KING'S COLLEGE.

FREDERICTON, June 26, 1856.

THE Encœnia was this day celebrated in the usual manner, the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Fredericton presiding in the absence of His Honor the Chancellor.

The Commemorative Oration in praise of the Founders and Benefactors of the University was delivered by Professor Robb; who ably maintained the soundness of the principle of establishing in this country a high Seminary of learning for the completion of the education of its youth; and contended that it ought to be the earnest desire of every good and enlightened man to remedy any errors which might be found in the scheme, and adapt it to the inhabitants of the Province of every denomination and every class; but that no true advocate of the best interests and character of the country would ever think of sacrificing the principle already established.

Mr. George E. R. Burpe read his Essay upon "The past History and present Prospects of the Turkish Empire," for which the Douglas Gold Medal had been awarded.

A prize of Books was presented to Mr. Frederick H. Barker, for the highly creditable manner in which he had passed the Examination for his Degree; and another prize of the same description, for a meritorious Essay on the subject proposed for the Douglas Medal.

Messrs. Brunswick A. Peters and Frederick H. Barker were admitted to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The Right Reverend President returned his thanks to Professor Robb for his excellent Oration, and impressed on the Students the necessity of good conduct and diligent exertion. His Lordship concluded his address by proposing in the name of the Chancellor, as the subject of the Essay for the Douglas Gold Medal of the ensuing year:—

"Climate; its elements, varieties, and influences on man and organic nature."

The next Academic year begins on the first day of Michaelmas Term, Thursday, September the 4th; and during it, besides the usual courses in Classical, Modern, and Sacred Literature, Mathematics, and General Physics, instruction will be given in Trigonometry, and its applications to Mensuration, Land Surveying, Navigation and Nautical Astronomy; and in Geology, Mineralogy, Zoology and Botany, with their applications to the arts.

The entire course of the College, with admission to almost every Degree, is open to all denominations, on the payment of fees little more than nominal. Degrees in Divinity constitute the only exception; and these are likewise open to all who subscribe their adherence to the ordinary belief of christians. Young men, without becoming regularly matriculated Students, are at liberty to attend any of the classes; and Certificates will be granted for their respective proficiency in the studies of any department. County Scholarships of the annual value of £15, or half the amount of charge for Board and Education in the College, are granted on the recommendation of the Trustees and Masters of the County Grammar Schools; and Students desirous of residing with private families in Fredericton or its neighbourhood, may obtain licence for that purpose.
