To the Electors of the County of York. GENTLEMEN,

7 HEN I had the honor of addressing you, at the close of the last General Election, it was with a full determination, of not again officting myself as a Candidate for your suffrages ; under the impression, (from the result of that contest.) that it was not the wish of the majority of the Electors, that I should represent the County, in our Provincial Parliament ; and while I remained under that impression, nothing should have induced me, to come forward a second [timeas being a pledge that my conduct, dur ng the many years having no wish to force myself upon you. On the contrary, I know, I must, in going there, devote so much of my time to the public service, as to cause serious loss and inconvenience to myself. But this will not deter me, if I can be of any service to the County at large ; that Gentlemen is a matter entirely for your consideration. I am pretty generally known among you, consequently you are able to judge how for I possess those qualifications, necessary to make a good and efficient member. I can only say, if you think proper to honor me with your confidence, in this respect, it will be my study to serve you faithfully, and to the utmost of my power-but my election must be the voluntary independent act of yourselves, and not the result of any undue influence or persuasion on my part. You must not therefore suppose my not canvassing for your votes arises from any want of respect for you, but from a conviction in my own mind, that the means, too generally resorted to, to obtain votes at an election, are highly unconlate Mr. Samuel Grosvenor, deceased, stitutional, inconsistent with the true freedom of elec-(exclusive of the Store,) situate in Carleton tion, and as degrading to the electors to submit to, as street, and formerly occupied by Mr. Wil- they are to the candidate who practices them ; added months old, son of Mir. GRBAT SWINDLER :- SAID TO HAVE GONE TO BOSTON.

Since Tuesday last an extraordinary excitement has been created among the mercantile part of the community, owing to the reported disappearance of a person who had established a species of Banking and Exchange Office in St. Peter street, and who had built a vault for the security of his treasure, a part of which, in gold coins (real or forged,) was every day artfully exposed in a cased window. appears that he arrived in May from Belfast : he brought no letters of introduction, but said he was a brother of a Member of the English House of Commons, and was himself worth 60 to £80,000. He carried about his person heavy gold chains, and exhibited on every occasion handfuls of sove-

The credit this person enjoyed was at first not considerable, and certainly those who observed his proceedings closely took him for a swindler. However, he gradually gained confidence; he advertised Bills of Exchange and English Gold for sale, went in far as to ask deposits in his bank, offering payment of interest; he deposited a few hundred pounds in each of the Banks. He sold his bills and took notes of hand payable conditionally on the acceptance of the bills, but required an advance of cash, in some instances 10 to 25 per cent, and when his credit was improved 66 1-3 per cent, others paid him in full.-He purchased Exchange from other houses, which he sold at a loss to get the money into his hands. still few had suspicions of him.
