100 DROWNED

In Wreck of Steamer Valencia.

ON PACIFIC COAST

Awful Story of the Disaster.—Pitiful Tale of Survivors.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 24.—The steamer, Valencia, enroute from San Francisco with 94 passengers and a crew of 60, went ashore at midnight last night during a thick fog and a large number were drowned when attempting to leave the ship. The steamer struck on the rocks against a high cliff and is likely to go to pieces at any time. One of the boats' crew reached Cape Beale this afternoon and nine men got ashore near the lighthouse. Two men are prisoners on the face of the cliff where the steamer lies and cannot get up the cliff or return to the wreck. The sea will probably reach them when the tide is high. The men report painful scenes. One woman dropped her child into the sea when trying to pass it to her husband, who was in one of the boats. When the boats left there was a little boy running about the deck crying for his mother, who was among the drowned. Almost certain death faces those on the wreck. A despatch from Cape Beale says the Valencia went ashore on Vancouver Island, near Cloose. The lighthouse keeper says about 100 were drowned. News of the disaster is meagre, being confined to a message by Capt. Gardin, agent of the marine service, from the lighthouse keeper at Cape Beale, saying: "Steamer wrecked between here and Cloose, about 100 drowned. Nine reached telegraph hut. Will wire more particulars as soon as possible."

It is reported that the whaling steamer Orion has arrived at the Valencia wreck and is seeking to save as many as possible. A despatch from Carma says a ship's boat with several people passed at 1 p. m. to-day. The working steamer Salver has gone to assist the wrecked Valencia. She is in a bad place.

SEATTLE, Jan. 24.—A special to the Times from Bamfield says the Valencia has gone to pieces and all on board are lost. The Salver is returning to Victoria with sixty corpses from the Valencia disaster. The vessel should reach Victoria about 1.30 this morning.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 28.—The whaling steamer Orion arrived at Bamfield Creek cable station yesterday from the scene of the wreck of the Valencia, and reported having seen three men on shore where they had a fire lighted south west of the wreck, and it was thought these men are survivors that are yet unaccounted for. The Valencia lay submerged with only a portion of a mast sticking out of water. The Orion brought articles of clothing, together with blankets torn in strips, with which the passengers evidently lashed themselves to masts and rigging.

Tug Lorne reached the vicinity of the wreck yesterday morning soon after daylight, with a party of blue-jackets from Esquimalt who will go in surf boats to see if any possible survivors can be rescued, and to recover what bodies they can. Conditions at the scene of the wreck are much more favorable for the life-saving work as the sea has abated. The Salver, which evidently has been lying at Bamfield, set out for the wreck yesterday to see if any, aid could be furnished.

Reports from Bamfield state the nine surviving men there are in a terrible condition. The men are unable to walk and some of them are so exhausted as to be even unable to stand. They are thus unable to get a place of shelter, and are waiting in vain, destitute, cold and starving, which so far has been denied them. They have no provisions except the meagre amount carried by the party of three which left Bamfield on Wednesday. One of the men has a sprained ankle and others no boots. On Wednesday evening the entire party attempted to cross the swollen stream to go to the wreck, and one of them nearly lost his life.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Jan. 26.—The City of Topeka, arrived at 1.30 o'clock this morning, with twenty-three survivors from the Valencia, embracing eighteen rescued from the raft and also the boat's crew which carried the first news of the accident to Cape Beale.

BRITAIN ON GOOD TERMS WITH RUSSIA.

Persia's Refusal to Accept Seistan Frontier.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Great Britain does not fear any interference in her good relations with Russia over the refusal of Persia to accept the award of the British Commission delimiting the Seistan frontier of Persia and Afghanistan. The British Government quite understands that any actions of the Russian Government antagonistic to the commission were not dictated from St. Petersburg. The negotiations between Russia and Great Britain, which were discontinued on account of Russia's troubles, are now about to be resumed.

Not for many years have the relations of the two countries been as friendly as at present, Count Benckendorff, Russian Ambassador in London, and Sir Charles Harcourt, retiring British Ambassador at St. Petersburg having brought their respective governments closer together. As a matter of fact, recent candid discussions show that Russia and Great Britain hold similar views on questions which formerly caused irritation, Russia stating that she wants no preferential treatment in Persia and no modification of the status quo in Afghanistan and Tibet.

The only difference arises over a minor question concerning trade on the Afghanistan frontier, but as it is merely between the natives Russia requests that it be tolerated.

HEALTH REPORT.

Rigid Inspection Maintained at Maritime Ports.

THE NEEDS OF ST. JOHN.

Seventeen Patients at Tracadie Lazaretto, but one man seems to be cured.

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—Owing to the fact that no cases of smallpox now exist on the frontier states adjacent to the Canadian boundary, it has been deemed unnecessary to continue the medical inspection at Canadian ports, and at the end of this month the two remaining inspectors, at Northport and Sault Ste Marie, respectively, will be relieved. Dr. Montizambert, director general of public health, in his annual report, just issued, says that during the past year the usual threatnings of epidemic diseases have continued, and in addition there have been special outbreaks of Asiatic cholera in Europe and of yellow fever in the United States.

Strict measures, ordinary and special, have therefore been required for the sanitary protection of this country.

Frontier inspection for smallpox at threatened ports of the international border, and extra inspections at some of the maritime ports have been maintained, as the conditions to the south have seemed to require. On the Atlantic side, the outbreak of Asiatic cholera in Europe and especially in Prussia, called for special precautionary inspections.

On the Pacific side, careful inspection of all arriving Asiatics has been carried on throughout the year. This includes the testing of the temperature and the examination of the glandular regions. The special inspection of vessels from San Francisco, spoken of in the last annual report, was discontinued from January, 1905, no case of plague having been reported in that city from the 1st of the previous March.

Circulars of warning and instruction were issued from time to time to the regular quarantine officers, and to the customs officers, who are also ex-officio quarantine officers at the unorganized maritime and inland quarantine stations.

At the leper lazaretto at Tracadie, N. B., there are now seventeen patients on the books, ten males and seven females. Those actually in the lazaretto are fifteen, eight males and seven females. There were no deaths during the year. The new patients, both from neighboring districts, were admitted. The continued good results follow the treatment with chaulmoogra oil and strychnine, with creolin outwardly—patients improving under it both in health and spirits. The appalling darkness of their former hopeless condition is now lightened and brightened by gleams of hope. One patient, a man of 40, is so apparently cured of all symptoms of the disease that Dr. Montizambert felt justified at his last inspection of the lazaretto in approving of his going home on the condition of his reporting himself from time to time for examination by the physician of the institution. He has been in the lazaretto for five years.

During the year at St. John the vessels inspected number 179; persons inspected were 22,024. Seven vessels arrived with infectious diseases. The admissions to the hospital were 13. The diseases were scarlet fever, chicken pox, diphtheria and measles. One death occurred from scarlet fever. At the request of the board of health of St. John, Dr. March disinfecting the outward going scab. Winnie Lawry, from St. Martins, an outport of St. John, for New York. A seaman came by rail and joined the schooner at St. Martins and then developed smallpox after they had cleared from there. There was no spread of the disease.

The two detention buildings and the winter hospital are approaching completion.

The completion of the water supply is the most urgently pressing want at this station. A deep water wharf is greatly required and larger disinfecting appliances.

WANT SNOW

Lumbermen Unable to get Logs out

The St. John Evening Times says:—

The lumbering situation is assuming a rather serious aspect. There are large quantities of logs cut but there is no way of getting them out unless snow comes, and comes quickly, too. This is the state of affairs in New Brunswick at the present time and in Nova Scotia as well.

The lumbermen say that weather such as we have been having lately may be all right for mid-winter excursion parties on the river, but it will mean a tremendous loss to them if they don't have snow very soon.

On the bay shore in New Brunswick, the lower part of the province and on the Nepes river, the need of snow is felt greatly. Lots of logs are cut, but until snow comes they cannot be hauled to the streams.

Speaking to one of the prominent lumbermen this morning, he said there has been excellent weather for cutting and yarding the logs, but there is practically no snow for hauling. Some few logs have been dragged out, but the process is necessarily slow and operations may have to be suspended if snow does not come very soon.

Reports from Nova Scotia indicate an even worse state of affairs than in this province. Lumbermen there are complaining greatly of the lack of snow and the present outlook is that immense quantities will be hung up.

Th only section from which complaints do not come is on the upper St. John. There they claim to have just sufficient snow for hauling, and they are making the most of it.

As to the prospects for a large cut being got out this season, it is difficult to form an idea, as so much depends on the quantity of logs that can be hauled to the streams, and also on the condition for driving. One lumberman expressed the opinion last evening that if snow did not come during the first part of February it would be too late to relieve the situation to any great extent. Should snow not come and the logs have to be left in the woods, it would be a serious problem for the lumbermen, as the last two years having been away below the average, a third one would mean very likely that some of the operators would go under. They are building their hopes now on having a good old-fashioned snow storm to relieve the situation.
