

another strong proof of your Excellency's anxiety for our welfare—while we hope for the merciful interposition of Providence in our favour, we shall always feel, very sensibly, the obligations we are under to your Excellency for the judicious measures you have taken for our security.

It is our fervent wish, that the passage of yourself and your amiable family to England, may be propitious; that you may long enjoy the honours you have acquired in the service of your Country, and all the felicities and comforts of your happy domestic circle—and may receive from our beloved Sovereign that approbation to which your Administration of the Government of Nova-Scotia gives you so just a Claim.

To which His Excellency was pleased to return the following Answer:

GENTLEMEN,
I receive your affectionate Address with mixed feelings of gratitude, and regret—of regret, because I have not better entitled myself to the terms which you have so kindly applied to my conduct—of gratitude, for so friendly a testimony of your good will.

For the inhabitants of this Capital, and of the Province of Nova-Scotia at large, I must ever entertain the most sincere regard. They have always been conspicuous for a generous attachment to their government, and on this occasion, I cannot but feel sensible, that to the influence of that principle I mainly owe the commendations which you have embodied in your Address. Permit me to add to my own, the thanks of Lady Sarah Maitland, and my Family, for the interest you have so kindly expressed for our welfare. In the period of our intercourse with you, our minds have been impressed with many grateful recollections—and fervent will be our wishes, as well for your personal happiness as for the general prosperity and advancement of the Town of Halifax.

ADDRESS OF H. M. COUNCIL.
To His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir PERCIVAL MAITLAND, K. C. B., Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief in and over His Majesty's Province of Nova-Scotia and its Dependencies, &c. &c. &c.
The Humble Address of His Majesty's Council of Nova-Scotia.

May it please your Excellency,
His Majesty's Council have learned, with sincere regret, that your Excellency is about to leave us, to return for a time to your native land.

The constant and unremitting anxiety which your Excellency has displayed to promote the welfare and increase the prosperity of the people confided to your care, by our gracious Sovereign, has impressed His Majesty's Council with a deep sense of the value of your Excellency's services to this Province.

A warm disinterested zeal for the public good—a benevolent, paternal spirit, a conciliatory disposition and a kind and charitable heart, have been eminently conspicuous in your Excellency's public and private conduct during the period of your administration of the Government of Nova-Scotia.

To the reputation of a distinguished Soldier your Excellency has united the character of a devout and humble Christian, and the example which your Excellency and Lady Sarah Maitland have set to all classes of this community will, we hope, be as permanently beneficial to them, as it is honorable to those who have thus dignified their virtues by the practice of every Christian virtue.

Much as we lament that your departure will deprive us of the benefit we have derived from your talents and integrity, in the guidance of our public affairs, we are convinced that it is unavoidable, but we earnestly hope it will not be long before we shall again have the happiness of seeing you among us with renovated health.

We cannot however permit you to depart, even for a season, without assuring you that you carry with you the respect, the esteem, and the admiration of your Council in Nova-Scotia.

We are confident that the whole Province concur with us in these sentiments, but the official intercourse which we have had with your Excellency has been marked with such kindness and attention on your part, and has given us such frequent opportunities of witnessing the exercise of those virtues which have essentially promoted the public welfare, and so endeared you to us that we should not do justice to our feelings, if we did not now express them, upon meeting you in Council, on the eve of your departure.

We avail ourselves of this opportunity of manifesting our high respect and regard for Lady Sarah Maitland, and we beg you to believe that we shall ever take the warmest interest in the welfare of yourself, her Ladyship and of your amiable Family.

To which His Excellency was pleased to return the following answer:

HONORABLE GENTLEMEN,
My best acknowledgements are due to you for the kind feeling which has led you to address me; but permit me to say that I do not lay to my heart the flattering hope, that my conduct has corresponded with the friendly view which you have taken of it. I cannot but be sensible that I owe much of your favourable opinion to the respect you entertain for your Sovereign's appointment, by which I have the honor to be among you: It is however consoling to my mind, to gather from your address that my intercourse among you has not tended to impair that sentiment.

In bidding farewell to you gentlemen, with whom I have so often taken Counsel, and whose friendship I have learned to value—allow me to assure you, that my absence from this Province will not diminish the interest I take in your welfare, or obliterate the sense of that kindness and attention which I have experienced during my residence among you.

I must not omit to add the thanks of Lady Sarah Maitland and of my Family, to my own, for the friendly wishes you have so kindly expressed for our happiness.

To His Excellency Lieutenant-General Sir PERCIVAL MAITLAND, K. C. B., Lieutenant-Governor of Nova-Scotia, &c. &c. &c.

May it please your Excellency,
The Bishop and Clergy of the established Church in Nova-Scotia have felt in common with their fellow subjects in Nova-Scotia, the benefit of your Excellency's mild, and equitable and paternal Government.—With them, they have shared in the kind and condescending attentions of your Excellency; and they heartily join in the general tribute of respect which is called forth by your intended departure, as well as in the general sorrow which pervades the Community at the approach of that event.

But feeling, that the acts and the example of your Excellency have rendered essential service to the sacred cause, whose advancement is the special object of our labours and our prayers, we hope for indulgence if we are anxious to express, more particularly, our gratitude and our regret.

Your Excellency's assistance to our Churches whenever it has been required; your respect for our office; your kind notice of ourselves; your encouragement to our exertions; and, above all, your prompt and liberal attention to every case of suffering that has been laid before you, and the exemplary regard of your Excellency and of your family to every public and private duty of Religion, have a claim upon our warmest gratitude, which we gladly acknowledge.

Knowing, from the highest authority, how necessary it is, that he that ruleth over men should be just, ruling in the fear of God, and how great the blessings are which attend such rule; we shall not be thought insensible to the advantages of your Excellency's high Military character, nor to the value of your cultivated talents, and your experience in Civil Command, if we consider those qualifications, which characterize your Excellency as a Devout Soldier, and a Christian Governor, the most distinguished and the most valuable, we cannot but regard the Rule of such a Governor as a blessing to any Country, and its interruption as a cause for sincere regret.

But we know, Sir, that the praise of men is of little importance to the person who is influenced, in all he does, by that fear of God, which guides the just Ruler, we therefore only offer our testimony to facts, which are known to us; but if our tribute were of greater value, to us; we should have more pleasure in presenting it.

While offering to your Excellency the testimony of our respect and gratitude, we cannot be so unjust to our feelings, as to omit what is due from us to the amiable and valuable example of Lady Sarah Maitland. Her ladyship has convinced us that she regards the distinctions of birth and station, as bringing increased obligations to the humility and piety and active benevolence of the Christian. No dwelling has been thought too lowly, or two wretched, for her visit, when she could administer comfort and relief to the sufferings and the wants of its inhabitants; and amid the many claims of a numerous young family, to whom every maternal duty has been performed in a most exemplary manner, her ladyship, has never pleaded the want of leisure when a demand has been made upon her time by the distress of a fellow creature.

Her ladyship's judicious and persevering endeavours to improve the education, to contrive the employment, to encourage the industry, to relieve the immediate wants, and promote the permanent comfort and happiness of the poor, will long be remembered in this place, and will call forth many a prayer, when she is far away, for blessings to herself and her family. Nor can it be doubted, that the feelings which have been kindly excited by her engaging example, although depressed by her departure, will be cherished when she is absent.

Permit us to assure your Excellency, that our fervent prayers will frequently implore the merciful protection of Providence to Yourself and to Your family on the Sea and on the Land, with health and every other blessing you can enjoy.

We have full confidence that upon your arrival in England, Your Excellency will be honoured with the gracious approbation of Your Sovereign whom you have faithfully represented in Nova-Scotia. And we are sure You will be followed by the blessings of the people, whom You have wisely and temperately governed.

We cannot refrain from the indulgence of an anxious hope that Your Excellency may soon resume your important station in this Colony; and if our hopes shall happily be gratified, Your Excellency will find our joy at your return as ardent and sincere, as the regret at Your departure, which now prompts our respectful and affectionate farewell.

JOHN NOVA-SCOTIA,

Archdeacon of the Diocese of Nova Scotia,
Fitzgerald University, A. M.
Rector of St. George's,
Mather Byles Desbrosses,

Halifax, October 6, 1832.

To which His Excellency was pleased to make the following Answer:

My Lord and Reverend Gentlemen,
I regret that I have pressing upon me so many unlooked-for matters on the eve of my departure, that I am not enabled to reply to your very affectionate Address so much at large as I could wish.

I cannot, however, but remark, how sensible I am, that it has proceeded from that spirit and disposition which hopes, and speaks, and thinks the best.

It has been my happiness, and it has been my own fault if it has not been my benefit, to have enjoyed a personal acquaintance with many of your number; men whose conduct has inspired me with sincere esteem, and whose residence, in any country, I should consider, as a signal blessing.

To the exemplary conduct of the Clergy of this Province, in general, I shall always have pleasure in bearing testimony.

Allow me to add my own thanks to those of Lady Sarah, and my Family, for your prayers and good wishes, and to request your acceptance of our very affectionate farewell.

The English Mail for September, reached us on Monday last, bringing Falmouth dates to the 8th ult. The state of political affairs remain unimportant and ambiguous. The following may be considered as something approaching correctness:—
"The contest in Portugal seems likely to be a tedious one; and the differences between Holland and Belgium would appear as far as ever from a settlement. Germany remains in an unsettled state; Poland continues to be the scene of Russian barbarities; and Greece is an entire prey to internal dissensions; while the Pacha of Egypt is pursuing a victorious course against the Turkish armies."

The present term of the Supreme Court which closed its sittings last week, has been chiefly taken up with the action pending between James M. Spearman, Esquire, of His Majesty's Customs, and John Wilson, Esquire, Merchant of Saint Andrews, for an alleged libel published in the Saint Andrews Herald. The pleadings were eloquent and ingenious by the learned Council on both sides, and seldom have we witnessed a greater degree of interest excited than that which was evinced during the whole course of the proceedings, which occupied four days. The Jury, after about three hours deliberation, returned a verdict in favour of the plaintiff, damages 1s. and 6d. costs. As we had a voice in the decision of this unpleasant affair, it might be considered unbecoming to say anything further on the subject at present. Mr. Blatch of Saint John, however, having been engaged by the parties as reporter, we may probably be enabled in a short time to lay before our readers some of the particulars, if not the whole of the trial, in a correct form.

We understand that the following changes have been made in the Custom House department, and that the under mentioned Officers have been directed to proceed and take upon themselves the duties of the offices to which they have been respectively appointed:

Mr. Spearman, Collector at Saint Andrews, to be Collector at New Brunswick, in the room of Mr. Brooking superannuated.

Mr. Alexander Grant Warehousekeeper at Saint John, to be Collector at Saint Andrews at a reduced salary of 500l. per annum in the room of Mr. Spearman.

Mr. William Stringer, Warehousekeeper at Quebec to be Warehousekeeper at St. John, at a reduced salary of 300l. per annum in the room of Mr. Grant.

The Quebec Official Gazette contains the Royal Proclamation, summoning the PARLIAMENT for the 15th November.

THE PARLIAMENT OF UPPER CANADA is summoned for the despatch of business, on Wednesday, the 31st October. The Courier states that the new Parliament House will be ready for the reception of the two Houses at the opening of the session.

From the Saint John Courier.

FROM IRELAND.—We were this morning favoured with Irish papers to the 3d ult. received by the brig Ambassador, at Quaco, from Londonderry.

The prosecutions of the Revenue Officers at Waterford, against two passengers and some of the crew of the brig Aurora, from this port, for having contraband Tobacco on board, all failed, chiefly, it is stated, from informality in the indictment, and the omission of the words "then and there."

Another Tobacco seizure.—About eight hundred weight of tobacco was seized by the Customs department at Kingsale, on board the barque Independence, Captain Ewens, from this port. An investigation had taken place, and the mate of the vessel was taken into custody.

The Cholera, we perceive, still prevailed with little abatement in several districts. The official report in Dublin on the 30th August was, 61 new cases; 21 deaths; 39 recoveries. There are 54 places indicated as infected in Ireland, and 76 in Great Britain. The deaths in Great Britain for three days, were 915; new cases, 2275; recoveries, 1303. In Ireland the new cases were 583; deaths, 150; recoveries, 245. Sligo continues still the most afflicted place;—there are not more than 3000 people in the town, which contained at least nineteen thousand inhabitants.

SLIGO.—The deaths have decreased during the week in Sligo, but when we take into consideration the decrease in the population, (little more than 3000 persons remaining out of 19,000) we must conclude that the malignancy of the disease has but little abated. A few of the shops have been again opened for business, and the houses are being fumigated.

SPORTING.—During the late Races at Halifax, a match for £500 aside, was made between the thorough bred imported horse Imperial, owned in Nova Scotia, and the half blood horse Sussex, bred and owned in this Province, which was run on the 28th ult. and won easily by the latter, without the application of either whip or spur, while the former, it is stated, was pushed to his utmost speed. Sussex is a gelding, five years old, sired by Captain Absolute, a horse imported from England some years since by A. Wedderburn, Esq. of this City.

Arrived on Tuesday last, from Annapolis, in the steamer Henrietta, the Rev. James Dunphy, who took charge the following day of the Parish of St. Malachy, as Parish Priest.

The Rev. William Dollard, Vicar General, returned the same day (Wednesday) by Post, to his former Parish at Miramichi.

SAINT JOHN AND CARLETON FERRY.—We are happy to learn that the Steam Ferry Boat which is to ply upon the harbour between St. John and Carleton, is in rapid progress, and is expected to be in perfect readiness to perform, as early as the 1st of January next. Messrs. Ross and Dixon, the contractors for furnishing the Engine, are proceeding with it in such a manner as to leave no doubt of their ultimate success; and likewise Mr. C. Adams, who furnishes the Boat, is proceeding in an equally satisfactory manner.

We sincerely congratulate the public upon the prospect that so beneficial an arrangement will be speedily effected; we also wish the enterprising proprietor, Mr. N. Vail, may experience success in his arduous undertaking—and we also feel assured, that a generous and enlightened public will be forward in promoting so desirable an object.

The Foundation Plate for the Machinery, cast at the Foundry of Messrs. Ross, Foulis and Hogg, proves highly satisfactory. It is said to be the heaviest casting ever made in this country.—Observer.

MELANCHOLY AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—It is with no ordinary feeling of sorrow that we publish the particulars of a fatal accident which, on Friday, deprived two ladies instantaneously of life. Mrs. Kearsley and Miss Margaret Kearsley, the wife and daughter of Mr. Kearsley, of the firm of Hodson & Co. coal merchants, had been in town, and about three o'clock were on their way home to their residence in Beau street, when the melancholy occurrence took place, which hurried them into eternity. They were passing along the parapet on the north side of Dale-street, and, when just on the point of turning into Byron-street, an empty spirit puncheon fell from a height of four stories upon them from Mr. Rigmiden's warehouse. The ladies appeared crushed, as it were, into the earth. The cask fell with its full force on the head of Miss Kearsley, the edge of it laying open, or rather removing the scalp from the head of her mother. Neither of them ever spoke, or even moaned. Miss Kearsley seemed to indicate a convulsive motion as she lay on the pavement; the blood started from her eyes and mouth, and she expired instantly.—There being an appearance of life in her mother, she was carried first to the drug-gist's opposite, and subsequently to Mr. Whitley's surgery in Dale-street. She expired before any thing could possibly be done for her. Mrs. Kearsley was about 46, a healthy, elegant, woman—Miss Kearsley was in her 15th year.—We never remember any accident that produced a deeper feeling of sorrow and commiseration in the public mind.—Liverpool Paper, August 17.

At the Lancaster Assizes, held in a few days after the accident, Mr. Rigmiden was convicted of Manslaughter, and sentenced to one month's imprisonment in the castle.

THE SLAVE TRADE.—His Majesty's schooner Nimble, Lieut. Potbury, arrived at Bermuda, on the 29th August, with her prize the Portuguese brig Hebe, mounting eight guns, with a complement of 28 men, and having 400 slaves on board, which she captured on the 13th July, off the Isle of Pines, (Cuba.) The Hebe was first taken to Havannah, but the mixed commission there having no cognizance of Portuguese Guinea-men, she could not be admitted for adjudication, and was therefore taken to Bermuda. The slaves had previously been landed on Heyburn Key, about 40 miles east of Nassau, where they would await the decision of the British Government.

The annexed particulars from the Jamaica Courier, which come to us through the Bermuda Gazette, give a frightful picture of the extent to which the disgraceful traffic in human flesh is still carried on.—When it is known that one cruiser alone, has, in the short space of three months, captured three vessels, with no less than a thousand slaves on board,—the whole trade during that time, we are led to conclude, must have amounted to a number that would astonish the most unthinking!

GALLANT CONDUCT OF LIEUT. WARREN, R. N.—We have already stated the capture by His Majesty's schooner Speedwell, of the "Planetta," Spanish slave schooner, and also of the "Aquila," another slave brig, with 616 slaves; but what will our readers think, when we assert that the same vessel has added another slave schooner to her list of captures—making a total of a 1000 slaves in the short and unprecedented period of less than three months! and we consider we should not be doing justice to the zeal and ability displayed by Lieut. Warren throughout, did we neglect to state a few particulars relative to the capture of the Aquilla, one of the largest and most victorious slave-ships out of the Havannah, of 330 tons, with a crew of 70 men—having eight thirty-two pounders and two twelve pounders, and pierced for 20 guns. The brig had a round stern, which gave her additional advantage over her gallant little opponent;—she was seen at daylight on the morning of the 3d of June, and immediately chased by the Speedwell, whose superiority of sailing soon convinced her captain that he had no means of escape, on which he shortened sail and hove to, in man-of-war style, to engage. The details of an engagement at sea, would perhaps not be of much interest to our readers. Suffice it to say, that after an action of an hour, within pistol shot, the brig struck her colours to the Speedwell.

The tonnage of the Speedwell is about 90, while that of the Aquilla is 330, and fitted out in the most splendid manner, with a picked crew of 70 men! Yet notwithstanding this disparity, Lieut. Warren engaged her, and he was nobly supported by his crew. On taking possession, some difficulty occurred as to the disposal of the prisoners; but with men who could perform such deeds of daring, nothing was impossible. The crew was divided between the brig and the Schooner, and 70 men placed in irons by 50 of the true John Bull breed, and the brig safely navigated into the Havannah. On nearing that port, the excitement on shore was very great, to see a cock boat exporting one of the finest vessels belonging to Cuba, into port as a prize, and so annoyed was the Spanish Governor at a circumstance which, he said, reflected discredit on the national character, that the captain has been sentenced to prison for ten years! This is one way of discouraging the Foreign Slave Trade: and we will venture to say, while Lieut. Warren has the honour of commanding the Speedwell, that he will be the means of consigning a few more Spaniards in the dungeons of the Moro; but we do hope, that services like his will be rewarded, by giving him the command of a vessel of force, with the t'other-swab on his shoulder.

On Sunday night, 26th August, of cholera, at Bayswater, aged 70, the Rev. Dr. ADAM CLARKE, one of the great lights, strengths and blessings of the world. This illustrious individual was profoundly learned in many languages: was an eminent philosopher, a great divine, a celebrated commentator, an extensive author, and a most distinguished preacher: the friend and promoter of letters, of science, and of the arts; the advocate of humanity, liberty and religion; the honest pride and greatest ornament of the Methodist body; and at the moment of his death, filled a larger space in the public eye, and occupied a larger share in the public heart, not only of the vast community to which he belonged, but of most of the living Christianity now afloat in the globe, than any that survived him. He was for fifty years the most eminent minister of his denomination—possessing great nobleness of soul and loftiness of intellect:—was mainly philanthropic, and generous in an illustrious degree; had a most original, searching, analytical and laborious mind; was the very antipodes of littleness, of bigotry, and sectarianism, and, in a word, he was pre-eminently a GREAT AND GOOD MAN,—of whom it is hardly too much to say—"Nunquam eiebamur ei simile interitum."—Leeds Mercury.
