ALMS HOUSE AND WORK HOUSE.
Commissioner for next week.
F. P. ROBINSON, Esquire.

Saving's Bank.
TRUSTEES NEXT WEEK.
HENRY G. CLOPPER, Esq.
JAMES TAYLOR, Esq.
MR. PETER FISHER.

The December Packet has brought London dates to the 9th, and Falmouth to the 11th.

The unavoidable delay of the Halifax mail last week, and the arrival of His Majesty's Packet, Plover, with the December Mail, after a short passage of 18 days, has inundated us with European intelligence, which we deem exceedingly interesting at the present crisis. Our limits will only admit of a condensed statement of our latest information, as we are anxious to furnish our readers with the chain of circumstances which preceded the change of the Administration. It now appears, that the resignation of Ministers was in consequence of their having been outvoted in the House of Commons on the question of the Civil List. As the Duke of Wellington and his colleagues have now taken their seats on the opposition benches, our attention is naturally directed to their successors. The New Administration is surrounded with difficulties, but we trust they are not insurmountable. Parliamentary reform will meet with decided opposition, but they have pledged themselves to support it. There is little variation in the list of appointments which we gave last week. Their names have been officially announced in the Gazette.

The Earl of Carlisle, it is understood, will have a seat in the Cabinet, but without holding any office. We understand that Mr. C. W. Wynn is appointed to be Secretary at War. The Cabinet may therefore be now regarded as quite complete.

At the King's Levee on the 8th December, Sir James Kempt kissed hands on his being appointed Master General of the Ordnance. On the 7th December, the Chancellor of the Exchequer gave notice, that on Thursday he should move for a Select Committee to enquire what reductions can be effected in the salaries of persons holding office at the pleasure of the Crown, and who are, at the same time members of Parliament. This is beginning well, and so the House of Commons thought, for the Chancellor of the Exchequer sat down amidst cheers, such as are rarely heard in that building.

Mr. O'Connell presented a petition to Parliament, signed by 8000 inhabitants of the County of Waterford, for a repeal of the Union, which received no quarter in the House of Commons. The learned gentlemen may do much mischief; but with all his cunning and legal quibbles, he may find good reason to regret the consequences of what he calls rational agitation.

No less than 30 peers, seven baronets, and 200 gentlemen of other ranks, in Ireland, have subscribed to the "Declaration" against all attempts to agitate the question of the repeal of the Union.

We are happy to learn, that the outrages committed in England, have, for the most part, ceased to exist, and that in all probability, a long reign of peace, prosperity and happiness, will be the consequence.

The Paris papers state that the change in our administration has excited a great sensation in France. The Minister of the Interior, in announcing this event to the monied and commercial interests stated, that Europe would find in it fresh guarantees of peace and tranquillity.

A material improvement has taken place in the French funds.

The trial of the Ex-Ministers was expected to commence on the 10th Dec.

FIRE.—Yesterday morning about 2 o'clock, the dwelling House of Mr. Charles Shaw, Blacksmith, was discovered to be on fire, and notwithstanding the very great exertions of the Firewards, Lt. Col. Eeles and the Officers and Men under his command, aided by the different fire companies and inhabitants of the Town, who promptly assisted on the occasion, the entire building, with almost every thing it contained was burnt to the ground. We have heard various opinions on the subject as to where the fire originated, but they are merely conjecture. The family were in bed, but they were providentially alarmed by an unusual noise with the appearance of smoke, issuing from somewhere about the chimney; for had they remained much longer insensible to the danger which threatened them, the consequences might have been truly awful. Mr. Shaw has been long a respectable and industrious mechanic in this place, and we sincerely lament the loss which he and his family must sustain, from such an unexpected calamity.

We are happy to state, that the fire was prevented from communicating to the adjacent buildings which stood in great jeopardy, had there been any wind at the time.

WINTER TRAVELLING.—We are informed by a gentleman who left St. John on Thursday forenoon, and arrived here on Friday evening, by the Nerpis; that the snow and ice had disappeared on the road, and the late thaw had extracted the frost from the ground. He had no difficulty in performing the journey with a Horse and Gig, a circumstance which is unprecedented at this season of the year.

The following communication was received last week, but owing to our press of matter, was unavoidably postponed:—

MADRAS CENTRAL SCHOOLS.

On Friday, previously to the Christmas vacation, was held, the usual examination of the Children in the Central Schools of the Madras Institution. The Trustees who attended, and the other persons, collected to witness this interesting scene, were much gratified at the neat and orderly appearance of the Scholars of both sexes, and at the manner in which they went through their appointed exercises.

The several classes exhibited most strikingly, the superiority of those principles which distinguish all other systems of education the Madras Institution; in the ability to instruct as well as to learn, in the prompt receipt on of committed error, in the accuracy with which analysis is applied to the subjects of their knowledge, and in the changing the mind down to the business before them. It is indeed, but bare justice to the Master and Mistress, to say that the great cause of instruction prospers in their hands.

Two hundred specimens of excellent writing, marked the unremitting attention paid to this important branch of School instruction; and a table spread with articles, such as caps, shirts, napkins, and clothing in general, was a proof of the prudent care given to the useful, rather than the ornamental, in the application of the industry of the female pupils.

There are nearly three hundred white Scholars, male and female, two thirds of whom, receive their education, books and stationery, gratis. This is a peculiarly gratifying circumstance—never at any former period, has there been so great a number of the children of the poor upon the lists of the Schools.

After the examination of the white children, that of the children of colour succeeded, and although Mr. LEE, has not been long in charge of it, the most decisive evidences of ability and attention as a teacher were observable. There were 58 children of all ages, which number added to that of the other Schools, makes an aggregate of 350, now actually receiving the inestimable benefit of a pious education in the Central Schools.—City Gazette.

INQUEST.—On the 27th ult. an Inquest was held at Musquash, before G. C. Carman and Geo. Anderson, Esqrs. on view of the body of Archibald Cooper. Verdict.—That the said Archibald Cooper, on the 25th December, instant, in the Parish of Lancaster, not having the fear of God before his eyes, but being seduced and moved by the instigation of the devil, did in a certain Barn, take and drink a large quantity of Rum, or ardent spirits, for the purpose of destroying his life; and that the said Archibald Cooper, is a felon of himself, feloniously, voluntarily, and of his malice and forethought, himself killed and murdered, against the peace of our Lord the King, his Crown and dignity.—City Gazette.

MOST DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE.

Scarcely has a month elapsed, since we were flattering ourselves with the propitious appearance of the approach of winter, without calling upon us to announce a repetition of any one of those distressing events which are so frequent in occurrence. Little did we then imagine, that the next unfortunate individual who was incautiously to fall a victim to death, would be one with whom we were so intimately acquainted. It becomes our painful duty, however, to state, that on the afternoon of Saturday last, Mr. JOHN BARKER, eldest son of Mr. Thomas Barker, of this place, while amusing himself in skating on the river, (a short distance only from his own dwelling) was precipitated into an air-hole in the ice, and was drowned. It appears from what we have learned of the melancholy circumstance, that he proceeded a considerable distance across the river, and in returning homewards, at full speed, had over-reached his distance before he was aware of the danger which presented itself. He swam some distance until he gained the shore ice, where in making an effort to regain the surface, the ice gave way, and he sunk to rise no more. He was seen by several persons from the shore, among whom were his own Father; but before any of them could reach the spot, all assistance was too late. His body was soon afterwards found—medical aid promptly obtained, but in vain. The shock of so sudden a bereavement to his assembled family and connexions may be readily conceived—they have sorrow upon sorrow, but it is not sorrow without hope; nor is that much less, which is felt in the neighbourhood where he resided; for seldom have we seen so much interest excited by the death of an individual—and it may be well said of him,—And they mourned over him. It oftentimes becomes a weighty and delicate task, when we venture to eulogize the character of the departed, a task which we could willingly assign to others; but in the present instance, we shall be fully borne out in saying; that Mr. B. was a man of the strictest integrity and of industrious habits—regular and steady in all his conduct—kind, hospitable and benevolent, and a warm supporter of the cause of religion. In his domestic circle, as a husband and a parent, he evinced the strongest affection and attachment; and to those who depended on him for a livelihood, his loss will be deeply felt. But who is sufficient to express the situation of a Widow and four young Children, who have thus had their earthly expectations blighted by a single stroke, from the hand of an All-wise and mysterious Providence?

A Coroner's inquest was held by Wm. Taylor, Esq. on the body.—Verdict accidentally drowned while skating on the ice. His funeral will take place to-day at 12 o'clock, from his former residence, where the friends and acquaintances of the family are requested to attend.

A Coroner's inquest was held on Monday, the 10th inst. before Solomon Perley Esq. at Sheffield, upon the body of Thomas McNeal.—Verdict, accidental Death by drowning.

Married.

MARRIED at Trinity Church, New York, on 22d Dec. by the Right Rev. Bishop Onderdonk, J. Leander Starr, Esq. of Halifax N. S. to Frances Barberie, youngest daughter of the late William Throckmorton Esq. of that City.

Died.

DIED, at West Isles, on Thursday last, Mr. Wm. Stewart, aged 78 years. Also, Fenwick Stewart, aged 9 years.

We have kept ourselves fully employed since we were yesterday put in possession of a good supply of papers by the English December Mail, and from our great anxiety to embrace in our columns every article of importance, we have been driven to the necessity of throwing the greater part of our advertisements into a supplement, but they will resume their proper place in our next number.

LATEST NEWS FROM EUROPE.

The conduct of the King throughout is spoken of in terms of warm approbation. So long as the Duke of Wellington's Ministry were able to carry on the business of the country, he gave his entire confidence to them. The resignation of the late Ministry, in consequence of their defeat on Monday night, imposed on his Majesty the necessity of looking elsewhere for support; and it is understood that, when Earl Grey explained the terms on which he could undertake the formation of an administration, his Majesty met his views in the most frank and cordial manner.

LIVERPOOL ELECTION.—The contest for the representation of Liverpool commenced on Tuesday last. The candidates were Mr. Denison and Mr. William Ewart. The state of the poll on Wednesday evening was—for Mr. Denison, 1700; for Mr. Ewart, 1683; majority for Mr. Denison, 12.—The market price of a vote is £15; but in some instances produced £25, when the voter-managed well. It is supposed the Member returned will advocate some improvement in the Elective Franchise. The want of many declined to vote at all in the midst of such corruption. No wonder that many of the most intelligent and public-spirited men in Manchester and Birmingham are unwilling to have representatives.

HIS MAJESTY'S CORONATION.—It is currently reported at the west end of the town, that the Coronation of his Majesty will take place about the latter end of next March.

The Queen, it is understood, has fixed on the 24th day of February next for holding her first Drawing-room, when all the Ladies who attend are expected to appear in dress of British manufacture.

His Majesty, who is an early riser, is to be seen nearly every morning, about 8 o'clock, promenading in the walk, Pall Mall, or St. James's Street, unattended.

NEW BISHOP OF EXETER.—A meeting of the Dean and Chapter of the See of Exeter was held on Monday, in the Cathedral, when, in pursuance of His Majesty's comte d'ordre, the Right Reverend Father in God, Dr. Philpots, was elected to the See of Exeter, vacant by the translation of Dr. Bethel to that of Bangor.

Lord Howe, Chamberlain to the Queen, has sent in his resignation.

Mr. Justice Bayley took leave of the Court of Kings Bench on Thursday, in consequence of being nominated a Baron of the Exchequer. Mr. Brougham highly complimented the learned judge for his faithfulness and ability in discharging his important duties for 32 years, and most cordial greetings were exchanged between the bench and the bar.

Mr. Washington Irving, as secretary to the American Minister, had the honor to be presented to their Majesty's grand party last week, to which very few persons were invited of his degree.

Mr. Ewart, has been elected member for Liverpool, by a majority of 29 over Mr. Denison. The election is said to have cost from £70,000 to £80,000.

Inundation at Manchester.—On Monday evening last, the rain fell, in this neighbourhood in torrents, and during that night there was a dreadful storm. In the afternoon of Tuesday, the river Irwell rose about 20 feet beyond its usual level, covering many hundreds of acres, and in one field near Broughton, eleven cows were drowned. Wrecks of houses, cottages, &c. were seen floating down the stream. The coaches from Warrington were stopped several hours; and it is supposed that the damage done in this neighbourhood alone, will amount to £100,000.

On Tuesday night, Mr. Croker made an acrimonious attack on the new Lord Chancellor, for his acceptance of office, after his explicit declarations to decline it. In the absence of the party attacked, Mr. Croker's demand for explanation was out of place.

On Friday the Lord Chancellor took an opportunity of replying to these remarks of Mr. Croker. His vindication briefly was, that he shared in the astonishment of others at his elevation to the office and dignity which he now held; but the only reason of his final acceptance was, not the mere attainment of that dignity, but the prospect of being better able to prosecute his former measures for the service of his country. He also denied that he had declared an intention of never withdrawing from the representation of the County of York.

In the Commons, it appears that Mr. Hume has abandoned. For the present, his motion for the reduction of the salaries of Ministers to the scale of 1793, on the ground that such a motion at present would be a declaration of hostility against the new Ministers, whom he was willing, first of all, to judge by their acts.

One of our contemporaries states that the Duke of Wellington does not intend to oppose the new Government. We do not find, however, that his Grace has given any pledge of this kind; he has merely said, that he will neither join in nor sanction any factious opposition—a declaration highly honourable to the Duke, and very proper, considering the difficulties which the Government have to encounter. We were quite right in assuming that the Duke would disown the factious opposition which was attempted in the House of Commons with reference to Lord Brougham.—Courier.

DECEMBER 9.

The Regency Bill was brought down from the House of Lords, and was read a first time. Ordered to be read a second time on Thursday.

The acknowledgment of Don Miguel is said to be postponed sine die by the new ministry. A letter from Rome states, that on the 26th ult. the Pope was supposed to be at the point of death.

The Pope's nuncio in Paris is stripped of his honours; and the French soldiers are no longer to attend mass.

It is said that the Austrian and Spanish governments have recalled their Ambassadors residing at the Court of the King of the Netherlands.

House of Lords.—A person having been noticed for several days past loitering about the lobby of the House of Lords, the door-keeper this morning told him he must not be about there, when the fellow presented a pistol to his head, and snapped it, but it missed fire. He was immediately conveyed to the Home Office, where he underwent an examination before the Under Secretary of State, and Sir R. Birnie. It is supposed he is deranged.

There is a rumour abroad that a strong collision of sentiment has taken place between his Majesty's government and the East India Company.

The Majority of nearly all classes of the citizens of Brussels, Antwerp, and Ghent, and even Liege, particularly the armed burghers, are, it is said, in favour of the accession of the Prince of Orange, or one of his sons, as the means of restoring peace and confidence.

The man who attempted assassination in the House of Lords, has been handed over to the civil power, and will be examined at Bow-street, on Friday. He says he had an account to settle with the Duke of Wellington.

FALMOUTH, Dec. 11.

The apprehensions which were last week entertained of a continental war have nearly subsided. It would appear that this alteration in public opinion throughout Europe, has been principally effected by the change of ministry in this country, and by their declaration of non-intervention and of their desire to preserve universal peace, which they made on their appointment. It cannot be concealed that considerable distrust of the Duke of Wellington's non-intervention policy was generally entertained throughout Europe. He was thought to manifest too strong a predilection for legitimacy—for the rights of the few, in preference to the rights of the many.—Our foreign details are more than usually interesting.

The incendiary outrages which have been committed over so great a portion of the country, have, for the most part, ceased on the strict enforcement of the law, the penalties of which now await the perpetrators. The evidence on the trial of the prisoners, we doubt not, will show that the labourers were not alone the guilty parties. In many cases there is good reason to believe that the farmers themselves have instigated the labourers to their lawless deeds, and in others, that they have quietly looked on, for the purpose of arousing their landlords into a sense of their distressed state in consequence of high rents and tithes, with low prices for their produce. If this be correct, and we believe it is, then have they succeeded, and we should think, beyond their most sanguine expectations, to not only have the landlords consented to reduce their rents, and the clergy their tithes, but a sensation has been produced in the minds of the government and the legislature, that inquiry, retrenchment, (and consequent reduction of taxation,) and reform of Parliament will certainly follow. The institutions of the country will be regenerated, and a long reign of peace, prosperity, and happiness, will, in all probability, be the consequence.

The cause of Reform in Parliament is gathering an irresistible force, and it must soon be granted, or as Earl Grey says, it will be taken. The public interest demand it, and delay is dangerous. A few years since, and the man who avowed himself a Reformer, stood a self-branded revolutionist in the estimation of men who now, through their fears, see no safety for the country but in such a reform as would formerly have been demanded only by an ultra-reformist. Such is one instance of the complete revolution that sometimes take place in the minds of a majority of a nation.—Large meetings have been held at Edinburgh and Sheffield, at which petitions for parliamentary reform were carried with acclamations.

The Courier of the 9th Dec. says:—We stated yesterday from an authentic and exclusive source, that the King of the Netherlands had refused to fulfil the conditions of the armistice and that Messrs. Cartwright & Bresson, had proceeded to the Hague to remonstrate with his Majesty.

Since writing the above, we have received a private letter from Brussels, in which it is stated that the Mission of Mr. Cartwright has not had the unfortunate result represented in the Brussels papers.

We are happy to say, that our accounts this morning of the state of the country generally are of such a nature as to justify a belief that tranquillity will in a short time be completely restored. The accounts from Scotland are equally satisfactory.

ANTWERP, Dec. 6.—King William is stated to have answered among other things, to the observations of Mr. Cartwright on the non-execution of the armistice—My Allies have solemnly guaranteed to me the Sovereignty of the Netherlands, if they abandon me, I will defend myself alone to the last extremity; and will never suffer any communication between the faithful provinces, and those that have rebelled.

The Courier of 1st Dec. in conclusion of an article on the subject of retrenchment says,—"In the mean time the public will act wisely, neither to expect too much, nor to urge the Government too far in abolition or reduction of such public institutions as experience may have proved, not only to be both useful and necessary, and to re-establish which in their present efficient state, if experience should prove such restoration necessary, would subject the Country to a heavy expenditure."
