LONDON, Friday.—The Manchester Guardian commenting on McKenzie King's report says: 'The document is both exiguous and redundant, exiguous because the views of British and Canadian authorities have been embedded as confidential and unpublished memorandum, redundant because it includes much that certainly is unconvincing and it seems as if it could hardly be meant seriously.'

The Yorkshire Post says: It had been wiser for the Canadian government to modify Mr. King's flamboyant style.'

How Is Your Cold?

Every place you go you hear the same question asked.

Do you know that there is nothing so dangerous as a neglected cold?

Do you know that a neglected cold will turn into Chronic Bronchitis, Pneumonia, disgusting Catarrh and the most deadly of all, the "White Plague," Consumption.

Many a life history would read different if, on the first appearance of a cough, it had been remedied with

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

This wonderful cough and cold medicine contains all those very pine principles which make the pine woods so valuable in the treatment of lung affections.

Combined with this are Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other pectoral herbs and barks.

For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness or any affection of the Throat or Lungs. You will find a sure cure in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Mrs. C. N. Loomer, Berwick, N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for coughs and colds, and have always found it to give instant relief. I also recommended it to one of my neighbors and she was more that pleased with the results."

IDYLLS OF THE STARS

BY A BANKER

When we look upwards towards the domed canopy of the midnight skies scintillating and flashing in all its glory, the innumerable, serried array of starry orbs transplendent in many hued fires, some gleaming in effulgent splendour, some, plunged deep in the illimitable abyss of space, less vivid in their coruscating lustre, and some, sunk even further in the profundity of that mysterious infinity, but mere points of light, we note that the brighter of these glittering suns are arranged in fantastic design which by the exercise of a little imagination may in some cases be resolved into the constellations figured on our celestial globes.

These constellations, or asterisms, were, with a few exceptions, named by the earliest civilized nations of the earth, the Chaldeans and early Greeks especially, in honor of mythological or real personages whose deeds of valor and heroism they desired to commemorate. Thus the strange fable of the birth of Clytemenstre, the beautiful wife of Agamemnon—whose death-mask, of solid gold, found in her sarcophagus, together with that of Agamemnon himself, may now be seen in the fine museum at Athens—is commemmorated by the constellation of the Swan; the mixture of fabel and fact in the rescue of the fair Andromeda, the daughter of a King of Ethiopia, by an imaginary being, Perseus, who slew the sea-monster who was about to devour her has been handed down from age to age ever since that dim, far off epoch in the early history of the world in the constellations which bear their names, and also in those of Cassiopeia and Cepheus, Andromeda's parents; by the achievements of Auriga, said to be the inventor of horse drawn chariots, of Ophiucus (AEsculapius), reputed to be the originator of the healing art, or of Orion, a mighty hunter, real or imaginary, it is impossible to say, whose constellation is alluded to by that ancient writer, Job himself; all these, with many others, form a memorial written in glittering letters of fire in the skies of heaven of the achievements, some real, some doubtless fabulous and legendary, of the mighty heroes of old.

But there is one gorgeous constellation, perhaps more brilliant and more magnificent than any other in the entire expanse of the universe, a constellation out of the range of vision of those ancient pioneers of astronomy, for it is far down in the Southern Hemisphere—the Southern Cross—which commemorates, not the real or fancied achievements of poor mortals, but the wondrous sacrifice of the Son of God, who on the cross of shame made expiation for the sins of all believers by Himself suffering the punishment due to them.' And all who would gain a certain inheritence in the Realms of Glory have but to plead that propitiation before the throne of the Almighty, confessing their lives, of course, to His loss.

DOWAGER EMPRESS IS INTELLIGENT

LONDON Monday—Sir Robert Hart who was inspector-general of customs in China from 1863 until a year or so ago, and who returned to England is just now the most interviewed man in the country. Sir Robert speaks enthusiastically of the old Dowager Empress, who controls the destinies of the Chinese Empire He says:

'She is a very intelligent and able woman and has magnetic power over all officials. Her voice is beautiful and musical like the voice of a young girl, instead of a woman of 74. There has been talk of her relinquishing the reins of Government, but I do not think that is likely to happen. The Emperor shows great ability in adapting himself to the situation. He has a keen, intelligent face, though many think otherwise.'

Both China and Japan will be competing very successfully with the rest of the world in commercial matters, their own defence from the Western Both will be in a better position for attacks than ebfore.

Sir Robert, in discussing the talk of anti-foreign feeling in China, said: 'There is no such thing as anti-foreign feeling in China.'
