

the plaintiff's case pay to the Clerk of the Circuit the further sum of five dollars, to be applied as aforesaid; and the defendant shall during the pendency of the defence pay to the Clerk of the Circuit the sum of five dollars, to be applied as aforesaid; and if either of the parties fail to pay the amount which he is hereby required to pay, the Judge trying the cause shall direct a verdict to be entered against the party failing to pay the said amount.

3. Should any question arise as to the proper party to pay the said sum, the Judge presiding at the trial shall decide upon the matter.

4. If the trial of a cause be begun after one o'clock in the afternoon of the day, the payment made on entry of the cause shall also stand as payment for the two days next succeeding.

5. If the trial of a cause be finished before one o'clock in the afternoon of the day, the payment for that day shall be repaid to the party paying the same; but nothing in this Section shall extend to authorize the repayment of the fee paid on entering the cause.

6. A cause shall be deemed to be finished within the terms of the preceding Section upon the close of the testimony in the cause.

7. The provisions of this Act shall also apply to causes in the County Court, except that the sum to be paid on the entering of the cause for trial shall be four dollars, and the sum to be paid on each day of the trial, other than the first two days, shall be three dollars.

8. Payments made under this Act by a successful party shall be taxed as costs in the cause; and where certain issues are found for one party and certain other issues for the other party, the Judge trying the cause shall have power to determine the proportions in which such payments shall be borne in the taxation of costs by the person unsuccessful upon the respective issues.

9. This Act shall come into force on the first day of May next; and all Acts and parts of any Acts of Assembly inconsistent herewith, or repugnant hereto, shall, on the commencement of this Act, be repealed.
