LOCAL NEWS.

VICTORIA ELECTION.—To-day (Saturday) the election is being held in Victoria. The canvass has been very lively.

TARGET PRACTICE.—The I. S. C. are doing their annual target practice at the York county rifle association range.

TALL CLOVER.—Israel Golding has cut several stalks of clover on his Kingsclear farm which are over five feet tall.

ELECTION PETITION.—The hearing of the Westmorland election petition is set down for to-day (Monday) at Dorchester.

PROPERTY TRASFER.—Wiliam Henry, of Prince William, has purchased the O'Malley property for $2,300. He proposes building on it and living there after a time.

GETTING DOWN.—Sybil, A. G. Blair's pacing Wilkes filly, showed a half mile in 1:29 the other night. She can speed very fast and when fitted will knock spots off the local two year old record.

A HALF-FARE PASSENGER.—The Pictou News says: It is told of one of our natives, that desiring to go to Halifax cheaply, he passed himself off as a clergyman and got on a bender and came home half fare as an Indian.

A PLEASANT OUTING.—A party of a hundred or more ladies and gentlemen went down to Grand Lake on Thursday, picknicked there and returned in the evening. They had the I. S. C. band with them and spent a very pleasant day.

THE BANDS.—If one may judge from the number of persons who assemble on Parliament square on band nights, the citizens generally very highly appreciate the efforts of the Fredericton brass band and the I. S. C. band to entertain them.

PICNICS.—St. Paul's church working band will hold their annual picnic on September 4th at Fraser's grounds, Nashwaak, on the line of the N. & W. R.

The Methodist Sunday school picnic will be held at Oromocto Island on Thursday next.

THE OTHER SIDE.—This from the Lewiston Journal, will require explanation: After a while, there will be an interesting story to be told; interesting to the general public, and particularly so to the people of Aroostook, concerning the resignation of Mr. Cram from the New Brunswick system.

THE FREDERICTON EXHIBITION.—Things look promising for the exhibition to be held next month by Society No. 34. In addition to the regular prize list, Messrs Sewell & Gellibrand offer low prizes of $10 and $5 each for the best colts from their horses, Lord Bardolph and Star of the East.

AN AFTERNOON OF SPORTS.—The city firemen are arranging for an afternoon of water sports to be held on Tuesday, September 2nd, and an evening of dancing and other amusements on the athletic association grounds. The object is to raise funds for a torchlight procession to be held on the first night of society 34's exhibition.

A SPEEDY TRIAL.—Mattie Myrshall was charged with stealing $20 from a man named Nelson. She elected to be tried under the speedy trials act and Judge Steadman held court on Wednesday for that purpose. The namesake of the Trafalgar hero failing to materialize, the accused found the trial very speedy for she was discharged forthwith.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.—An attempt was made to rob the safe in the Fredericton N. B. R. station on Monday night. Three holes were drilled and three charges of powder exploded, but the door remained firm. There was considerable money in a drawer in the office which was untouched. In fact nothing was taken; but the safe was badly damaged.

ORGANIZED.—The Fredericton soap manufacturing Co. held its meeting for organization on Thursday. The following directors were elected: W. McFarlane, R. W. Foster and Alfred Haines of St. Mary's, F. P. Thompson of Fredericton and J. H. Murch of Bear Island. Mr. McFarlane was subsequently elected president, Mr. Foster treasurer and Mr. Murch managing director.

PASS HIM AROUND.—The Chatham World says: His name is Russell and his profession is music. He called on many Chatham families a few days ago, introduced himself as the new organist of St. Mary's church, and solicited music pupils. He secured a few, and managed to get a dollar or so in advance from some of them, just to enable him to hold them as pupils, you know. He is gone, and this notice may save some of our readers from adding a dollar to his finances.

THE OAT CROP.—The secretary for agriculture says that the average condition of the oat crop in the province, as gathered from nearly one hundred reports and corrected by allowance for the difference in the breadth of this grain sown in the several counties, is about 75 per cent., 100 being taken to represent prime condition. This is a marked improvement on previous reports and a further advance may be expected from recent rains. A bulletin on the subject will be issued from the agricultural office early next week.

A Timely Rescue.

About a week ago Hugh Calder, William Berry, and Charles Herron of Boston, upset from their canoe near camp comfort which, as every one knows, is near Spring Hill. Only three ladies were at the camp and no gentlemen; but one of them, Miss Blair, at once set out to the rescue of the unfortunate young gentlemen. She wisely did not attempt to take them into her canoe, but gave them her paddle. Meanwhile Bayard Fisher and George Blair, who had started in their canoe, heard the shouts for help and went back to lend their assistance. With the help of Darley Harrison they were successful. No one was any the worse for the adventure, but if it had not been for the timely warning given by the ladies there might be a different story to tell.

Serious Accident.

A collision occurred on Thursday night on King street opposite the N. B. Foundry, between teams driven by Peter McFarlane and L. J. Elliott, clerk in the Barker House. In the carriage of the latter was a young lady. No very great amount of harm was done to Mr. Elliott's vehicle and he and his companion were uninjured. Mr. McFarlane's carriage was completely wrecked and he was thrown out and very severely injured. He was taken to the Foundry office and afterwards to his home a few doors below. Dr. Coburn was summoned and pronounced the injuries not dangerous and but that one rib was broken. Mr. McFarlane is a heavy man and such a fall necessarily gave him a very bad shaking up. He will not be about for a few days. His horse, freed from the wagon, ran out York street and down Queen, scattering people from the sidewalk. He ran into B. M. Mullin's carriage and set his horse running. Jeremiah Barry, who was near, ran out to stop the latter and was struck by the McFarlane horse, knocked down and his head quite badly cut. He was taken into Dr. Coulthard's office where his injury was dressed. It was a pretty hard knock and Mr. Barry was not able to leave his bed on Friday morning. The horse continued on his way down Queen street, but did no further damage, finally stopping on Shore street, very little the worse for his run.

A Brilliant Gathering and a big Crowd.

A very large number of people gathered at the union line wharf at 3 p. m. on Thursday to greet the visiting members of the Grand Lodge of B. N. A. The Union band was also present. The steamer was a little late in arriving. On landing the visitors were met and welcomed by Mayor Allen, Thos. Temple, M. P., also by Wm. Wilson, M. P. P. and other prominent orangemen. A procession was formed in the following order:

Fredericton Union Band.
62nd Band.
Black Knights.

Barouche containing Grand Treasurer Anderson, Past Grand Master White, Grand Master and Sovereign Wallace, Thomas Temple, M. P.

Barouche containing Wm. Rossborough, Grand Master Morrison of Nfld., Grand Secretary Birmingham and Captain Cooper of Toronto.

County Master Cochrane, M. P., Deputy Grand Chaplain Miller of Nova Scotia in Barouche.

The handsome regalia and uniforms made a very brave showing. At Orange hall a public meeting was opened, presided over by County Master Anderson. P. G. M. Wilson read an address of welcome.

Grand Master Wallace, D. G. M. Clarke, Mayor of Toronto, P. G. M. Fitzgerald, P. G. M. White, C. M. Cochrane, M. P., and J. McCoullagh, M. P., spoke in reply. After several rounds of cheers the procession was reformed and the visitors returned to the steamer, which left the wharf a little before five o'clock and arrived in St. John at 11.20 thus enabling those of the party who wished to do so, to catch the C. P. R. train west.

The Food Supply of the United States

[For the Herald.]

The Montreal Star says: "Some curious facts, adduced by the Chicago Tribune, are worthy of note in this connection. While the population of the United States has increased one-third in the last ten years, the cereal production has augmented a trifle less than a quarter. The meat supply as a whole is greater per capita than at the end of the last decade, but in cereals, dairy products, cotton and wool there is a decided falling-off. Hence agriculture in the United States has not kept pace with population, though there has been an extensive occupancy of previously wild lands, with a cheapening of the cost of production due to the use of machinery. As for wheat the comparison is really surprising. The crop of last year was barely ten per cent. greater than that of 1879, and it is now stated that this years' yield of wheat will hardly equal that of 1880. It would appear from these reports that there is a limit to the wheat producing capacity of American lands and that in a few years wheat growing in the western states will become comparatively insignificant as it has been for years past in New York and Pennsylvania."

When fifteen months ago I directed public attention in the Century Magazine to the approaching exhaustion of the arable lands of the United States and the inability of the present owners of farms to keep pace with the demands upon the agriculture due to the rapid increase of population, most newspapers, which favored the article with a notice intimated that they thought I was very much mistaken. The same doubt found a place in the mind of the editor of the Century and in a note appended to the title of my paper, he said that an American view of the question would be shortly presented. The chief of the statistical department at Washington took exception very strongly to my conclusions and asked permission of the Century to answer them. I was, indeed, strongly urged to take a less advanced ground and to confine myself rather to a simple exposition of the capabilities of Canada. Since then I have had the satisfaction of knowing that several distinguished writers on economic subjects have come forward with similar views. I have a letter from C. Wood Davis, a contributor to the Forum and the Arena on subjects of this nature, in which he warmly congratulates me upon being the first to draw the attention of the people of the United States to this very important question, and the statistical department at Washington has sent out a warning note on the subject, I mention this a little in self-defence, since so many of my newspaper friends seemed to think I had taken an untenable position, and secondly in order to point out the very important bearing, which the facts, referred to in the extract above quoted, must have upon the near future of Canada. The increasing population of the United States lays under tribute 12,000,000 additional acres of land every year. The public domain cannot furnish more than three or four years demand at the outside; the gradual diminution of exports will give a margin of supply which will not be exhausted for say five years more; but within a decade the limit will be reached, and the United States will cease to become an exporter of raw articles of food, and become a large importer—at least the imports of farm produce will far exceed the exports, which is the same thing practically.

Cheap food, and remunerative employment are what the people of the United States must have. If not the social and political fabric will be subjected to a strain which it cannot bear. There is abundant area on the continent to furnish the food, abundant material to furnish employment for labor and the world can be opened for a market: but the sine qua non of it all is free trade. The day of restriction is very nearly over.

The St. John Exhibition.

We draw the attention of our readers, to the advertisement of this exhibition, which appears in another column, and would particularly impress upon all who are likely to exhibit, the necessity of sending in their entries before the first of September. The association is preparing to issue a complete catalogue of exhibits, and all entries, must positively close on the date mentioned.

The prospects for the exhibition are most encouraging in every department. A large number of entries have been made in nearly all sections. In the manufacturers' section almost every branch of industry in the dominion will be represented. The large amount of machinery in motion will illustrate some interesting processes in manufacturing, for this purpose the association are providing about 250 horse power. Messrs. Goldie & McCulloch, of Galt, Ont., are contributing a 60 horse power Wheelock engine; Messrs. E. Leonard & Son, of London, Ont., are furnishing 95 horse power, with one of their ball engines, and several other manufacturers are putting in additional steam and electric power.

The great maritime butter competition, for which about $800 in prizes are offered, is attracting great interest, and should give a strongs timulus to this important industry in the provinces.

Among the many features of the exhibition, outside of the ordinary competition, the following are worthy of special notice:

The West Indian exhibit, which will consist of the products of the islands, will be both large and varied. One of the islands alone is spending $2,000 on their collection. The Canadian, West Indian & South American S. S. Co., are offering free transport of articles from there, and this department cannot fail to be of interest to all classes of people as well as a unique feature in Canadian exhibitions.

Arrangements have been made with Messrs. James Pain & Son, of London, Eng., and New York, (probably the largest manufacturers of fire works in the world,) for several evenings of most elaborate displays, in which they propose to introduce a number of attractive novelties. As this firm has had charge of displays at exhibitions at South Kensington and Sydenham Palace, London, Eng., as well as the most important ones at other points in England and the United States, their name is sufficient guarantee of the success of this part of the entertainment.

As regards the musical programme, four or five of the leading bands have been engaged, and in addition to these a large organ of 750 pipes is being erected by F. A. Peters, of St. John, which will be utilized for organ recitals, by some of the leading organists. Arrangements are also being made for a mammoth concert to be held in the buildings, when this instrument with an orchestra, and several hundred voices will be utilized. Nearly all the leading musical instrument manufacturers through Canada and the United States, as well as some from Germany, are making exhibits, which will be placed at various points throughout the buildings, and some of the best musical talent has been engaged by these people to display the tone and power of their instruments.

The exhibition association has already received intimation from a number of companies of glass blowers, museum managers, photograph exhibition companies, etc., and have arranged for a considerable number of attractions of this class.

The exhibit to be made by the educational department of New Brunswick, will be of an interesting character, containing work by all grades in the various schools of the province.

The Moosepath driving park association are providing a large and attractive programme of horse racing covering four days, during the exhibition, and the various base ball and athletic associations are organizing for important field days during the fair.

Death of Michael Colter.

Michael Colter, one of the oldest and most respected residents of the city, passed quietly away on Friday evening last at the ripe age of eighty-five years. For some time the old gentleman has been in a very low state, unable to take nourishment, and for some days previous to his demise, his end has been hourly expected. He leaves a widow, three daughters and one son, Joseph Colter. His funeral will take place from his late residence at 4.30 p. m. on Monday.

A Ride Through Madawaska.

I have known the Madawaska country for twenty years, and can unhesitatingly say that at no time during that period has it presented a more attractive appearance than it does just now. Undoubtedly, so far as beauty of scenery goes, no part of the charming St. John valley excels that which lies between Grand Falls and the mouth of the St. Francis. A prettier railroad ride cannot be found than that from Grand Falls to Edmundston. For the whole distance, thirty-six miles, you are scarcely out of sight of the river, and from the car windows there is a constant succession of exquisite landscapes. Looked at from the bridge over the St. John the view is very fine in either direction. The town of Grand Falls on its elevated plateau, which stands 150 feet above the water, makes a very pleasing picture, and the sweep of the river above the bridge gives a very choice bit of scenery. All along through lower St. Leonards there is much to please the eye; and as the tenth mile post is passed the track swings a little to the right and the river a little to the left, thereby opening a vista, the extreme of which consists of the picturesque village of Van Buren. A low fir-crowned bluff in the foreground casts its shadows on the water on the left and clumps of trees and a mass of bushes bound the picture on the right. It is such a bit of landscape as one might chose for a panel. Through St. Anne parish the road skirts the river closely, and both shores can be taken in at a glance. The conformation of the country is such as to lend itself readily to completing the picture begun by the hand of man in clearing the forest and erecting buildings. There is nothing like monotony about the series of scenes presented, and one can look from the car windows constantly without growing weary. At Grand Isle, where the train arrives about sunset, the view is strikingly beautiful; but the traveler must reserve his notes of admiration for St. Basil, which is passed this time of year just as the evening shadows begin to creep over the hills. I used to go into ecstasies over the St. Basil landscape years ago, and the more I see the keener grows my admiration of this delightful spot. I met the Hon. Joseph Howe on his return from the North-West. He had driven from River du Loup to Woodstock. "There is nothing in all Canada that I have seen" he said, "that can equal the view from the roadside cross below St. Basil Chapel." It is hard to describe it. Seven miles away is a dark range of hills and at the foot you see the white houses of Edmundston. The middle distance is a huge amphitheatre, containing perhaps twenty thousand acres, divided nearly in the middle by the winding St. John, the hillsides are cleared to their summits in most places, with here and there enough of the forest remaining to lend the charm of variety. Long rows of white farm houses and barns, broken on either side of the river by the glittering church tower and the little hamlet clustering around the sacred edifice, reach away in great curves, diverging from your point of view and converging a few miles beyond like two great crescents. It is a scene that will live in the memory. Here it was that the wandering feet of a party of Acadians, more than a century ago found rest, and in all these houses that you see, except those in distant Edmundston, you will find none but French. One side of the river is the state of Maine, one side is Canada; but both sides are equally French—illustrating in their acquiescence in the political and legal conditions of the two countries, the wisdom of what de Lotbiniere said to the English house of commons as long ago as 1764, that the people of New France would be content with any system of laws well administered. Lord North, with his faculty for never understanding the true feeling of the people, which, as every one knows, lost Great Britain her thirteen colonies, thought otherwise. He preferred to listen to the toryism which sought to preserve the semi-feudal condition of old Quebec, with the result that he laid the foundations of an imperium in imperio, that confronts the dominion today and must be settled with at every turn in its political career.

But I did not set out to write on politics, and so we will get along to the crude, but very lively little town of Edmundston, terminus of the New Brunswick railway, and starting point of the St. Francis railway. If you want to stop in Edmundston, Magloire Hebert or Felix Hebert will take good care of you. Don't expect anything metropolitan except in the matter of cleanliness and you will not be disappointed. You will get enough to eat and won't have to pay much for it. Edmundston is a very pretty situated town with fine views in all directions. You can spend two days here very well. The first day get a team and drive up towards St. Francis. In order to get back comfortably the same night, perhaps you had not better go any further than Fort Kent, a little town in Maine. Get your dinner there and come home on the side of the river opposite to the one you go up on. By taking such a drive you can see Jean Baptiste at home and he is well worth looking at. The scenery is very fine along this drive. The second day take the Temiscouata railway, go up to Dennis Griffin's, fish all day and come back on the return train. It will be your own fault if you do not get a big string of trout. Possibly you may get a few large ones; but don't count on many more than ten inches long. If you have more time go up to Lake Temiscouta, concerning which I may have something to say later on.

C. H. L.

A Runaway.

Z. R. Everett's steed has not usually been regarded as a source of danger to the community, but he belied his reputation in this respect last week. He was standing in front of G. C. Hunt's drug store, his owner having left him for a moment. By some means the whiffletree became detached and fell upon the horse's heels. He moved ahead a little, with a look of inquiry upon his countenance. This caused the whiffletree to hit him again, whereupon he made a bee line for Mr. Everett's store door, evidently intending to have the necessary repairs made at once. Unfortunately he omited to recognize the fact that Lemont & Sons delivery wagon was in the way and a collision occurred which reduced Mr. Everett's wagon to chaos. The horse got clear, took to the asphalt, as all runaway horses do, and with a brief pause to kick every few yards he went down to St. John street. There he seemed to realize that he had been making a fool of himself and trotting quietly up to the door of the parliament building, stopped. Meanwhile the Lemont animal was standing in a bewildered way in the gutter where the force of the collision had sent it. It was very funny to those who were looking on, though somewhat expensive to Mr. Everett.

Has got into Fiction.

Our venerable friend, the Metropolitan, has achieved an unexpected honor. The principal story in the August number of that excellent magazine, The Cosmopolitan, is entitled "Why the bishop left Rye Beach," and in it occurs the following passage:

"I saw by the last week's Churchman that the Lord Bishop of Fredericton, was expected at Campobello in a day or two. Do you want to meet him?" she asked sharply. But the poor little dignitary said no more. Certainly he did not mean to fly from the presence of this bishop to that of the Metropolitan of Canada.

The author, Oscar Fay Adams, cannot have a very intimate acquaintance with Bishop Medley, or he would hardly have represented his bishop from avoiding the imaginary meeting on the ground that he would show to disadvantage by the side of a large man like the Metropolitan.

Some of the western politicians collect the seeds of a plant, powder and sift them, and then bake into cakes, which they smear with oleomargarine and eat. In preparing this article of food they use an article known as Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder, that is acknowledged to be the best in the world.
