nipped in the bud.—American Pap.

It was recently reported in the American Papers, that the ship Charles, which sailed from New Orleans for Bordeaux, with timber, staves and passengers, had been boarded on the American Coast, and was found to be abandoned, with strong suspicion of having been rifled, and her crew murdered by pirates. A schooner had been despatched to look after the pirates, and endeavour to gain some tidings of the fate of the persons belonging to the Charles. It now transpires that the Charles had sprung a leak, and that the captain and crew were taken from her by the Louis XIV, when about fifteen miles from the bar. They arrived at Charleston in the schooner Anna, having been put on board that vessel from the Louis XIV.—Halifax Times.

The English Mail to meet the sailing of the "Britannia," will be made up at the Post Office on Wednesday the 14th instant, at half past eleven in the forenoon.
