

to His Majesty, who has thereupon been graciously pleased to signify His Royal approbation of all the proceedings of the Assembly.

It became the first duty of the Assembly to pass a Bill for the support of the Civil Government of the Province, in strict accordance with the terms agreed on, and approved by the King: this Bill agrees in every particular with the Bill which passed the Council and Assembly at the last Session, to which the then administrator of the Government was advised to withhold his assent, whereby the gracious intentions of His Majesty have to the present time been delayed.

The auspicious appointment of Your Excellency to the Government, at so important a crisis in our public affairs, has removed the chief difficulty which heretofore prevented His Majesty's wishes and commands from being carried into full effect, and I no longer doubt that the highly important Bill which I have to present to Your Excellency will now become a law of this land.

I feel assured that this Bill, with others which may from time to time be passed for carrying into effect the great principles established by it, will prove highly beneficial to this rising Colony. I believe that every loyal subject will agree with me when I say, that in giving effect to the provisions of this Bill, and such others as may follow it, entire confidence may be placed in the ability, integrity and impartiality of Your Excellency's administration.

I now present to Your Excellency, in the name and on behalf of His Majesty's faithful and loyal subjects, the Commons of New Brunswick, a Bill for the support of the Civil Government in this Province, to which I pray Your Excellency's assent.

And that His Excellency was then pleased to give his assent to the said Bill.

LATEST INTELLIGENCE.

By the Parthenon, at Boston.

An arrival at Boston furnishes us with two days later intelligence from London. The state of the money market there, and of the Cotton Market at Liverpool, seems improving. Accounts had, however, not yet been received of the suspension of specie payments here, and we look with much anxiety for the effect which the receipt of intelligence of that event will produce.

The Ministerial majority on the second reading of the Church Rate Bill is so small, that if the precedents of former administrations are regarded, the dissolution of the present Cabinet would follow as a natural consequence.

The London Times of the 25th inst. says: "The abundance of money at the Stock Exchange induces the apprehension that we may have a new influx of foreign securities, and the exchanges be once more turned against us. The remedy is easy and obvious enough, but it is not easy to induce those who have the power to apply it. The bank should bring the dead weight to market. This is so clear a policy, under present circumstances, that were the Directors not deterred by the paramount consideration with them, of keeping up the amount of the dividend, there could be no doubt of their willingness to resort to it without delay, especially bound as they are to give all the assistance that may be required to the American houses. They cannot make money scarce by any management out of doors that would not be a breach of such implied engagement on their part, and they could not reach the stock exchange by any other process whatever except that of selling public securities. At a fair price, the dead weight annuity would find ready purchasers, and its introduction would check at once the influx of foreign stock, probably in some degree of American bank paper."

At Liverpool, the state of business was rather more favourable. The news of the suspension of specie payments in this country had not reached England. Some tolerably large sales of cotton had taken place at Liverpool, chiefly of American description, and at previous quotations; but they observe that without some improvement in the prices of cotton, the large holders will experience considerable difficulty in meeting their obligations. It is stated as a curious fact, that East India cotton has been sold in Liverpool for exportation to Canton. At the present prices it costs less to send it from England to Canton, than from India.

The bill for the abolition of the church rate was read a second time, on the 25th, and carried by a majority of five only, which was considered so small a majority for the ministerial measure, as to amount to an indication that the present administration was near its end; it had even been currently reported, that Lord Melbourne had tendered his resignation, but this was afterwards contradicted.

The State Ball at St. James' Palace, in honor of the Princess Victoria's 18th birthday, took place on the 24th, but neither the King nor Queen were able to attend. The Princess is heir presumptive to the British throne and realms, and Ministers were making arrangements for allowing her an outfit and establishment suited to her exalted destination, now that she has become of age.

The French papers were much occupied with the preparations for the approaching marriage of the Duke of Orleans. The intended bride had arrived at Potsdam on the 16th, where she was received by the King of Prussia with expressions of much satisfaction at her union with the royal family of France.

Accounts from the Mauritius of Feb. 19, state that a tremendous hurricane had been felt in that island, which had done much injury to the crops.
