

in a short distance of where Capt. Back expected to find the river. They also determined that the land was continuous to that which forms the Bay.

During the autumn of 1830, the voyagers waited in vain for the ice to dissolve itself as it had done the preceding year. They had not, with great exertion, proceeded more than four miles (retreating their course) when they were arrested in a very dreary position, by the approach of winter unparalleled in severity. The lowest temperature being 92 degrees below the freezing point. The summer, proving no less rigorous for the season, little hope was entertained for a release, and a further progress of fourteen miles was all they could accomplish.

In October, 1831, the ship was laid up in the harbour, where she at present lies moored, and where the party endured the rigours of another winter, not less severe than that of the preceding year. Their provisions being now consumed, they had no alternative but to abandon the vessel and proceed to the spot where the Fur's provisions still remained—a direct distance of 200 miles, which was increased by one half, in consequence of the circuitous route which the ice obliged them to take. They accordingly left the Victory in May, 1832, and after a journey of uncommon labour and hardship, reached Fury Beach in the month of July. During this journey they had not only to carry their provisions and pack, but also a supply of fuel, for without melting snow they could not even procure a drink of water.

They repaired the Fur's boats, and attempted to escape; but it was September before they reached Leopold's Island, which they have fully established to be the N. E. point of America. Here they vainly waited for the ice to break. It presented an impenetrable mass, extending across the water. So that, and intercepting the progress of the ships, which could advance no farther than about a mile, where some remained at a late in the 13th of September the same year. Winter set in, and they had no choice left but to ration their steps, and spend another unpleasant season in a hut covered with snow. They had no beds, clothing, or animal food. Captain Ross says that their sufferings cannot be completely submitted to the public, for it could not be believed what they had undergone. The earthen or perished, and several others were much reduced that they had to be carried to Betty Bay where the boats had been left.

The spring and summer of the present year afforded the desolate party some cheering hopes. The ice opened on the 14th of August; and on the same day that Capt. Ross and his party, the Isabella, tried to reach Leopold's Island, they arrived there. The former could not cross the ice, and was driven by a N. W. gale to the Southward up Prince Regent's Inlet. The party remained there until the gale had departed, and, having crossed within the northward of her, and, having gained the south shore of Lancaster Sound, they reached its entrance before the Isabella overtook them.

The party were not more reduced by their sufferings than might have been expected. They have now recovered from the effects of their sufferings. The circumstances of Captain Ross being rescued by the ship he commanded in 1818, is a curious and happy conclusion of the voyage, the result of which has been to establish there is [N. W.] no new passage south of 74 degrees. Only three men died during the voyage; two of whom were men whose constitutions were unfit for the climate. On the whole it may be said, that this expedition has done more than any that preceded it; and let it be remembered that Captain Ross and his companions were volunteers, serving without pay, for the attainment of a national object, in prosecuting of which they have lost their all.

MORTALITY AMONG THE INDIANS.—We are informed thirteen or fourteen of the Indians, camped about eleven miles above Fredericton, have lately died of Typhus Fever. The subject was a short time since brought under the notice of the Board of Health, and they deputed a committee of three, to ascertain the cause of the disorder, the means necessary to be adopted to prevent its spread, and the situation of the unfortunate sufferers. On their arrival at the Village, they found one poor fellow with no covering but a blanket, and the whole in a most deplorable situation. We believe every necessary precaution has been taken to allay the progress of the disorder, and the personal wants of its immediate victims have been supplied. We understand the fever originated near the Grand Lake, from whence it was brought to the French Village by two Indians, who fled from the encampment through the fear of its influence. —Watchman.

LT. COL. SNODGRASS (Son-in-law of His Excellency Sir ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL) has been appointed Military Secretary to the Major-General commanding the Forces in this Province, and N. W. Brunswick. Capt. MITLAND, who held the situation of Military Secretary under his Father, returns very shortly to England. —Hal. Gaz.

The Govt. Brig Forte arrived here yesterday from St. John's, N. F. Charles Inglis, Esq. (Son of the Lord Bishop of the Diocese) appointed Private Secretary to His Excellency Sir Thomas Cochrane, C. B. will take passage in her, on her return. —Id.

THE LONDON PRESS.—By a return from the Stamp Office, comprising the period between 1st January, 1832, and 30th June 1833, we find there were 71 newspapers issued in London, using stamps, and that the stamps required for these journals, amounted to 30,962,000. They appear to have been distributed thus—22,000 to liberal papers, from radical to moderate whig; 1,110,000 to papers without politics; 7,852,000 to Tory and other papers, of which we do not know the political character.

FRACAS AMONG THE LIVERPOOL BLACK-LEGS.—Be it known to all whom it may concern, that during and after the late races, certain places in this town were opened for the gentlemanly pastime of cards, dice and other fashionable games. One of these—and the most select—was a certain establishment not in Clayton square. Here congregated those who had money to lose, and those who had much need of other people's sovereigns, if acquired in a honourable way. Among others were several respectable tradesmen, and the betting, despite of the Council of the Lodge, was heavy. The gambling was prolonged and then all turned, several tradesmen being made desperate by their losses. On the occasion a shopkeeper in a central street, staked and lost, staked and lost, staked and lost, and lost again.

still—at 12 o'clock he was minus £250. As he never won by any change, he suspected foul play, and very coolly took up the dice and put them in his pocket. The alarm was given; it was an imputation on the honour of the company; and they demanded the surrender of the ivory; but as one party thought after feeling their pockets, that the imputation was deserved, they advised the delinquent not to restore the dice. A battle royal ensued; the blows were quick and heavy, the mill long and scientific, and the fracas ended by the shopkeeper and his friends carrying off the ivory to a neighbouring tavern. Here, in the presence of the host, a hammer was produced, the dice broken, and lo! and behold! they were loaded! All concerned, it appears, were fellow tradesmen—gentlemen of the town—and an exposure so was threatened. The winnings of the night were restored, further demands were made and acceded to, and all in the secret were silenced. The report, however, got abroad, and a claimant has just appeared for the restoration of £3,000. He is the opponent father of a young gentleman who had lost that sum at hazard with the loaded dice, and he threatens to spend £10,000 to regain his £3,000. These are the facts of the case as reported; the thing has been for weeks no secret to the knowing ones. —Liverpool Chronicle.

PROSPECTUS OF THE SECOND VOLUME OF THE ALBION.
NEW SERIES.
The second volume of the New Series of THE ALBION will commence on the first Saturday of the ensuing year, 1834.
This Journal, which embraces the News, Politics, and Literature of Europe, more particularly of Great Britain, has been established nearly Twelve Years, and has obtained a reputation and circulation far surpassing the most sanguine expectations of its founders. This flattering encouragement has enabled the Proprietor, on three separate occasions, to improve, enlarge, and embellish the work, and to throw into its pages such an increased quantity of political, literary, and scientific matter, as to render it, in the estimation of its friends, one of the most efficient weekly journals in the English language.

In its details, the ALBION will be found to embrace—Notices and accounts of all the new publications of value, issued from the British Press;—the Debates in both Houses of Parliament, with the most remarkable Speeches at length;—and the general intelligence of the British Empire, the Continent of Europe, and other parts of the globe. In its lighter portions will be found the most amusing and agreeable Tales of the British Periodicals, which are so remarkable for their lively and sparkling talent, selected with a diligence and care that has thrown forth the most unqualified approbation. Any thing that tends in the remotest degree to shock female delicacy, or to offend national affection, is carefully excluded, by which course the paper has become an inmate of the most respectable and intellectual families, and may be found in the Drawing Rooms and on the tables of the most literary persons on the North American Continent.

Poetry, History, Biography, Music and the Drama, receive distinct and proper attention, while Scientific and Geographical Discoveries, Voyages, and Travels, &c. &c., are faithfully recorded. The Wit and Anecdote of the great European World,—the London and Parisian Fashions, and a weekly summary of the Miscellaneous intelligence of the day, complete the mélange.

Each yearly volume contains about five-and-twenty pieces of new and fashionable English, French, Spanish, and Italian Music, together with frequent Maps, Plans, Sketches, and Diagrams, illustrative of subjects treated of in the general scope of the work. At the end of each volume, a handsome Title Page, and a copious and well arranged Index are presented to each subscriber.

THE ALBION is published every Saturday morning in the Quarto form, on a large imperial sheet of exceedingly fine paper, printed with beautiful type, at Six Dollars per annum, payable in advance.

Office, No. 76 Cedar Street, near Broadway, New York.

PROSPECTUS OF THE SECOND VOLUME OF THE EMIGRANT.
This Journal is devoted to the Domestic and Local interests of England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales.

It was established at the commencement of the present year, and its second volume will begin with the year 1834. Its success so far has been highly flattering, and fully satisfies the expectation of the Proprietor.

The EMIGRANT is intended for the use of the numerous British residents upon this continent—its details consisting of all the local news of the three Kingdoms; the numerous occurrences in the Mining, Agricultural, and Manufacturing districts, as well as the mighty Metropolis of England. The Internal Improvements, the Corporation proceedings of the different towns and cities, remarkable Trials, &c. are faithfully recorded; also the Sporting Intelligence, state of the Markets, List of Bankrupts and Insolvencies, &c. &c., all arranged under distinct heads, and adapted to such residents in this country as cannot obtain access to the English papers.

The politics of the EMIGRANT are liberal and impartial, and not warped by any feeling of party spirit whatever.

It is published every Wednesday at No. 76 Cedar-street, New York, at Three Dollars per annum, payable in advance.

The extensive circulation of the EMIGRANT among people from the Old Country, renders it an excellent vehicle for land and other advertisements, conveying information to persons lately arrived in this country.

As the ALBION is published on Saturday, and the EMIGRANT on Wednesday, the two papers convey to those persons who subscribe to both, the news from Europe twice a week, and render the intelligence from Great Britain complete. Every subject of importance, either of general or local interest, appears in one of the other of these very cheap and comprehensive Journals.

Persons wishing to subscribe for either will oblige us by forwarding their names as early as convenient, in order that we may be enabled to make the necessary arrangement for printing the requisite number of papers. Those intending to subscribe will by sending forward their names immediately, be supplied with the next five or intervening numbers without charge. We make this small sacrifice in order to bring the date of the subscription to a convenient period, the first of the year.
