Died,

At St. John's, (Newfoundland,) on the 30th September, John Ryan, Esq., one of the Printers to the Queen, in that Island, aged 85 years.—Mr. Ryan was well known to many of the first settlers of New Brunswick, having arrived with the Loyalists in 1783, and soon after established a Newspaper in St. John, N. B., where he continued to reside until the year 1807.—He had several sons, only one of whom survives him.

More Extensive Failures—Complete panic in the London, Liverpool, and Manchester Markets—Fall in the Prices of Stocks, Cotton, Wheat, Flour, Sugar, Coffee, and other Produce—Stoppage of Cotton Mills—And unabated Commercial distress.

The painful duty of placing on record a fresh catalogue of Commercial failures is again imposed upon us. Since the departure of the last packet, the mercantile community has been convulsed to its very centre : and last Saturday, the 2nd instant, closed in London, Manchester, and Liverpool, over one of the most disastrous weeks which has ever been known in the memory of the present generation. The depreciation of all descriptions of stocks and property has now become truly alarming ; and we, as disinterested, but sympathising spectators of the distress around us, endeavour in vain to discover any signs of immediate relief ; the state of the capital and ordinary resources of the country become every day more and more “ fixed ” and unavailable.

The failure of the house of Messrs. Reid, Irving & Co., which we have already announced, caused immediately the suspension of Messrs. Cockburn & Co., wine importers, of Mark-lane, whose branch house in Portugal drew upon them. This house had also an extensive business with Scotland, but must not be confounded with another failure which happened about ten days afterwards, namely, Messrs. Cockburn & Co., of Whitehall, army agents and bankers. Some of our contemporaries have erroneously blended the two houses, not related to each other, into one establishment. The inconvenience that will be caused by the return of bills drawn from distant parts of the world on Reid, Irving & Co., Gower, Ne-phews & Co., and other great houses which have failed, is incalculable. It is, however, positively stated that Messrs. Baring, Brothers and Co. will interfere to protect the bills drawn upon Reid, Irvine & Co. by the City Bank of New Orleans ; another house will protect the drafts of the Louisiana State Bank ; but some doubt has been thrown upon the alleged statement that Messrs. Glyn & Co. would interfere for the Bank of Charleston ; but we hope these drafts will be protected, and thereby avoid considerable inconvenience. Messrs. Reid, Irving & Co. have issued a notice, announcing that, in consequence of their position it will not be in their power to pay the October dividends of the foreign debt of Venezuela. During the week, subsequent to the suspension of Messrs. Reid, Irving, & Co., the mercantile atmosphere was less clouded, and the only failure of any consequence which occurred was Messrs. Watson, Brothers & Co., of Liverpool, with their branch houses at Manchester and Leeds. A few days afterwards, Messrs. Watson, M'Knight & Co., of Glasgow, also connected with them, came to a stand. These houses were connected with Mexico, and having funds locked up in Zacatecas, which the hostilities in America rendered unavailable, and some adventures in railway undertakings having proved unfortunate, they were compelled to call their creditors together. The extensive house of Reid, Robinson & Co., of Glasgow, followed a day or two subsequently ; the latter house involving Manchester to a considerable extent. But, on the 25th ult., the London Market was again thrown into confusion by the announcement of the failure of Messrs. Cockerell & Co., of London, East India agents, whose engagements amount to £600,000 of running acceptances, and about £200,000 other engagements. Messrs. Bensusan and Co., in the Levant trade, followed in succession, whose recent transactions with Mexico have, it is said, caused their embarrassments. The past week was also productive of the serious failure of Perkins, Schlusser and Mullens, in the Baltic trade, the chief of the firm of which is a relative of the Perkins in the great brewery of Barclay, Perkins & Co., of London. The partners were able, active men of business, wholly uninvolved in corn transactions, and their failure is attributed to the insufficiency of the late remittances from India, in the trade of which country they had recently embarked. Their liabilities are variously stated, but we should think they must be very considerable, and must involve other houses, especially at St. Petersburg. Messrs. Alexander M'Donald & Co., extensive salt-petre manufacturers, followed. Fry, Griffiths & Co., extensive indigo and produce brokers in London, were added on the 28th ult., and on the 30th, the extensive money dealers, Messrs. John Schewell and Son (better known under the old firm of Schewell & Hichens), who are also members of the Stock Exchange, stopped payment. The depreciation of mining shares has been the direct cause of this failure, the effect of which will be to cut off the resources of a large class of operators. The present month opened with the stoppage of Messrs. Lyall, Brothers & Co., East India merchants, of London, their acceptances amounting to £400,000. It is anticipated that the ultimate loss will not be serious to their creditors. Messrs. Samuel, Phillips & Co., East India merchants, have also to be added to the list, their engagements being estimated at £150,000, which is expected to fall on India houses. Yesterday, in London, the old and respectable house of Rougement Brothers, so long connected with the Continental and Switzerland trade, were compelled merely from prudential motives, to stop payment. They were the last house in London inclined to any sort of speculation, and their failure is one of the greatest proofs yet exhibited of the pressure of the distress. Their estate must be satisfactory.

In Manchester several failures occurred, including the names of John A. Armstrong, cotton dealer, whose liabilities are estimated at about £40,000 ; E. M. Cooper & Co., whose engagements are said to be under £50,000 ; Mr. James Guest, who has failed for
