NOTICE TO MARINERS.

COAST OF NOVA SCOTIA.

Revolving Light on Beaver Island.

A Revolving Light has been established on the S. E. part of Beaver Island, on the Coast of Nova Scotia.

The Light revolves every two minutes, during which, it is visible one minute and a half, and invisible for the remaining half minute. It stands 70 feet above the sea, and may therefore be seen 15 miles.

The Light House is a rectangular white building, with two black balls on its seaward face; it stands in latitude 44° 48' North, and in longitude 62° 20' West of Greenwich, (or 1° 16' East of Sam-bro Light.)

The Light bears from the outer Bird Ledge, W. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. (Magn.) distant 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

The Light bears from Beaver Shelf, N. W. (Magn.) distant 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

The Light bears from Yankee Jack, E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. (Magn.) distant 8 miles.

Vessels intending to run for Beaver Harbour should give the Light House Island a berth of three quarters of a mile, to avoid a Reef which projects from it to the Eastward.

S. W. Light on St. Paul's Island.

A Bell has been added to the S. W. Light House on St. Paul's Island, which is tolled during the continuance of foggy weather.
