PROSPECTUS

For publishing a Weekly Newspaper in Woodstock, Carleton County, N. B. to be entitled

THE TIMES.

Messrs. GILBERT & SLADER, Proprietors.

IN publishing the prospectus of this periodical, it is deemed unnecessary at this period of universal activity in the diffusion of knowledge, to advert to the benefits which would result from such an undertaking, both to Woodstock and the community at large. The publishers are impressed with the idea that Woodstock presents a favorable—indeed a very eligible field for the operations of the Press; as its peculiarly commanding situation, the extensive range of fertile settlements by which it is surrounded, and which are doubtless increasing in population and advancing in enterprise, are considerations of themselves sufficient to justify the opinion, that such an institution would, like the country itself, daily rise in value; and they cannot for a moment imagine that the populous county of Carleton, will stand still in the march of mind, while the world at large is making such gigantic advances. The proprietors therefore trust, that among the many extensive improvements now in progress in this section of New-Brunswick, the establishing a Newspaper will not be deemed the least essential.

The Times will be conducted upon liberal principles, ever advocating, with consistent firmness, each sacred claim connected with our freedom as British subjects; opposing misrule and exposing abuses, giving a fearless but temperate, and strictly impartial review of men and measures, and strenuously supporting the rights and interests of the people. But, as the strength of the press consists only in its purity, the Times will never countenance attacks on private character, nor shall any article or discussion be found in its pages, calculated wantonly to wound the feelings of any man.

The Times will furnish the leading features of the current news and politics of the day—European and American; together with a notice of whatever may transpire in any way connected with the interests of the community. As the importance of every people in a great measure depends upon their standing in the scale of intellectual improvement, it will be the assiduous and pleasing duty of the publishers to suggest, and forward to the utmost of their abilities, whatever may conduce to the promotion of useful Education among all classes of Society. Advancing in importance as New-Brunswick now is, in consequence of its many sources of internal wealth; the publishers will avail themselves of every means to enrich their columns with such articles as may have reference to the various branches of scientific information. Shipping Intelligence will be regularly noticed, and the all-important interests of Agriculture, (in which so many of its readers will in all probability be engaged) will meet with due attention. In closing this prospectus, the publishers deem it proper to state, that the Times will increase in size and advance in merits, in proportion as it may find the means of support; and as no efforts will be omitted on their part to render their periodical useful and interesting, they would fain hope that a watchful attention to the principles upon which it will be established, will ensure it an extensive circulation—which alone can warrant its success.—The paper will be issued with as little delay as possible, on a total sheet and good type.

TERMS:—Fifteen shillings per annum, (exclusive of postage) one half in advance. Agents will be appointed throughout the country for facilitating its circulation.

Woodstock, May 15th, 1837.
