It is with no ordinary feelings of gratulation and pleasure that we notice this event; as it appears to us but a very short time since it became our melancholy duty to announce the destruction of the former Church by fire. A new and very neat Church again stands on the site of the old one, painted and completely finished; and furnished with every thing necessary for the decent solemnization of public worship; a monument, and we trust, a lasting one, of the good feelings and good principles of the Pa-rishoners. Great credit is certainly due to the people of Sackville and especially to their able minister, the Rev. Mr. Conally, who has been unwearied in his exertions in the good canse; and who must now be happy indeed to see all their exertions crowned with final and complete success.—Ib.
