LIVER COMPLAINT.

The liver is the largest gland in the body; its office is to take from the blood the properties which form bile. When the liver is torpid and languid it cannot furnish bile to the bowels, causing them to become bound and constive. The symptoms are a feeling of fulness or weight in the right side, and shooting pains in the same region, pain between the shoulders, yellowness of the skin and eyes, bowels irregular, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, etc.

LOCAL OPTION

How it Works in Toronto Junction

INTERESTING FACTS

Told in Straightforward Fashion by a Prominent Man

Rev J H Hazlewood, D. D., of Toronto Junction, has the following interesting letter in a recent issue of The Christian Guardian.

Many inquiries reach me as to the working of local option in Toronto Junction. Three years ago it was carried by a majority of 700, and the bar made its exit on April 30, 1904, so that we have had a little more than two and a half years with no bar-rooms in the town. That should be sufficient time to form a pretty fair opinion as to its value or otherwise. The statements that were made wherever a campaign is on were made most emphatically here. "It will kill business." "The grass will grow in the streets." "If you carry local option you will be able to fire a canon down our main street, and hurt no one." Some believed this, and voted to keep the bar. Strange is it not, that many professedly Christian men will allow business considerations to take the place of the Golden Rule. History tells us there was a time when the people believed that the world rested on the back of a huge turtle. Unhappily more absurd is the modern idea that the business world rests on the back of the bar-room.

What are the conditions to-day in Toronto Junction? Have these dire predictions been fulfilled? Let us see. The population has increased fifty per cent, and the assessment is seventy-five per cent greater. The average wealth in 1903 was $750 per head, and in 1905 it was $542. The assessment for 1905 is not yet complete. Hotel property is assessed for more to-day than when a bar-room was a part of the outfit. This does not look as if local option destroyed the value of the hotel property. For the first time in many years there has been no sale of land for taxes. Building operations in every line are going on very rapidly. A comparison of the year 1905, shows that we advanced more rapidly than Toronto. The deposits in the Savings Banks are much greater. We have two additional banks since the bar-rooms were banished. One banker said, "We have $100,000 more in our savings department than we had three years ago." Land values have increased. Lots that sold for $24 a foot in bar-room days have since sold for $30 per foot, and are now held for $100, and rents for business places and residences have advanced very greatly.

That is the business side. What about the morals of the town? I quote an extract from a statement signed by the Chief of Police: "The closing of the bar has had a wonderful effect on the young men of the town under the influence of liquor; in fact, drunkenness is seldom seen on the public streets compared with what it was under the license system. I have seen away with the treating system that was such a common practice. I do not know of any dives or places of ill-repute where liquor is sold, or any houses of ill-repute. Some convictions have been made for illegal selling. The hotels have just as good accommodation for the travelling public as when under the license system."

The total convictions for drunkenness from May 1, 1902, to May 1, 1904, was thirty-eight, and from May 1, 1904 to May 1, 1906, was only sixteen. The big decrease took place after the town became "dry," notwithstanding the fact that the population had increased more than thirty per cent. in the same time. Most of the drunks in the last two years were manufactured outside of Toronto Junction. The business furnished the courts of the county of York is less than in barroom days, and the municipal authorities are hoping to have our share of the expense. Administration of justice reduced when the next adjustment is made. Last Twelfth of July between eight and ten thousand people visited our town, in connection with the great Orange demonstration, and the police say there was not a case of drunkenness.

The following is a few among many testimonies of business men. I shall

FEARFUL PAINS

SUGGESTIONS HOW WOMEN MAY FIND RELIEF.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. This is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. When pain exists something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

Thousands of women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes women's special pains and irregularities.

It provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weakness and diseases.

The two following letters tell so convincingly what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for women, they cannot fail to bring hope to thousands of sufferers.

Miss Matilda Richardson of 177 Wellington Street, Kingston, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"Some four years ago my usually good health began to fail. I had severe pains in my back, my head ached, I would have dizzy spells, and during my monthly periods I would suffer intense pain. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was so glad that I did, for it brought new life and health to me. My monthly periods were natural and painless, and my general health improved. I have not had an ache or a pain since, and I feel it a duty as well as a pleasure to tell you what your medicine has done for me."

Mrs. Louise McKenzie, of Mount Carmel, Montreal, Canada, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I had heard so much good about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I asked Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands Woman's Ills.

omit names, but will be glad to furnish them on application to the mayor, who has been a merchant here for many years, who predicted dire results if the act was passed, says he is free to admit that he was mistaken, that local option has been a great benefit to the town, and the man who votes to bring back the bar rooms takes a fearful responsibility. One of the ablest proponents of the measure says, "The police statistics speak eloquently and powerfully in favor of local option. The treating habit has been killed. He will vote to keep the bar-room out."

A dry-goods man says: "Notwithstanding increased competition, my business is much better to-day. Families that have little to spend in the days of the bar-room, are spending more in mine by buying a better class of goods. Some who asked for credit, and were slow to pay, pay cash now." A shoe-dealer put it this way: "My business in the last three months of license, compared with the corresponding three months of the year previous, showed only a slight increase. The first month after the bars were closed there was a very decided increase over the same month of the preceding year, and the first six months under Local Option, when compared with the same six months of the last year of license, shows an increase in sales of fifty per cent. My business now is double what it was when the bars were closed." Such a development cannot be explained by the general progress of the country. It most certainly indicates that the money that formerly was spent at the bar is now being spent upon the necessities of life. A prominent manufacturer says: "Local option is a great blessing to Toronto Junction and to us. Formerly many of our men simply could not pass the bars on their way to and from work, and we had much trouble. We built a stone wall between us and one of the hotels, but with very little beneficial result. That is all a thing of the past, and our men are better in every way." A business man who had voted against local option, one month after it had come into operation said to a neighbor: "It is a good thing for me that it carried. I have saved already two dollars in treats that I would have had to put up for the boys." Surely these facts and testimonies ought to count for something with business men in other sections. If Toronto Junction is dead, then I know many towns that would like to be dead in the same way.

It is said that liquor is brought in large quantities from outside, and that there is as much consumed as before. That is simply false. Some liquor is brought in, but the quantity is very small. The desire that must be satisfied in this way is the product of the license system. Local option does away with the very instrument that creates this condition, and makes it possible for our boys to grow up without the open bar, whose temptation their fathers yielded and fed. To quote again the Chief of Police: "We are no longer manufacturing drunks in Toronto Junction."

And yet, in the face of all this, the fight is on to repeal the by-law and bring back the bar. After keeping a paid agent at work for weeks, less than twenty five per cent. of the voters signed the petition for repeal, and many of them signed only for the sake of giving the people a chance to vote on the question. They will vote for local option. The council submitted it for the same reason, not that they favor repeal. We are praying and working for victory. "What we have we hold," is our motto, and we hope to pile up such a majority as will give for all time to come the advocates of the bar-room.

The Tremble of Old Age.

With the advance of years the vital functions of the body slow down. In consequence the organs of secretion suffer, the action of the bowels is lessened, and there is longer healthy circulation. The brain is congested with blood, giddiness, tremblings and cold extremities are common. No assistance is so potent as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. By their direct action on the stomach, liver and kidneys they cause an immediate change. Mild, free from gripe strengthening and cleansing the whole system, no medicine is so valuable in old age as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Held up Train to Secure coal

Regina, Sask., Dec 2—So desperate has the fuel famine grown, and to such terrible straits have the farmers been driven, now that zero weather has set in, that at Drinkwater, Sask., on Saturday, a train on a siding was held up by a band of farmers, who turned the switch and stood guard until their wagons were loaded from a car of coal bound for Weyburn. Many of these farmers were burning lumber from their buildings for fuel.

A NATIONAL ARMY.

What Britain Needs is an Armed People.

Speaking a short time ago in London England, before the City Liberal Club, Major Seely, M. P., laid down the proposition that reductions in the regular infantry of the line, whether popular or unpopular, are absolutely essential. The progress of civilization and the specialization of industry have made it more and more difficult for any man to find employment who has not learnt a trade, with the result that an appalling proportion of the vagrants and inmates of workhouses are ex-army men. About half of the vagrants in Ireland, on the authority of a Royal Commission, are ex-soldiers, more than a thousand, exclusive of militiamen, having been admitted to the workhouses last January.

When one reflects on the nature of the special danger to health, apart from the difficulty of learning a trade, which must beset the foreign service soldiers it is neither more nor less than a scandal that provisions should not be made for him. To set things right will cost money, and as in the near future more money must be spent on each man, it is necessary no less for the welfare of the soldiers than for the well-being of the empire that there should be a reduction of the line. Still another reason for this is that attention must be centred more upon those parts of the army which takes longest to make, notable artillery and cavalry, and these are far more costly than the infantry arm.

The Major had no hesitation in saying that the true path to pursue was to aim at creating gradually by building up out of existing materials a national army, complete in all arms, on the voluntary principle, ana on a home basis—an army of men who remain civilians and engaged in civilian pursuits, while still holding time to learn and organize to defend their country. Hereafter there should be two armies, but only two, a small foreign service army and the armed people.

WHO TOOK HIS MONEY?

Campbellton Man Tells Police He Has Been Robbed of Large Sum.

Daniel Curtan, who came here recently from Campbellton, alleges to the police that since coming to the city he has been robbed of a considerable sum of money by parties unknown to him.

Curtan was arrested last night as a common drunk and this morning Judge Ritchie sent him into jail.

According to the police, Curtan had been drinking on the train, and on arrival here, was taken to a boarding house, in what he describes as a respectable part of the city.

On awakening the following morning he found that instead of being the sole occupant of the room two other men had shared the apartment with him, and on searching his pockets, found that his money had vanished.
