

MEXICAN MILLIONAIRE AS BULLFIGHTER BOLD

Madrid Goes Wild Over the Daring Feats of Youthful Toreador.

PRESENTED TO THE KING Won Fame on Occasion of First Fight, and Now Bears Honors Modestly.

MADRID. There are some toreros who become millionaires, in pesos if not in pounds. But there is only one bull fighter's history who has become a millionaire. This millionaire is but 22 years of age. He is a Mexican, born in Pachuca, in the State of Hidalgo.

On his native soil in Mexico, Segura, as a boy, equipped himself with the bull fighter's regalia. His father having constructed a ring for him, fought calves. He was graduated to cows, and then to young bulls.

His First Success. At last, on his eighteenth birthday, his father allowed him to fight his first full-grown and savage bull. It was a feat of the day. Amid loud applause from the terraces and villagers, Segura skilfully dispatched his animal.

Police Report for 1906 Shows Marked Improvement in Public Morals.

LESS CRIME IN LONDON, STATISTICS SHOW

LONDON. A very satisfactory feature of the report for 1906 of the commissioner of police for the metropolis, which was issued last night, is that there is a decrease in the number of offenses committed during the year, though, curiously enough, 48 persons were sentenced to penal servitude, as compared with 274 in 1905.

The number of persons apprehended during the last year was 119,887, a decrease of 749 as compared with the preceding year. Of these, 3418 were convicted at sessions, 96,235 were convicted by magistrates, 630 were acquitted, 14,949 were discharged by magistrates.

There was a decrease of 1411 in the number of criminal offenses reported during the year, and a decrease of 248 in the number of felonies relating to property. The apprehensions for these offenses decreased by 425 and 46 respectively. The proportion of felonies to each 100 of the estimated population was 221, and was the lowest recorded during the period for which statistics are available.

Statistics decreased from 512 to 446 in 1906. House breakings decreased from 124 to 102, but the number of apprehensions increased by sixty, and the convictions by forty-nine. Violence to the person was used in only three cases of burglary and one case of house breaking. Of these offenses, 712 were committed in houses left with no person in charge.

There were seventeen cases of murder of persons over one year of age during 1906, and in only two cases were no arrests made. In the case of the "Medford Mystery," where Archibald Warkley, a young artist, was brutally murdered, the report says that after prolonged inquiry evidence to justify an arrest was not forthcoming.

The other involved mystery was the case of a woman in the Edmonton Inquiry after an illegal operation. The English printer continued to give unqualified satisfaction, not only in the United Kingdom, but also, it is said in all other countries.

Identifications still show an upward trend, although there are not many high-water marks has almost been reached. At Scotland Yard, 678 identifications were effected in the year for 1906. Of these, 292 were for the metropolitan police and 384 for provincial forces.

WORK OF ANARCHISTS. MILAN. While the train from Lausanne to Milan, which was due at Milan at 7:35 P. M., was stopping here a traveler got off of the train carrying a bomb, which, he said, he had found under the seat in the coach immediately behind the baggage van. The bomb exploded, blowing off his hand and slightly injuring a guard in the service of the Federal Railways.

Remarkable Rescue From Drowning. LAVERPOOL. A four-year-old child, named Alfred McGuire, fell into a canal at Preston yesterday. He was rescued after half an hour, and a medical man succeeded in restoring animation.

Ranjii in his dress as a Native Prince.

SHOOTING TIGERS IN SAFETY AND LUXURY—PRINCE'S PORTABLE BOX

Prince Ranjii, known in this country as a famous cricketer, has had an extraordinary portable shooting-box made for sport in the jungle. It is to be set down in the jungle and left until the animals grow accustomed to it. The box will take up his books in his caravan, and will be ready for his quarry at any time of the day or night.

At the shooting, the prince is seated in a comfortable chair, with a table in front of him, and a large mirror to reflect the scene. The prince is seated in a comfortable chair, with a table in front of him, and a large mirror to reflect the scene.

During her visit here Queen Alexandra and her sister, the Empress Maria Feodorovna, surprised the workers by driving into the yard of the Tuborg Brewery, accompanied by King Frederick, King George of the Hellenes, the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, Princess Victoria and several Danish princes and princesses.

The queen had given a luncheon party, and afterwards proposed the visit to the brewery, which was hailed with enthusiasm. The queen and her guests spent two hours on a tour of investigation, watching all the processes of brewing.

At the end of the visit the queen climbed to the roof of the brewery, 110 feet high, whence a picturesque view of the Villa Evidera is had, and there her majesty requested that lager beer should be served to her guests.

In a conversation with the manager the queen thanked him for the splendid gift of the Villa Evidera, and the party drove away amid the plaudits of the workers, who were granted a holiday for the rest of the day.

ITALY MAY FACE GIGANTIC STRIKE. MILAN. The Chamber of Labor in this city, which is also a headquarters for the whole of Italy, threatens to provoke a general strike should the gas workers' demands be not speedily conceded.

Six thousand employees of diverse trades dependent upon the gas supply are standing idle in Milan alone, and a similar enforced abstinence from work is foreshadowed elsewhere.

Both M. Julliot and M. Juchas declined to discuss the efforts which were being made in London and Berlin to persuade the French government to accept the Republic, which had already been put in hand. It would be a replica of the Patrie, which had been evolved after numerous experiments and which was regarded as a satisfactory type for a "reconstituting balloon."

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.

BALLOON IN FLIGHT FOR ROYALTY'S GAZE

Crown Prince of Germany Wishes He Were Aboard Count Zeppelin's Airship.

MARVELOUS SUCCESS Giant Craft to be Made by German Inventor and This One Demolished.

BERLIN. Count Zeppelin's dirigible balloon, which last week did 220 miles in nine hours, made an ascent at Friedrichshafen, Lake Constance, today before the German crown prince, the king of Württemberg and the archduke Franz Salvator of Austria. Against a brisk northeasterly breeze blowing twenty-five to twenty-eight feet a second, the balloon, 410 feet long, with the white-haired count at the helm, maneuvered above the lake for an hour and three quarters at a height of 475 feet.

The crown prince telegraphed to Count Zeppelin on Sunday that he wished to ascend in the ship today, but eight days' illness had reduced the motive power, and the prince's venture was deemed unsafe. Following the ship in a steamer on the lake, the prince could not control his enthusiasm, shouting again and again, "How I wish I were on board!"

A Graceful Descent. Obedient to the rudder with perfect precision, the airship described two wide loops round the steaming boats of the party, which showed its enthusiasm by hearty and prolonged cheers. A few minutes before the end of the review Count Zeppelin executed a graceful, gradual descent to within a few feet of the surface of the water, and then ascended as steadily and easily as he had descended.

Today's "dress-parade" trip of Count Zeppelin's airship was the last it will ever make. Tomorrow it will be totally dismantled in order that its propellers, struts and other auxiliaries may be transferred in an improved form to a new craft, the construction of which Count Zeppelin has already begun.

The new ship will be known as Zeppelin No. 4. Further trials will take place this year. Count Zeppelin's bureau at Friedrichshafen has authorized a denial of the reports that the imperial government has purchased the airship for $250,000. Nothing has been taken over by the government, which advanced the count $25,000 for its construction. Captain von Kehler, manager of the Motor Airship Zeppelin, said that the Reichstag has voted the necessary sum.

Another complicated matrimonial affair is occupying the attention of the papal court. It concerns Prince George of Greece's marriage with the Princess Maria Bonaparte. The former belongs to the orthodox church, and the latter to the Roman communion.

Plus X has taken a strong line against the policy of compromise in the matter of divorce, which, under the less sounding name of annulment, were fairly easily obtainable from the Roman curia during previous pontificates. In cases where money was no object, and he has shown redoubled severity toward the question of mixed marriages.

The two largest mixed marriage cases under certain conditions will, when contracted after next Easter, be regarded by the Roman curia as concubinage, and as null and void.

The two largest mixed marriage cases under certain conditions will, when contracted after next Easter, be regarded by the Roman curia as concubinage, and as null and void.

Both M. Julliot and M. Juchas declined to discuss the efforts which were being made in London and Berlin to persuade the French government to accept the Republic, which had already been put in hand. It would be a replica of the Patrie, which had been evolved after numerous experiments and which was regarded as a satisfactory type for a "reconstituting balloon."

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.

SECRET OF AIRSHIP IS CLOSELY GUARDED

Foreign Spies Have Little Chance to Unravel It in Wild Scottish Highlands.

MARTIAL LAW REIGNS All Strangers Are Suspected and a Ducking or Prison Awaits Them.

EDINBURGH. The extraordinary precautions that are being taken by the war office authorities to maintain the secret of the airship invented by Lieutenant Zeppelin, now being completed in one of the wildest parts of the Scottish Highlands, make the whole enterprise one of the most romantic in the history of aeronautics. On a plateau, high above sea-level, a little encampment accommodates forty men. A mile away, on the other side of a deep depression, is the shed, twenty feet high and sixty feet long, in which the aeroplane is being built.

A small model has been tested and approved, but the experts have not settled down to the task of perfecting a working aeroplane which may be of use in the next army maneuvers.

Blair Castle, which the marquis of Tullibardine is reading while he overlooks operations generally, and directs a large staff of spy-hunters, is several miles away. There are no houses at all from which can be seen the site of the camp or the shed. The foreign spies and inquisitive strangers, who haunt the district, have met with many rebuffs that they are becoming desperate. They are far more spied upon than the spies.

Shepherds with powerful field glasses occupy every point of vantage. Thick mists shroud the mountains and occlude the unwary wanderer, who may easily find himself foundering knee-deep in a dangerous bog. One ingenious youth, who, clad as a tramp, arrived within a mile or so of the shed, spent a cold, damp night on the hillside for his pains.

When a stranger arrives at Dunkeld or Blair Atholl, his presence is at once communicated to the marquis, and some one is told off to watch him. It is mentioned the word "aeroplane" in cottage or farmhouse, he may only hear a Scotch stare. It has been intimated to every one on the Atholl estates that the slightest treachery on the part of a resident will involve his seeking a horse chaise and a long way off.

War office authorities, also, is not to be defied. The district is practically under martial law, and all are held to get clear of this country. But there is not the slightest suspicion that the espionage discovery, if it fulfills Whitehall and Aldershot's expectations, is of such immense national importance that stringent measures to ensure privacy are fully justified.

The least an un lucky foreigner found trespassing near the encampment may expect is a ducking in a mountain pool or stream.

He had the misfortune to learn only a little of the secret, and all to get clear away with his knowledge, he would probably suffer some weeks or months of the quiet seclusion of an impromptu jail on the hillside.

So many vain attempts have been made to bribe and corrupt the Atholl retainers that a very strong feeling of resentment is growing among them.

FLOTTILLA OF AIRSHIPS ORDERED BY FRANCE

Builders of Famous Patrie to Construct at Least Four Reconnoitering Balloons.

PARIS. Since orders have been given by the French government to Messrs. Julliot and Juchas, the engineers who built the navigable balloon La Patrie, to construct a flotilla of similar airships for the use of the army, quite unusual activity has prevailed in the pretty Seine river-side resort of Meudon. A representative of the intrepid group who visited the village last night had an interview with the two engineers, who were able to induce them to give him some details concerning the construction of this flotilla of airships.

Both M. Julliot and M. Juchas declined to discuss the efforts which were being made in London and Berlin to persuade the French government to accept the Republic, which had already been put in hand. It would be a replica of the Patrie, which had been evolved after numerous experiments and which was regarded as a satisfactory type for a "reconstituting balloon."

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.

STOLE FOR REVENGE, THEN BURIED MONEY

Abandoning Bank Cashier Discloses Location of Funds He Had Appropriated.

BRUSSELS. Loysen, the trusted cashier of the Brussels Bank, who fled with $50,000 in order to avenge himself on the directors for prosecuting his son for minor embezzlements, and afterward surrendered without the money, informed his brother, also a cashier in the bank, that $20,000 was hidden in the house of a subotmaker, and $30,000 in the kitchen fireplace of his own house.

At the subotmaker's $20,000 was at once found by the police, but nothing at Loysen's house. In the end the police left Loysen's little girl alone with him, and after a touching scene it was learned that the $30,000 had, in fact, been buried in the garden of a woman friend. The magistrate, Loysen, and the girl proceeded thither and found the money intact.

Already $200 which Loysen had meant to leave for the maintenance of his family had been recovered. The girl will only suffer a very slight loss.

ROYAL FAMILY DRINKS LAGER BEER ON ROOF

Queen of England, With Her Brother, Sister and Others, Visits Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN. During her visit here Queen Alexandra and her sister, the Empress Maria Feodorovna, surprised the workers by driving into the yard of the Tuborg Brewery, accompanied by King Frederick, King George of the Hellenes, the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, Princess Victoria and several Danish princes and princesses.

The queen had given a luncheon party, and afterwards proposed the visit to the brewery, which was hailed with enthusiasm. The queen and her guests spent two hours on a tour of investigation, watching all the processes of brewing.

At the end of the visit the queen climbed to the roof of the brewery, 110 feet high, whence a picturesque view of the Villa Evidera is had, and there her majesty requested that lager beer should be served to her guests.

HUNGARY POSTPONES DEMANDS ON AUSTRIA

Two Countries in Dual Empire Come to Terms on Most Important Points.

VIENNA. Hungary has agreed to postpone the demand for economic separation from Austria for ten years. The ministers of the two countries agreed at Budapest last night on the renewal for that period of the Ausgleich, the settlement by which the affairs of the two countries have been jointly regulated since 1867.

As certain details still remain to be settled, ministers have given word not to reveal particulars of the agreement for the present, but the main outlines are known. Hungary will pay about 1 per cent more than hitherto its share of the common expenses, such as army and navy.

On the other hand, Austria drops the demand for a prolongation of the charter of the Austro-Hungarian Bank after 1910. Hungary will then be at liberty to establish her own state bank and issue bank notes.

The question of a separate Hungarian army has been left unsettled by agreement with the crown until after the introduction of universal suffrage. The renewal of the Ausgleich is a triumph for the aged emperor, and it is hoped that he will now be able to spend the closing years of his life in peace as far as these issues are concerned.

Bees in a Kitchen. LONDON. While a woman was making jam in a house at Brankhoe a swarm of bees came in at the window and took possession of the kitchen.

MIXED MARRIAGES FIND NO FAVOR WITH POPE

May Exact Pledge From Greek Prince Ere He Consents to Bonaparte Nuptials.

ROME. Another complicated matrimonial affair is occupying the attention of the papal court. It concerns Prince George of Greece's marriage with the Princess Maria Bonaparte. The former belongs to the orthodox church, and the latter to the Roman communion.

Plus X has taken a strong line against the policy of compromise in the matter of divorce, which, under the less sounding name of annulment, were fairly easily obtainable from the Roman curia during previous pontificates. In cases where money was no object, and he has shown redoubled severity toward the question of mixed marriages.

It is the case that by a recent papal decree various unions hitherto tolerated under certain conditions will, when contracted after next Easter, be regarded by the Roman curia as concubinage, and as null and void.

The two largest mixed marriage cases under certain conditions will, when contracted after next Easter, be regarded by the Roman curia as concubinage, and as null and void.

Both M. Julliot and M. Juchas declined to discuss the efforts which were being made in London and Berlin to persuade the French government to accept the Republic, which had already been put in hand. It would be a replica of the Patrie, which had been evolved after numerous experiments and which was regarded as a satisfactory type for a "reconstituting balloon."

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.

Underella in Egypt. LONDON. Lecturing on the subject of "Ancient Egypt" at the New Egyptian Club, C. J. Marshall said the story of Underella had an ancient Egyptian counterpart. In the pyramids, Egyptian mothers from time immemorial had buried their children in a beautiful peasant girl was robbed of her slipper while bathing in the Nile, and how, on its being mysteriously delivered at the palace, the king searched for its wearer and made her his queen.