CANADA, THE NATION
 Collier's Weekly, one of the few American publications which condescend to give Canada a place on the map seemed to be charmed with our future possibilities. We like the way it sizes us up:—

The United States must realize that her greatest future trade is likely to be with Canada. Furthermore, Canada is sure to develop into her closest competitor for foreign trade. The Dominion today is one of the four greatest exporters of wheat, and her water power, as yet but little utilized, will some day make her one of the globe. Already the United States is looking to her forests for timber, and her railroads are destined—from the most conservative estimates—to double their mileage in the next ten years. Even today, Canada exceeds the railway mileage of Italy and Spain combined. Her trackage is equal to about three-fifths of all the systems of Russia or Germany, and it is more than three-fourths of all Austria-Hungary's. It almost equals the total mileage of the British Isles; and Argentina excepted, Canada has more railroads than all the countries of South America combined. The whole continent of Africa has less than half as many laid rails; and the systems of any minor power of Europe could be added to that of Australasia before the Canadian roads would be matched. In short, Canada has more railroads than Belgium, Netherlands, Switzerland, Portugal, Norway, Sweden, Servia, and Greece, all combined, and yet these nations have a total of more than six times Canada's population. There is both a political and a commercial significance in all this which the world is just beginning to see. There is no other dependency in the world of Canada's power and proportions. Her climate matches that of Russia, while her domain is vastly greater. The railroad development is the barometer test of a country's civilization, natural wealth, and enterprise. It is not the out-growth her colonial days, and is in fact a nation taking a foreplace in the industry and commerce of the world.

Campbellton this season is earning a reputation as a winter resort second to none. While almost every other town in the Maritime provinces has been visited with very heavy snow storms and the strong winds have piled the snow in huge drifts, we have been enjoying the most beautiful winter weather one could imagine. Bright clear sunshine, with just enough frost in the atmosphere to make one feel like living in the daily round of good things from the weather man. We have escaped all the heavy storms this winter, including the last two blizzards that have paralyzed traffic on all railroads in the southern part of the province and Nova Scotia.

Afraid of Strong Medicine
 Many people suffer for years from rheumatic pains, and prefer to do so rather than take the strong medicines usually given for rheumatism. Not knowing that quick relief from pain may be had simply by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm and without taking any medicine internally. Rev. Amos Parker of Magnolia, North Carolina, suffered for eight years with a lame hip, due to severe rheumatic pains. He has been permanently cured by the free application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by all druggists.

PRESENTATIONS

To Rev A. F. Carr, D. D. and Mr. R Barclay Gerrard

On Thursday evening of last week a number of his friends surprised Mr. Barclay Gerrard at his home and presented him with a violin, accompanied by the following address:—

Campbellton, N. B., 26th Jan'y 1905

Dear Barclay:— For a long time your un-failing good nature and many sterling qualities have been a matter of comment among your many friends. We have, perhaps, been often thoughtless and selfish in making use of your talent as a musician for our own enjoyment. You have seemed to take a pleasure in giving pleasure to others. Those who know you best realize this most.

Our mutual friend—Mr Charles Adams—a few days ago broached the idea of remembering you in some way, and he informs us, it met with general approval.

We would ask you, Barclay, to accept this slight token of our good will and esteem. May it remind you of the many pleasant times we have had together, and may its strings bind your heart to ours. When you handle this bow, may it call to your mind the many other Beaus tripping the light fantastic to your music. May its keys remind you that you hold the key to our affections, and in the years to come, when "we have all dispersed and parted" may its bridge be a thoroughfare over which memory may pass to "the friends that's awa'".

The company were afterwards pleasantly entertained and a very enjoyable evening spent by all.

At the annual meeting of the congregation of St. Andrews Presbyterian church held on the 1st inst the pastor Rev. A. F. Carr D. D. was presented with a fur lined coat accompanied by the following address:—

To Reverend A. F. Carr D. D.

Rev and Dear Sir:— The members and adherents of St. Andrews Presbyterian church, desire to take advantage of this congregation meeting to give expression in a tangible manner, of their regard for you personally and of their appreciation of your ministrations both in the pulpit and in your whole pastoral work. The healthy condition of the church today is in no small degree, due to your zeal and energy, and faithful labours in the Master's cause.

We ask you to accept this coat as a small token of the universal esteem in which you are held amongst us, at the same time trusting you may have health to wear it.

That the same harmonious relations which have always existed between us may continue and that you may be long spared to preside over us is the fervent prayer of your people.

Signed on behalf of Saint Andrews Congregation

Wm Andrew Secretary }

Our local team will in all probability go to Chatham on Tuesday 14 to play a return game with the team of that town.

It is also understood that a Moncton team will play here on Friday evening, Feb. 17th.

ed particularly for their piety who played cards—Isn't it true that those who are to-day engaged in practical spiritual work are not found at a card table—As far as card players are concerned there would be to-day, a weak, worldly, sickly, cold and dead church and in many cases none at all—One result of a revival where God became real to the soul, was the renouncing of the cards and if a revival came to Campbellton every card club would be broken up. All that is needed is for people to get converted. Then again this practice took away a person's influence—All that the most of us can leave this world, is not money, or lands or hospitals or libraries, but the influence of our little life, but a Christian goes to the cards and flings that influence in God's face—What influence would a minister have if he threw open his doors and opened his home to a card party and ended the evening with a social dance—A terrible thing that would be and yet is not every one just as responsible for the Salvation of men's souls as a minister—How can we expect to retain our influence when a man looks into one corner of the town and sees men playing for dollar and cents, and then goes to another corner and sees the game played for silver spoons and ribbons and boxes of candy—Isn't it a fact that a person desirous of becoming a Christian never wanted assistance from a card player—Wasn't it a fact that unchristian people have little respect for the religion of those who play and other facts were given—Surely when cards do this, it is not to strong language that declares that cards are an agent of a world of darkness—Then a conclusion it was claimed that cards were as bad as this because they were indissoluble associated with gambling of course, and men might gamble over anything, but cards men associated with and led to gambling as did nothing else—A great many illustrations were given of the feature of the game to show that from the game at some social gathering the player had been led on and on to ruin—Look said the speaker at this game as it is played in this town—On a certain night, in the week before last if you had stood at a particular spot on the front street and looked across to the other side you would have been able to count sixteen of our prominent citizens going into one of the gambling dens of the town—That was after nine o'clock—It isn't easy to know when they came out, but it is cards they played, and it is cards with which they gambled—It is cards that have ruined their reputation even tho' they hold very prominent positions in the town. Cards are gamblers' tools and it doesn't matter whether you find them in a low dive or in the house in town where you played them last week. In a certain town a railway man went down to the store one evening some years ago to procure some goods for his family—The pay car had come in and he intended settling for the last month's account and getting a few articles of merchandise but the fascination of cards was upon him and he played and played until all he had was upon the table—the man he had just failed him and walking out of the door he sobbed like a child His money was gone nothing but an empty pocket—Do you know where that happened said the preacher—in this town in which we live and who know but in your parlor he learned to play. In conclusion the congregation was urged to live a clear manly Godly life—not to settle this question in the whirl of emotion, but as they loved the right and as they loved their fellow men and Heaven, to settle it, in that inner chamber of the soul where only God is seen, only God is heard and God only listens to our cry of penitence.

BIG CONVENTION

Agents of the Frost Wire Fence Co. Meet at Hamilton

The big three day's convention of the agents of the Frost Wire Fence Co. opened this morning in the company's fine new building on Sherman avenue, with about 75 agents from all parts of Ontario in attendance. This morning from 8 o'clock until noon Mr Frost and Mr A. L. Page had a personal talk with each of the agents and this was limited to ten minutes to each one. This afternoon from 1 o'clock until 5 o'clock Messrs. Page, Frost, C. H. Hanson, R. H. Maccomb, P. Dresback and F. Page each conducted parties of about 20 agents through the works, which were in full operation.

To-morrow, the convention proper, will commence, when matters of general interest to the company and its agents will be discussed. In the evening the company will tender the visitors a banquet in the Royal Hotel. A fine spread will be served and a good toast list carried out, which will combine to make the night a jolly one for all. The company is not stopping here, however, in its endeavor to give the visitors a royal good time, and has chartered a special train, which will leave the G. T. R. station at 8.30 on Thursday morning for Niagara Falls. Electric cars to take the party over the Gorge route have also been engaged and the day will be spent in sight-seeing. The agents will return to Hamilton in the evening, and then leave for their homes.

The company believes in taking care of its employees, and as an evidence of the good feeling existing between them it may be stated that with two or three exceptions the entire force came with the firm from Welland, where it was formerly located, to Hamilton. To retain the good men who enter the service, which aids materially in keeping up the high standard of the goods, is one of the aims of the company.

Progress is another motto of the company and $25 in prizes is being offered for the best suggestion in writing handed in to any of the officials not later than 8 o'clock to-morrow morning, for general improvement in any department. This is divided into $10 for first, $5 for second and ten prizes of $1 each.

The company has been in business in Canada about eight years, having its headquarters in Welland. These have now been moved to Hamilton, and the works here are nearly four times as large as the old buildings were—Hamilton Times 13th ult.

Wm. C. Hamilton, Black hands, is one of the local agents of this company.
