Never before have we had to record so many heartbreaking events. A number weeks ago came to Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Mitchell the sad news that their son, Private Judson Mitchell, had been killed in action, their Jud, whose every heart-beat was true to God, to home, and parents. For three long years he and his brother William had fought bravely and well side by side, and now only William is left. Much sympathy is felt for him and the parents and remaining family.

Much sympathy is also felt for Mr. and Mrs. Waterson Hilyard in the loss of their son, Percy, aged 10 years. Also to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Malloch, whose eldest girl, Lillian, passed away after a short illness of Spanish influenza.

At Lubec, on Thursday, Oct. 17, Percy W. Matthews, B. A., youngest son of Christy and the late Alwilda Matthews passed to the higher life after an illness of three days' pneumonia. His death is much regretted by all, as he seemed to have so much to live for, a perfect reputation, a charming bride of two months, and a good position as principal of the High School in Lubec. It has often been said that death loves a shining mark, and in this case it would seem that the saying is true. There are left to mourn the great loss his wife, father, stepmother, two sisters, Mrs. Pearl Doon and Mrs. Emery Rice, and two brothers, Elbert and Vincent.

On Oct. 20th a little son came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Matthews.

Mr. Wesley Brown, of Eastport, was an over-Sunday guest of friends here.

On Monday Oct. 14th, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lank received the heartbreaking news that their eldest son, Merrile Ray, had given his life for the cause of humanity. It is hard to realize that our bright-faced boy will not come back with his ready smile and loving ways. His last words to his father on going away, were "I must go, my country needs me." The parents, one brother, Owen, two grand-children, uncles, aunts, cousins, and many friends mourn his early passing.

STOCK-TAKING OF CANADA'S TIMBER

Owing to the tremendous consumption of timber, lumber, pulp wood, etc., during the last few years, the exhaustion in the near future of Canadian forest resources can no longer be regarded as a negligible prospect. This situation led the advisory board of the forestry branch of the Department of the Interior to make, in January, 1917, an analysis of the existing forestry situation. In order to meet this situation, it was evident that certain regulative measures would have to be adopted, but it was equally evident that such measures should have to be based on definite scientific information, little of which was available at that date. In order, therefore, to obtain a scientific basis for future remedial measures and also to curtail present wasteful methods the advisory board of the forestry branch drew up the following recommendations:

1. That the stock-taking of the standing timber of Eastern Canada should be completed.

2. That a quick reconnaissance survey should be made on the condition of cut-over lands.

3. That a study should be initiated of the possibilities and successful methods of securing reproduction of the more important timber trees, especially white pine and spruce.

4. That an early determination should be made of the rates of growth, in volume, of the important timber trees, both individually and in forest stands, to permit calculation of possible quantity of reproduction. This work would include the construction of volume tables.

In discussing these recommendations, it should be pointed out that some of this work has been done, both in Canada and elsewhere. For example, the Commission of Conservation has completed valuable investigations on the timber of British Columbia and Nova Scotia. The study of the rate of reproduction, etc., of trees in Europe has also been undertaken, and in the United States certain investigations have been made on similar topics for American trees. As regards the species that are common to the United States and Canada, the results obtained by American study would, of course, be partly applicable; but it must be remembered that climatic and soil conditions of Canada, owing to its higher latitude, are factors that render rather uncertain information derived from investigations carried on abroad.

In consequence of the recommendations made by the advisory board of the Department of the Interior, the director of the Forestry Branch brought the matter to the attention of the Research Council. It was proposed that these investigations be made on the Petawawa Military Reserve, a part of which, only 25 square miles in extent, is used for military purposes, the remaining 80 square miles being therefore available for forestry studies. This is part of an old cut-over timber district, on which a second forest has begun to develop, and the timber on it at a stage of growth that renders it suitable for the proposed study. Recognizing the importance of the subject, the research council recommended that a grant should be given to carry out the investigation during the summers in 1917 and the following years. Consequently, in August, 1917, a preliminary survey was made on the reserve by a forest survey party and valuable results were obtained. In May, 1918, the work was recommenced and is now proceeding satisfactorily.

Follow Nature's Plan Paint in the Fall

October is a good month in which to paint. All the pests of summer, such as flies, spiders, and dust have gone, and the mild heat of the sun in the autumn gives the paint time to properly cure on the sides of your house. Besides it's the natural thing to put on a protecting coat to turn the winter weather. But to paint right you must use the right paint.
