KING'S COLLEGE ENCOENIA.

The Annual Festival of King's College was last week celebrated with the customary observances; commencing with the attendance of His Excellency the Chancellor and the whole Academical Body at the Cathedral on Sunday, when an appropriate and encouraging Sermon was preached by the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Fredericton.

The Examinations at the College and the Collegiate School were attended by His Lordship and a highly respectable company; and are considered to have proved that in the respective departments of both establishments the instruction of the youth has been faithfully and effectively conducted.

On Thursday, June 26, the Chancellor, accompanied by the Visitor, and the several Officers of the College, proceeded in due form to the College Hall, and held the Public Act in commemoration of the Founders and Benefactors of the University. His Excellency having opened the Convocation, the Reverend the Vice President delivered the annual Oration; in which he paid a mournful tribute to the memory of the late Honorable W. F. Odell, as one of those who had chiefly contributed to the original formation of the College, and amidst all subsequent changes had invariably continued among its steadiest supporters. After an extended view of the true design and uniform intention of a College invested with the high privileges of a British University, the Oration concluded with the expression of an earnest hope and prayer that every one to whom the government and direction of the institution are in any degree committed might be duly impressed with the importance of the trust; and that the youth repairing hither for instruction might be properly sensible of the value of their time. Brief, it was remarked, as the period since the College was opened, the fifth generation of Students were now finishing their course and departing—most of them probably to return no more; and the season of education, they were affectionately reminded, bears the same relation to the remainder of life, which life itself in this world bears to futurity.

According to the usual course the Students who had recently passed their final examination were now presented, when His Excellency conferred the Degree of Bachelor of Arts on Messieurs Edward B. Chandler, Charles Bliss, Charles Odell, and Connell.

The Students to whom the Douglas Gold Medal had been awarded having been called on to read their compositions, Mr. Coster, A. B., proceeded to read his Essay on "The cultivation of the Intellect in subservience to the Moral faculties;" and was followed by Mr. M'Givern, who read his Essay on "The recent improvements in Elementary Education."

The Vice President stated that other Students were entitled to honorable notice for Essays on the same subject with the last, mentioning the names of Mr. Thomas Smith and Mr. Hodson Peters. He also requested His Excellency to present Books which had been awarded to four Students for superior proficiency in the different departments. These testimonials of approbation were accordingly delivered to Mr. Edward Fisher and Mr. Doak for the best exercises in English and Latin composition; to Mr. William Ketchum, as recommended by the Mathematical Professor; and to Mr. Doak, as similarly distinguished in Natural History. Other Students were understood to have entitled themselves to testimonies of commendation; to whom, from the necessarily limited number of such rewards, or from the short period of their connexion with the College, they could not now be given.

The duties of the Day being discharged, the Chancellor was pleased to address the Convocation in the following words:—

Reverend Gentlemen, and Gentlemen,

Having in the last four years, when we have met to celebrate this Anniversary, taken occasion to offer to you various suggestions in regard to the interests of this Institution and the means of giving effect to the benevolent intentions of its founders, it is unnecessary that I should do more than incidentally recur to these topics, and I cannot more appropriately address you at this time than by noticing two events which have occurred since our last meeting, both of which have an especial reference to our future relations and prospects.

I allude to the passing of an Act which is now under consideration of Her Majesty's Government, for the modification of the College Charter—and to the erection of the Province into a separate Episcopate, the Bishop being appointed to reside at Fredericton, who, as Visitor of the College, will thus be enabled actively to co-operate with us in promoting the interests of the Foundation.

In regard to the first of these events it would be improper for me in any manner to anticipate the decision of Her Majesty, but I may be permitted to hope, whatever may be the ultimate issue of the questions which have been raised, that no measure will at any time be adopted which would have the effect of interfering with those provisions by which a religious education is afforded to candidates for the Ministry of the Church, and to others in her communion, and in making this observation, in a spirit of religious freedom, I feel that I shall not be misunderstood by the members of other communions who are interested in the stability and character of the Institution.

In regard to the other event which I have noticed, it will not be thought inappropriate that I should congratulate the Visitor on the reception which he has met with in his Diocese, and I may also be permitted to congratulate ourselves on the presence amongst us of one so well qualified to discharge with effect the high functions which have devolved on him.
