THE YORK ELECTION PETITION.

Proceedings on Wednesday.

The election petition of Wm. McKay against Messrs. Blair, Wilson, Bellamy and Anderson, came on for trial at the election court, Wednesday, July 2nd, at 11 o'clock, a. m., Judge Palmer presiding. D. Jordan for petitioner, J. A. Vanwart for respondents. On the case being called Mr. Jordan rose and made application to postpone trial until next month, reading an affidavit of his own in support of application setting forth that his client could not safely proceed with the petition against the Attorney General and his colleagues without the testimony of Mr. Barry, the law partner of Mr. Blair, and that Mr. Barry was not now in the province and he believed was remaining away on account of the election trial, he therefore asked that the case should stand postponed until August.

Mr. Vanwart obtained an adjournment until two o'clock to answer Mr. Jordan's affidavit, and at two o'clock opposed the application, claiming that Mr. Barry could have been subpoenaed in ample time; that a month elapsed after the date of the trial had been fixed before Mr. Barry left on his vacation, and that there was nothing to show that he would be home in August. Mr. Vanwart showed by the affidavits that Frank Gregory, George F. Gregory's son, was made treasurer of the election fund of the opposition candidates, and distributed the rum and money for them, and that he had gone away very soon after the election and was still absent and probably would remain away until the trial was over. It did not appear that Mr. Barry's absence would be any more embarrassing to the petitioners than Mr. Gregory's absence would be to the respondents, therefore he insisted that the case should now go on. Moreover if they had Mr. Barry here the prospects were he would not be obliged to give any evidence, in which view the judge concurred, saying that he was of the opinion that any evidence such as Mr. Jordan stated he wished to have Mr. Barry give, he could not be compelled to give.

The judge in deciding the application said that he would make it a condition to the postponement that Mr. Jordan should give an undertaking that Frank Gregory would attend to give evidence under a commission, and that under the circumstances he would postpone the case upon the petitioner paying all costs. The case therefore stands adjourned sine die, which means the case is practically at an end. There does not seem to be any fair play in the course Mr. Gregory's relatives and friends are taking in abusing Mr. Jordan for the collapse of the proceedings. Albert Gregory is no doubt a very astute young man; but when he characterizes Mr. Jordan as a d— fool on the public street and remarks that if "he had not been on hand at the time, he did not know what view the law might have got us into," it is not helping his brother or doing justice to Mr. Jordan. Mr. Jordan, we have already thought, would not find his services appreciated or paid for by the party; but we would like to know what A. J. Gregory did at the trial which Mr. Jordan could not and would not have done. If Mr. Jordan gets his pay as we trust he may, he will not feel half as foolish as those who have to pay him, and "we" and "us" referred to by Mr. Gregory will find that even his astute services have not kept his friends altogether out of the "scrape" of paying for the fun which, perhaps, is the most trying experience they could be compelled to pass through.

Murder at St. Leonard's.

Despatches from Madawaska county state that a most foul murder was committed at St. Leonard's on Monday. According to the accounts which have come to hand, an old man named John Desrosiers about 55 years of age, was found early Tuesday morning, within a few rods of his home, dead and his head crushed with a very heavy stone.

The murderer apparently struck his victim with a large sharp stone on the cheek bone and on a line with the eye, falling him with the blow, as the bone was crushed in and the eye protruding. After this a stone, which weighed from 40 to 50 pounds, was used to crush in the back part of his head. The sight was an awful one, as the brains of the deceased were found on the stone.

The blow which killed Desrosiers must have been from some one in waiting, as he had, when found, a pipe in his mouth, and the thumb of the right hand was in the arm hole of his vest and brace. He had been visiting a neighbor's house, about 250 feet from his own house, prior to the murder. A search was held before corner Akery and a verdict of wilful murder rendered against some person unknown to the jurors. There is no clue yet to the guilty parties although some of the relatives are suspected of committing the crime. No arrests have yet been made.

A Long Visit.

Private Nason of the Royal School of Infantry, probably feels like kicking himself at present time. He had a command in the county jail awaiting the return of the troops from camp Moncton, to be dealt with for desertion. Nason called to the jail to see him the other day. Deputy sheriff Hatfield, however, permitted him to talk through the grate of the door to the imprisoned deserter, and then suddenly remembered that he had an unserved execution against Nason. Leaving the pair talking, Mr. Hawthorne went up stairs and got the execution.

"You might as well go inside and talk," said he to Nason, at the same time opening an door, through which Nason passed into his partner's room. Then the deputy produced the execution.

"Anything to say on?" said the deputy. "Nothing," replied Nason.

"Then you may as well stay where you are. I suppose you wouldn't mind rooming together," said the deputy, as he turned the key in the door; and Nason's visit to see his friend promises to be a very protracted one.

The Late Mrs. Fisher.

The late Mrs. Judge Fisher was the seventh daughter and ninth child of David Hatfield, Esq., a wealthy shipowner, of English descent, who resided at St. John. Mrs. Fisher was a warm hearted woman, generous to a fault, and in her death the poor have lost a good friend. During her husband's life she took an active interest and was prominent in all good works; her hospitality was proverbial, and her cheerful welcome in her beautiful home will long be remembered by her many friends. Latterly, her health has not been good and her death, though sudden, was not entirely unexpected, and on the evening of Thursday, the 20th of June, without a struggle she passed quietly to her rest, aged 77 years.

Her funeral took place on Wednesday last and the many beautiful floral contributions from the friends testify to the love and esteem in which she was held. Mrs. Fisher leaves three daughters to mourn the loss of an affectionate mother.

Sad Drowning Accident.

George Smiler, the ten year old son of William Smiler of this city, was accidentally drowned Saturday afternoon, June 28th. He, with some other boys were fishing off a raft in the river opposite Simmon's tannery. Young Smiler tumbled and fell into the water and the other lads becoming frightened, ran away to tell Mr. Smiler instead of giving the alarm at the tannery. By this means the boy remained in the water some time before the accident was known. Efforts were made to recover him, but were not successful, until too late. When recovered all efforts to resuscitate were fruitless. Mr. and Mrs. Smiler have the sympathy of the city. Deceased was a very smart, bright lad, and his parents feel their great loss very keenly.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, the teachers and scholars of the Methodist Sunday school following in a body to the grave.

Sad Death of Holey Baxter.

Word was received in this city on Thursday night of the death at Haverhill, Mass., of Holey Baxter, formerly in the employ of Jas. S. Neill of this city.

The Haverhill Evening Bulletin of July 1st gives the following account of the accident by which Holey Baxter lost his life: "A fearful accident occurred on the morning of the 27th inst. A young man by the name of Holey Baxter, 21 years old, and residing on Washington street, stood on the Washington street crossing just as the 11:45 train drew out of the station. When the second car drew near him he made a spring for the steps on the front platform, but, missing his hold, he fell over backwards into the tracks. The wheels of the train just above the knees, crushing the bones and mangling the flesh in a terrible manner. His left arm was also run over and badly mangled. There were many people in the vicinity at the time, but they could do nothing for the poor man who he returned to his train. Soon after the accident occurred word was sent to the police station, and other friends and look-up keeper Goodwin drove up to the depot with a doctor. By this time the man had recovered consciousness and it was evident that he could not live but a short time. Word was accordingly sent to his relatives and his brother quickly came down to the depot. He was so overcome with grief, however, that he was led away by friends. Dr. J. J. Clarke remained with the man until 11:45, when he breathed his last. Holey was a steady, sober, industrious young man employed at Thom's hat factory. It was a terrible sad accident, and we hope that it may serve as a lesson to other men who daily risk their lives by jumping upon trains at the depot when in motion."

The remains arrived here on Saturday's train and were accompanied by his brothers, Charles and Robert. The funeral took place from the depot this (Saturday) afternoon.
