STANZAS ON THE DEATH OF HIS LATE MAJESTY. "'Tis done-but yesterday a King !"

"Earth to Earth"-the tale is old, Yet 'tis daily, hourly told :-"Dust to dust"-the doom of man Ever since the world began. When the soul returns to God, On the coffin falls the clod; And the lonely sleeper round Night and silence sink profound. Drops the sceptre from thy hand! Monarch of a mighty land ! Ruler of the isle and sea, What of them remains to thee, But a lowly bed of rest Waiting for its Kingly guest, But a pillow for the head Of the throneless, crownless dead ! Yet it seems but yesterday, When, amidst a proud array, On Edina's rock he stood-And the halls of Holyrood, By their kings deserted long, Hailed him 'midst a courtly throng, And the cannon pealed on high, His glad welcome to the sky. Now the sullen minute-gun Tell us that his race is run! And the deep-toned, doleful bell Far and wide peals forth his knell; And the crowds, whose raptured roar Hailed him to our mountain shore, Now in silent sorrow bend, As if each had lost a friend. Reckless of a nation's groans, Hurling monarchs from their thrones, With their vassals down to lie, Death assails earth's places high; With a paralysing hand, Sweeps his scythe and shakes his sand, And on dread behests of fate, Knocks upon the palace gate. But the dead, with honor palmed, In our hearts shall be embalmed, And the glories of his reign, Gained in many a red campaign-While, where parted kings repose Amidst their cold and confined rows, Sound he sleeps in peace unknown To "the head that waves a crown." JOHN MALCOLM.

THE WORDS OF THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, As sung at the Opera-House, on Tuesday, 30th June, 1830

Gon save our gracious King,

WILLIAM, our noble King, God save the King! Send him victorious, Happy and glorious Long to reign over us, God save the King. O Lord our God arise, Scatter his enemies, And make them fall; Confound their politics, Frustrate their knavish tricks, On him our hopes we fix; God save us all! Thy choicest gifts in store On William deign to pour, Long may he reign! May he defend our laws, And ever give us cause To sing with heart and voice, God save the King! Shield him, thou good and great, And to our Queen and State New blessings bring; Guard Britain's throne and long May the exulting throng For them renew the song—
