By Authority.

Crown Land Office, Fredericton, } 4th August, 1835. }

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given, that all Sales of vacant Crown Land and Timber within this Province, will for the future be by Public Auction, and that a Sale will take place at this Office on the first Monday in every month.

Poor Settlers who have improved and are residing upon vacant Crown Land, must submit their respective cases, by Petition to His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, prior to the 1st of November next, when such as appear entitled to favorable consideration will be allowed to purchase by private sale to a moderate extent.

THOMAS BAILLIE,
Commissioner and Surveyor General of Crown Lands and Forests.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

TENDERS to open the ROYAL ROAD from William John's to the Nash-waak, on and in the vicinity of Estey's exploration, will be received at the Crown Land Office until three o'clock on Thursday the 13th instant.

CONDITIONS:

26 feet in the centre—to have the trees taken up by the roots, and all underbrush and wood to be removed therefrom.

A skirting of 20 feet on each side of the cleared space to be felled and limbed.
The party wishing to contract will state whether he tenders for the distance from William John's to the Tay, from the Tay to the Nashwaak, or for the whole distance; and must name the persons he proposes to offer as security that the work will be completed in a satisfactory manner by the 1st of November next.

By command of the Commissioners,
JOHN A. BECKWITH,
Secretary.

SECRETARY'S OFFICE, }

SUMMARY OF EUROPEAN NEWS.

BOSTON, JULY 17.

SEVEN DAYS LATER FROM FRANCE.

SIX DAYS LATER FROM ENGLAND.

The Editors of the New York Journal of Commerce are indebted to Capt.
McKinstry of the brig Isaac Clason, for Paris papers to June 12th, and Bordeaux to the 13th, both inclusive, containing London dates to the 10th. The news is of more than usual importance, especially so much of it as assures us of an efficient intervention by England, France, and Portugal, in behalf of Spain.

The Isaac Clason sailed on the 16th, but had no communication with the shore after the 15th, on which day the Captain reports, his Broker came on board and informed him that the indemnity Bill had passed the Chamber of Peers, by a large majority, precisely in the form it was reported.

News had reached Rochelle that the armies of the Queen and Don Carlos, had had a very heavy engagement.

The Isaac Clason has only been sixty-four days on the last voyage—full cargoes each way.

PARIS, June 12.—The question of intervention is arranged between the powers which are parties to the Quadruple treaty, and the English Journals received yesterday fully confirm what we have written on the subject. A new energy is to be given to the execution of the Treaty. The resources which will be placed at the disposal of General Valdez, will enable him probably to assume the offensive, while the active co-operation of the allies of Queen Isabel II. will give to her government a more energetic action against the factions which oppose her authority.

The English Journal, the Globe, which is understood to receive official communications from the Ministers, says it is not authorized to announce any particular measures adopted by the government to facilitate the enlistment of English subjects for the service of the Queen of Spain, but that it has strong reasons to believe that the provisions of the foreign enlistment bill will be modified, and that English Officers will be permitted to serve as volunteers in the Peninsula without the loss of their half pay.

BORDEAUX, June 13.—Letters from Bilboa announce that General Espartero arrived there on the 11th with 11, 000 men and 5000 muskets, which without doubt are intended for the use of the inhabitants. In consequence of this reinforcement, it is doubted whether the Carlist Chief will persist in his determination to attack Bilboa.

FRANKFORT, June 5.—The general alarm occasioned by the news of the intervention, begins to subside. No surprise was created by the first movement indicating a disposition on the part of France to take up arms in favour of an allied power; but the confidence of the government in the capacity and prudence of the King of the French, led to the hope, from the first, that such an intervention would not be undertaken without the most urgent and invincible necessity. The different couriers arrived at our Legations, announce that France is disposed to succour Spain by other means than arms, and that England, accordingly, has nothing to fear for the general peace. This news given as positive, has been received with joy by our speculators, our merchants, and all the industrious classes. Every one here congratulates himself, and the alarming reports which have been spread for the last few days, seem entirely dissipated.

In the House of Lords on the 1st June, Lord Londonderry rose and said, I take this advantage of the prime minister being in his seat to address a few questions to him of the highest importance. The noble Lord may be aware that they relate to the affairs of Spain; but it is not now my intention to provoke a discussion on this important matter, and I shall regard it as a favour on the part of the ministers if they will reply to the following questions:—

Has there been any thing done by his Majesty's Government since he came into power, to interfere in the affairs of Spain? Have instructions been given to our cruisers on the Coast of Spain, enjoining upon them to sustain the government of the Queen? Have arms and munitions been furnished to the Christians by England, and in this event, who has paid for them, or in what manner has payment been effected?

Finally, have English vessels been chartered for this destination, and at whose expense? Lord Melbourne replied, that no such instructions as the noble marquis had alluded to, had been given to English cruisers on the coast of Spain. As to the other questions, he was not then prepared to reply to them. If the noble lord had advised him of his intention of putting such questions, I should have taken such steps as would have placed me in a situation to give him all the necessary explanations.—As it is, I will take up the matter to-day, and come prepared tomorrow to lay the result before the Lords. (Hear.)

On the following day Viscount Melbourne said that the noble Marquis had inquired if any vessel had been freighted by Spain, and at whose charge. If his information was correct, only one government vessel the Royal William, Armed Steamer, had been chartered since the Isabella Seconda. She was chartered for the sum of £1943 sterling, which was to be paid by the Spanish government. As to the supplies of arms, they were confined to 1000 muskets, 3000 pistols and sabres, worth £2000 also for account of the Queen's Government. On the 10th March last, the noble Duke who sits on the opposite bench (the Duke of Wellington) had informed the Spanish government that it would not be pressed for the payment of these sums.

Lord John Russell's measure of Municipal Reform has been postponed to last night, in order that a couple of nights might be wasted in very unprofitable discussions,—unprofitable, because untimely.

The precise nature of Lord John Russell's measure is, of course, not yet known; but report speaks favourably of its liberality. All Magistrates and Corporate Officers are to be elected annually, and the electors are to be the householders rated to the parish at and above £10.

Dr. Chalmers and a deputation from the Established Church of Scotland, are about to proceed to London, to be present during the discussion of Sir William Rae's motion, respecting a grant to that Church, on the 11th of June.

Inland Navigation.—It has been estimated that no less than £35,000,000 has been expended on the improvement of inland navigation in Great Britain, and that there are 5,000 miles of navigable rivers in the country.
