TUESDAY, APRIL 21st, 1908.

The man who makes the big money is likely to be pretty careful about the small change.

A cargo of 18,000,000 lemons will arrive in Montreal in a fortnight. Believed to be fruit.

According to a contemporary they are issuing money at the Carnegie library. This is more thon Andrew bargained for.

Paradoxial as it may seem, those municipalities which local option has turned into 'dry' land are under water.

Easter hats are to be so large that there ought to be room for a small but distinct sign to this effect: 'This Hat is Paid For.'

Judge Newcomer of Chicago has ruled that 'a new spring hat for a woman is not a household necessity.' Paste this on her cheffonier.

The American invasion of the West continues unabated, Rudyard Kipling and the bad season of last year to the contrary notwithstanding.

Uncle Sam will set aside over a hundred million dollars this year for his navy. It's getting more expensive all the time to be the land of the free.

The man who starts the spring season with two automobiles may be regarded as one of the comparatively few who were not loated with doubtful stocks when the slump came

A South Carolina college has dismissed three hundred of its students for April fool foolishness. It's only in a land of cheap education that a college can afford to be so particular in such a wholesale way.

At a Barnard, Kansas, revival a gambler gave up his whole outfit and the evangelist took it to a hotel and cleaned up more than $300 before morning. But don't hesitate to give up your outfits because of this incident.

Emperor William is reported to prefer the English home system to the German 'flats' which prevail in Berlin and the other large cities of Germany. William has probably found it necessary to back out of some 'bat' into which he had penetrated with his sword fastened to his side.

Some idea of what it costs to provide for the unemployed against want may be gained by reference to the amounts expended by Typographical Union, No. 6, of New York, during the years 1906 and 1907. In the former year the benefit board dispensed $53,651,75; in the latter year the total was $34,840.27.

There is no doubt that public sentiment is moving strongly in the direction of greater cleanliness, not only in the production of food-stuffs, but in their marketing. The community will tolerate a dirty bakeshop and people are learning to shun the ill-kept mangy looking store, where the sale of bread and cakes is attempted. Further there is growing upon the public the feeling that bread ought to be protected from the contamination of dust and especially from contract with human hands after leaving the oven. Either partial or full wrapping will soon be demanded and the baker who gets into line soonest will be the gainer. It has been argued that the people will not pay for the cost of wrapping. There ought to be a good chance here for an experiment without adding the cost of the loaf the advertisement is worth considering.

KEEPING DOWN FOREST FIRES

Fire protection is now-a-days regarded as one of the necessary expenses in a town of any size and standing, and forms a considerable item in the annua lexpenditure—to say nothing of the large sums spent every year by pricate citizens in the way of premiums to fire insurance companies. Protection of forests from fire is gradually coming to be recognized as an expenditure just as necessary and as profitable on the part of the Provincial and Federal Goversment, which control a very great proportion of our forests. The vast losses which have occurred through forest fires are hinted at when it is said that in the valley of the Ottawa river, one of Canada's greatest lumbering districts, ten dollars' worth of timber has been destroyed by fire for every dollars' worth taken out by the lumber man.

The Miramichi, N. B., fire of October, 1825, with its loss of 160 lives and 250,000 pounds sterling in property, has become historical in Canada, as in the U. S. have the Peshtigo, Wis., fire of 1894 and the Hinckley, Wis., fire of 1894, the two together being responsible for the loss of over 1,500 lives and millions of dollars' worth of property. Such fires, fortunately, are very rare. More frequently by far the traveller in the wooded districts comes across tracts of miles in extent where a fire has raged with the result that only a blackened waste is left, with charred tree-trunks on every hand as a testimony of what the forest has once been there.

But the majority of fires do not get up into the trunks of the trees at all. These 'ground' and 'surface' fires, as they are known, burn in the soil of the forest, or run over the surface and lick up the fallen leaves and other debris on the ground. In this process the roots and bases of the trees are often wounded, and through the wounds made fungi gain entrance and attack the trees. In parts of the largest Dominion forest reserve, the Riding Mountain Forest reserve, in Manitoba, it has been found that seventy-five per cent. or more of the poplar trees, which form the greatest part of the stand of timber there, are affected by rot which has gained entrance to the tree through this course.

Forest fires have small beginnings, and often a few minutes' work when a small fire is discovered will save many hours' work and the loss of many thousands of dollers' worth of timber subsequently. It is in this fact—the possibility of discovering fires when they are small and then putting them out—that there lies the value of the systems of patrol which have been initiated by the Dominion, Ontario, Quebec and some of the other provinces for the protection of forests.

TOO MANY DRUNKS.

During the last fiscal year there were arrested in the Town of Campbellton two hundred and fifty-nine drunks. This for a town of about four thousand is a pretty high average. These are only the ones who were not able to care for themselves or who were disturbing the peace. No count is kept of the ones who are taken home by companions, or are able to stagger along themselves without interfering with the citizens. We venture to say that for every arrest there were five drunks who were not arrested.

There may be some consolation to citizens to learn that large numbers of those arrested were not citizens of Campbellton, but were transients who came here to work at various vocations. How can this be remedied. This is a question which should be dealth with intelligently at once.

It looks like Spring, even if it isn't.

The big acreage hats are so becoming and artistic it is astonishing that no one made the discovery before.

'It woud be difficult for a woman to commit a crime in a picture hat,' says the 'Gentlewoman.' How much room does she want.

The St. Lawrence river being in flood part of Montreal is under water. Montreal says she does it to look like Venice, but in Quebec we know that it's the bath she takes once a year whether she needs it or not.—Quebec Telegraph.

Dr. Herbert Snow, for twenty years a surgeon at a cancer hospital in England, and who for two years was senior surgeon, has stated publicly that the cancer research fund has done no good and that he has learned nothing about cancer except from 'critical experience.'

On receiving a little legacy, and having had deducted therefrom the cost of his previous maintenance, an inmate of the Swindon, England, workhouse took his discharge with just over £30. After an absence of 58 days he returned with nothing, and informed the master that he had had 'a jolly good time.'

Recent United States statistics are reported to show that 155,462 foreign laborers have left the port of New York for Europe this year, while only 56,474 entered as immigrants. Last year in the same length of time the number leaving was 52,483 and the arrivals numbered 205,310. The reverse of arrivals and departures is doubtless due to lack of employment in the United States.

Wisdom for Women

ROOMS FOR CHILDREN

Quite a feature of the new hats for spring is the remarkabel way the ribbon is arranged.

This will be good news to girls, and there are many of them, who will make their own Easter hats. Plain straw is not particularly expensive and if there are no left over ribbins about the house, new may be procured and the hat made for about one-eight the price of the average Easter bonnet. But the beauty of the ribbon trimmed bonnet lies not only in the arrangement of ribbon but in the combination of color the perfect blending of shades that marks the work of a real artist.

Most of the hats are small, a characteristic of hats trimmed in this way, for they are not suitable for every dressy occasion.

A hat in brown is trimmed with a six-winged butterfly in three shades if taffeta edged with beaded medallions and pearl paillettes. This ornamentation is easy to buy ready made though perhaps the economical girl might embroider the edges with silk floss and sequins that may be bought by the dozen.

Silk petticoats of heavy quality, rustling taffeta, have deep shirred and tucked flounces and are cut wide and full. These can be obtained in almost any shade or to match or correspond with the Easter suit.

Charming new styles are shown in the favorite spring shoe. Tan is the correct shade for present wear and very smart and stylish are a pair of ladies' button boots in a light tan with suede tops of a darker shade.

Everybody knows the 'Merry Widow. This means the bow—not the song. It is the hit of the season in neckwear and is composed of finely pleated white net and lace with colored dots.

Mulled Buttermilk.

Put one and a half quarts of fresh buttermilk upon a stove to heat. Add to it an egg beaten light with half a cupful of sugar and nutmeg to taste. Boil up once and take from the fire.

Baked Omelet.

Here is a receipt for baked omelet which we consider very fine:

Beat four eggs very light with one tablespoonful of flour; add a tablespoonful of melted butter, a pinch of salt and a cup of sweet milk.

Beat well and put into a heated and buttered baking dish. Bake quickly and serve immediately as it soon falls.

THE BENZINE BUGGY.

It would seem from recent legislation in the maritime provinces that the horseless age has not yet dawned. In Nova Scotia more stringent enactments are made respecting automobiles and in Prince Edward Island they are totally prohibited.

This should serve as a warning for all automobilists to exercise greater care.

The automobile is one of the most useful inventions man has perfected. It has long since ceased to be a mere instrument of pleasure, and its use is daily becoming greater in all countries. It is to be feared that the good automobilists have to suffer for the sins of the bad. When it is seen however what an intense feeling of bitterness there is against them in the country districts, the owntrs of motors should be especially conciliatory. We have observed in this city some chaffturs who will stop the moment they observe a frightened horse. This is highly commendable, as showing a regard for the rights of others. Others are not so thoughtful and if strict measures have to be adopted the fault will be theirs.—Ex.
