The number of delegates to be elected by School Districts or appointed by Trustees is not limited for the first meeting and membership will be determined by the convention, for future meetings, as well as all other matters requiring adjustment.

At the first meeting the Chief Superintendent of Education will call the meeting to order, arrange for a short programme and if possible have present an expert trustee from the West, where such conferences have been held for some years.

Delegates are requested to notify the Chief Superintendent of their election or appointment and to indicate their preference as to the time of meeting.

The first meeting will probably last for two days.
