(Circular)

Downing Street, 22nd February, 1855.

SIR,—I transmit to you herewith, a Circular Despatch which the Earl of Clarendon has addressed to Her Majesty's Diplomatic and Consular Servants abroad, instructing them to protect the Subjects and the Navy of Sardinia against Russian hostility.

By the Duke of Newcastle's Circular, of the 24th of February 1854, you were directed to impress on all the Local Authorities under your Government the duty of affording protection to the Subjects and Commerce of France. It will now be your duty to extend similar protection, assistance, and good offices, to Sardinian Subjects, and especially to the Sardinian Navy, and to establish with Sardinian Agents, or with the Commanders of Sardinian Ships of War, the same concert in all that affects the interest of the War, as with the Agents and Officers of the Emperor of the French. You will report to me without delay any measures which you may take in pursuance of the present instruction.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your most obedient, humble servant,

SIDNEY HERBERT.

Lieutenant Governor

(Circular)

Foreign Office, February 19, 1855.

Sardinia, by a Treaty dated the 26th ultimo, has acceded to the Treaty of Alliance concluded on the 10th of April 1854, between Great Britain and France, for the protection of the Ottoman Empire. This power is thus placed in a state of hostility towards Russia.

As a natural consequence, you will have to extend for the future to Sardinian Subjects, and especially to the Sardinian Navy, the assistance and good offices that you were instructed at the outset of this War, to afford to the subjects of the Queen's august Ally His Majesty the Emperor of the French; and you will be careful to establish with the Sardinian Agents, or the Commanders of Sardinian Ships of War, the same friendly relations, and the same concert in all that affects the interests of the War, as with the Agents and Officers of the Emperor of the French.

You will acknowledge the receipt of this Despatch.

I am, your most obedient, humble servant,

(Signed)

CLARENDON.
