

After which His Excellency closed the Session with the following Speech:—

Mr. President, and Honorable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council,
Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly.

It has afforded me satisfaction to have been enabled to give my assent to all the Bills passed during the present Session.

Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly.

In his Majesty's name, I have to thank you for the Provision you have made for the Services of the Current Year, which so far as may depend upon me I shall endeavour to render most available for the purposes intended.

His Honor the Chief Justice then said, "Gentlemen of the Legislative Council."

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly.

It is His Excellency's will and pleasure, that this General Assembly be prorogued until the 1st Tuesday in June next, and this General Assembly is accordingly prorogued until the 1st Tuesday in June next, then here to be holden.

The third annual meeting of the Fredericton Temperance Society, was held on the 18th of February, at the Baptist Chapel, at which the following Report and Resolutions were adopted.

REPORT.

The revolving wheels of time have ushered in the season, which renders it expedient for your Committee to present the annual Report of their proceedings.

As their first meeting, after being appointed, they formed a determination to support by every possible means, and to the greatest practical extent the Doctrine of entire abstinence from Ardent Spirits; except in cases of Medicinal Prescription, and those of the greatest necessity.

Their attention was therefore first directed to an investigation of the career of Members' Names, which, they regret to say, was not quite pure; but that they might be the more useful in the service for which they were appointed, they resolved to admonish and exhort the delinquents, and see if by any means they might re-establish reason in their minds, upon hereditary throne, which when they joined the Society, like the grand luminary of nature, dawned and rose, and shone resplendently, in some for weeks, and in some for months; but alas! at the very acme of their prosperity was abruptly extinguished by the pestiferous breath of vicious habit; and in no one instance was your Committee successful in their attempts to reclaim them. But here they would feel very remiss in their duty, should they neglect to record, that not an instance has occurred of any member exposing himself to the discipline of the Society who was not an occasional drinker before he became a member, and hardly an instance of one, who was not a confirmed Drunkard. And therefore, while your Committee lament the loss of a number, whose continuance would have been beneficial to the Society, and doubly so to themselves, they rejoice in the reflection that the principles on which the Society was organized, are in no instance inimical to any of those who were previously unpractised in the dangerous custom of drinking ardent spirits; Nay, on the contrary, all such persons apparently feel a pleasure in exhibiting to the world, that all labour may be performed, and all hardships endured without the assistance of intoxicating liquors. Since then self-possession once relinquished is so seldom regained, the Society's brightest prospects are in the uncontaminated part of the community—here they should engage their most assiduous and prayerful solicitude—the juvenile part of the population will soon stand upon the broad stage of manhood, and let them be brought up in the way they should go, that when they get old they will not depart from it.

It gives your Committee pleasure to have in their power to report that the Secretary's Book, exhibits an increase during the past year, of one hundred names, making the total number in good standing to be three hundred and thirty.

The funds of the Society (a balance of which is still in the Treasurer's hands,) have served to defray the ordinary expenses of the Society, and to purchase eleven hundred tracts, seven hundred of which have been distributed and four hundred are still to be disposed of.

And now in conclusion your Committee would say that in common with all good men, they feel most devoutly to pray for a continuance of the Divine blessing on the united exertions of the many thousands who are zealously engaged in the good cause of Temperance—may men of influence in every place where Drunkenness prevails, unite their exertions to arrest its progress—until a total stop be put to the Great Iniquity—Intemperance.

RESOLUTIONS.

1st. Moved by J. Brown, Esquire, seconded by M. J. T. Smith:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting it is highly desirable that every member of this community should assist in forwarding the designs of the Fredericton Temperance Society.

2nd. Moved by J. W. Weldon, Esquire, seconded by George Hayward, Esquire:

Resolved, That this meeting feel a regret that in many instances, houses are licensed as places of entertainment, which possess little convenience for any purpose save that of vending that pernicious article Ardent Spirits, which at best is the bane of Society, and the ruin of thousands.

3rd. Moved by W. B. Kinnear, Esquire, seconded by Mr. Blatch:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting, this Society's cause, is the cause of humanity—having for its object the good of mankind—by destroying the most fruitful source of poverty, wretchedness and crime.

4th. Moved by the Rev. Mr. Robinson, seconded by the Rev. J. Crandall:

Resolved, That this meeting desires to express its continued reliance on the Divine Blessing, upon the operations of this Society, without which no permanent or solid benefit can result from its labours.

From the Miramichi Gleaner.

Sir,—Many of the Subscribers to your paper, and myself, amongst the number, having suffered severely by the absconding of John G. Waters, a Watchmaker, lately residing in this Town, beg to request you will give this one or two insertions in the Gleaner, and through that medium solicit the Editors of Newspapers in Nova Scotia, and this Province, to do as likewise, so that even in the event of our property not being recovered, we may at least have the satisfaction of having done our duty towards our fellow men, in cautioning them against a person whose profession is so likely to obtain confidence, but one so totally unworthy of it.

WILLIAM MATHESON.

On behalf of self and other sufferers.
Newcastle, 14th Feb. 1833.

ABSCONDED!!!

On Sunday last the above named John G. Waters, taking with him a number of Watches the property of several individuals, to amount of £140. The said Waters is about 6 feet 1 inch high, a native of the North of Ireland, and has much of the northern dialect, fair complexion, without beard, about 21 years of age, a stout athletic man, rather round shouldered, toes inclining in, red on when he absconded, a brown long coat, much patched, it has been ascertained that he took the Richibucto road, and is supposed proceeded to Halifax or St. John.

Editors in this Province, Nova Scotia, and the United States, are requested to copy the above.

PROSPECTUS.

PORTER'S

FAMILY LIBRARY OF HEALTH:
Popular Medicine—Science of Human Life—
Prevention and Cure of Disease:

To be issued every two months in volumes of about 150 pages, 12mo.

The First Volume to appear in February.

THE first volume will be devoted to the interesting subject of eating and drinking—embracing a consideration of the qualities of the different articles subservient to the nourishment of man; and such rules and precepts relative to their use and abuse as shall enable the reader to guard against the injurious effects of excess; without, however, inculcating the necessity, or even propriety, of a painful and rigorous abstinence. This subject is confessedly of the last importance to every man; as there are none who may not, in fact, none who do not, suffer, to a greater or less extent, from the infraction of the laws of the human economy in reference to diet; the regulation of which, founded upon sound and enlightened principles, will frequently restore to health, where the skill of the physician has been baffled; while neglect will render the highest medical talent inefficient in its ministrations. How many a fatal relapse is the physician destined every day to behold, from a willful and ignorant indulgence! How often is a malady, in its first stages easily remediable by regimen alone, rendered incurable by neglect!

This will form the commencement of a series of volumes, whose object shall be to popularize the science of medicine, in all its extensions. It were needless to dilate on the importance of such information, since upon this point there can be but one sentiment. Every feeling is enlisted in the acquisition of knowledge, the timely possession of which may rescue its possessor or his dearest relatives from lingering disease or from a premature grave.

It is a remarkable fact that, while the Press is teeming with volumes devoted to every other science, no plan has yet been struck out for the promulgation of a comprehensive and popular system of medicine, which, based upon a knowledge of the structure and physiology of the human frame, shall give a rational and untechnical exposition of the healing art. This desideratum it is the object of the present work to supply; and we feel a full confidence of being sustained in our labours by an enlightened community; who, we doubt not, will hail with satisfaction a publication which will fill an unfortunate chasm in the library of popular knowledge.

Our treatises will be the production of the most talented medical gentlemen of our country; the doctrines inculcated will be the most accredited of the day; and while the ingenious theories of different schools will be noticed, they will not be permitted to influence the statement of facts—the ascertainment of which constitutes the only sure basis of science. It will be the design of the writers to combine in their productions rational entertainment with practical information. The symptoms, causes, probable termination, mode of distinguishing between diseases, and their treatment, shall be fully laid down. The composition of secret remedies, nostrums and patent medicines, shall be given; and the cases in which they may prove useful shall be carefully discriminated from those in which they may prove destructive; and every exertion shall be made to enlighten the public mind on the subject of this class of remedies, which is daily drawing upon the pockets of the ignorant, and what is of greater importance, daily poisoning the human constitution.

The modification of treatment required by age, sex, and temperament, shall be carefully pointed out; and the whole spirit of our sanitary measures shall be based upon the fact that medicines are remedial only as they are timely administered.

Let it not, however, be supposed that we are desirous of superseding the professional gentlemen. The tendency of our plan, on the contrary, will be to elevate the physician in the public estimation, by disseminating correct views of the noble science of medicine, and by exposing the dangers of empiricism. But while the diffusion of correct information will advance the interests and respectability of the enlightened practitioner, it will be beneficial to the policy, now too often crowned with success, of those physicians who supply the want of professional knowledge by presumptuous pretensions, and are indebted for their success entirely to address and management. The time, we rejoice to believe, has arrived, when men will exact from their professional attendants more than specious pretensions, popular manners, or charlatanlike vauntings of their cures—when the dexterous use of the knife will no longer confer the reputation of skill in every department of medicine—and when the conviction that talents and education are essential to the successful treatment of disease will replace the sentiment, so commonly entertained by the ignorant, that the highest of human arts can be exercised by one whose ignorance on all other subjects is confessed.

The spirit of the times, as it unveils the fountains of all other knowledge, cannot permit this science to remain an exception. Men will seek for information; and he will confer a benefit upon society who shall successfully accomplish the task of instructing them. Each volume shall be in itself complete, forming a treatise upon some important subject or subjects, which shall have been announced in the preceding volume. The subjects to which the first volumes will be devoted are, Anatomy and Physiology; Climate, embracing a consideration of change of climate as remedial and preventive of disease; Coughs, Colds, and Consumptions; the Doctrine of Temperaments; Dyspepsia; Bilious and Bowel Complaints; Febrile Diseases; Materia Medica, in which shall be detailed the most valuable recipes of science, and a full account of such remedies and their uses as shall constitute the family medicine chest; Accidents and sudden emergencies, requiring aid before the physician can be called. N. York, 9th Jan. 1833.

The price of each volume will be 50 cents. The printing will be executed in the neatest manner, on paper of a superior quality, and bound in muslin. Copies will be put up especially for mail conveyance, and forwarded to any part of the United States, as ordered, with the strictest punctuality, or will be left at any of our principal cities for private conveyance. Any person forwarding five dollars will be entitled to 12 copies of the first volume, or to that number of one copy each of the succeeding volumes. Persons enclosing one dollar will have two copies sent of the first volume, or one each of the first and second.

Orders must be accompanied by remittances to ensure the receipt of the works. All letters, communications, and post-offices, to be addressed to Porter's Family Library, or to Porter's Family Library of Health, (post paid) New-York.
