APPEARANCE OF THE CHOLERA AT CEYLON.—By letters from Ceylon of the 9th of September, it appears that the cholera was rife at Kandy. Several soldiers of the 95th Regiment had died of the disorder. The sittings of the Supreme Court had been removed from Kandy to Colombo, on account of the sickness.—Lancet.

DISEASE AMONGST THE ENGLISH TROOPS IN INDIA.—The following is an extract of a letter, just received from John Lavell, a private in the 1st Battalion of the 60th Royal Rifles, by his friends residing at Oakley Green, near Windsor, dated "Camp Kurrachee, Lower Scinde, Sept. 24, 1846 :"—

"This is one of the most unhealthy stations in India. First, there is nothing but a barren desert for hundreds of miles around us; and secondly, it is visited with the very worst of diseases, such as dysentery, jaundice, liver complaint, brain fever, and several others equally dangerous to Europeans. We have also been visited with the true Asiatic cholera, the most fatal disease of all others. That disease visited us with dreadful violence in June last. It broke out in the Camp on the 15th of June, and took from the 86th Regiment of the line about 200 men; from the Bombay Fusiliers, 150 men; and from our Regiment, the most fortunate in camp, 83 men in only five days. On the 16th, we buried 18 men in one large grave, and on the following day 27 of my comrades and one child in another large pit. Coffins could not be procured, and the immediate burying of the bodies was indispensable. They were therefore, sewn up in canvas, and laid in one grave, packed together like herrings in a barrel. Lime was then strewn over them to consume the remains and to keep off infection. The number of the natives who died during the time the cholera raged was estimated at 6,000; but no accurate accounts can be given, as they fled from their homes at the first outbreak to the mountains; and those that survived did not return until the expiration of upwards of six weeks afterwards, when all further danger was supposed to be over. The scene during the raging of the cholera was awful in the extreme. Since we have been in the country we have lost in our Regiment—1 officer, 122 men, 22 women, and 47 children. Lieut.-Colonel Marsham is now in command of the battalion."

REMARKABLE SUDDEN DEATH.—M. Very, the son of the late celebrated restaurateur of that name in the Palais Royal, died on Sunday night in a singular manner. He had passed the day in his country house at Montmorency, but came to Paris at six o'clock, with his wife, and went to dine with a friend in the rue de Richelieu. On entering the saloon, he became completely chilled, attributing it to his having in the morning, stood too long on the bank of the Lake of Enghien, fishing. He placed himself close to the fire, became quite warm again, and afterwards eat heartily at dinner. In the evening while he was playing at whist, with his wife for partner and was talking gaily with a friend seated by his side, the gentleman said that he felt he was growing old, for he was already 53. M. Very laughingly replied, "Why at 50 years, a man is still young. I have passed my 50th year, and never was better in my life!" The words were scarcely out of his mouth, before his lips became convulsed, and the company laid him upon a sofa, where the next moment he expired.—Galignani.

Six princes and several princesses of the Court of Persia have been cut off by the Asiatic cholera. The mother of the prince royal, and the daughter of the Schah, had been attacked, but had recovered under the treatment of Dr. Cloquet. Among the victims is the celebrated Mirza Aboul Hassan Khan, minister of foreign Affairs, who was an ambassador to this country in the year 1820. Another minister of the Schah, the Vizier of the Prince Royal, and other high functionaries of the Court have also been cut off by the cholera. The disease appears to have been particularly fatal among the upper classes.

Sir B. D'Urban's destination has been changed from Barbadoes to Canada, in consequence of the step in rank which the brevet gave him, and which was incompatible with the command in Barbadoes, but not in Canada. The latter in point of emolument, is twice as good as the former, and its importance is in the same proportion.

Until the present period, all the superior ranks in the papal army were obtained by purchase. But this system is about to be abolished, and all superior officers who are not sufficiently instructed in their profession are to be placed on half-pay.

A youth, only twelve years old, walked from Glogau to Potsdam, a distance of 300 miles, on the Emperor of Prussia's last birth-day to congratulate his Majesty on the occasion, and to obtain from the King admission to an asylum for his father, who is weak and sickly. His Majesty rewarded this act of filial attachment by instantly granting the request.

CHOLERA AT BAGDAD.—According to the last arrivals from Bagdad, the cholera was making great ravages in the City. 1,400 persons have already been killed by the disease. Fears are entertained that it will reach Constantinople, as it was from the same direction that the last attack came.
