

the Prison, the Palais National, the Treasury, and the Arsenal, were all destroyed.

The town of Cape Haytien has entirely disappeared, and with it two thirds of its inhabitants! The families that could escape are fled to Fosette, where they were without an asylum, clothing, or provisions.

In addition to the above disastrous intelligence from the Cape, a courier from the city arrived a few hours previous to the departure of Capt. Morris, says the Express, who stated that a fire broke out after the earthquake, which on Monday the 9th, destroyed the powder magazine, and with it the miserable remnant of the inhabitants who had escaped the earthquake. The towns of St. Nicholas and Port Paix are also destroyed. Other parts of the Island had not been heard from when Capt. M. left, but it is conjectured that all the towns of the north are a mass of ruins.

On the same day, (May 7,) a severe shock of an earthquake was felt at Guayaama, on the Island of Porto Rico, which did however but little damage.

The Journal of Commerce says, in relation to the above account:—

On comparing the accounts recently received from Haiti, of the shocks of an earthquake felt there with the accounts of one in Louisiana, we find many marks characteristic of a connection between the two. Both occurred on the same day, (the 7th inst.) The latter took place at three o'clock, and lasted two or three seconds, giving cause during this short period, to that commotion which caused the waters of the lake at Catahoula to rise, during the space of two minutes, to more than six feet. Accounts of the former, state that although shocks were experienced at intervals during the whole day (even as early as five o'clock in the morning,) yet that the principal one occurred at half-past five, p. m., (two hours and a half later than the one in Louisiana,) and lasted at least two or three minutes, during which time its effects were awful. Though the difference of two hours and a half in time ought perhaps to prevent our inferring that these shocks were identical, yet there is reason enough to infer a connection between the two. Meanwhile, we shall await the news of similar phenomena as having occurred at some of the other West India Islands, or in South America, at the same date.

The English Mail to meet the sailing of the Steamer from Halifax on the 18th instant, will be closed at the Post Office on Wednesday the 15th, at half-past ten in the forenoon.

Canada, New Brunswick, & Nova Scotia.

MR. HARDY begs leave to announce to his Subscribers and the Public, that he has just received from London his supplies, which, in consequence of the loss of the Ship LONDON, he was unable to deliver, but has now, in addition to the back numbers, received those published up to this date. The numbers now to be delivered comprise—Views of Fredericton, Saint John River, Saint John City, from Carleton, Do. from Lilly Lake, Digby, Annapolis, Bridgetown, Windsor, Halifax, &c. &c. &c., which were all taken by W. H. BARTLETT, Esquire.

The aim of the Proprietors in this laborious and expensive undertaking, is to follow in the same track so happily opened by their already well known Illustrations, and to present a great Provincial Work upon such terms as to place it within the reach of every individual, who, however humble in worldly circumstances, combines with a love of country, a love of literature and the fine arts.

A specimen of the above Works may be seen at Mr. Beverly's and Mr. Beek's Book Stores, Fredericton, and at Mr. Avery's and Mr. Frazer's Book Stores, Saint John, where Subscribers' names will be thankfully received and punctually attended to.
