Recent Deaths.

Mr. Abraham McKeen, a well-known resident of York, died at his home, McKeen's Corner, at an early hour on Wednesday morning. Deceased was in the 70th year of his age. He was the father of councillor John McKeen and of Mrs. J. B. Grieves of this city. He was a brother-in-law of the late lamented John Pickard, York's representative for many years in the dominion parliament. The funeral took place on Thursday morning, and the remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of friends.

The many friends of Mrs. Bookhout, wife of George Bookout, and daughter of William Cooper, King street, were pained to hear of her death which occurred at an early hour, at her father's residence, on Tuesday morning. Deceased had been in ill health for some time past, but until very shortly before her death, no one expected the end to be so near. Her death was a severe blow to her husband, who has the sympathy of many friends in his affliction. Mrs. Bookhout was a lady of many excellent personal qualities, and much beloved by a large circle of friends. She will be much missed from the home and social circle. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon and was very largely attended. The Rev. Mr. Crawley conducted the services at the house and grave. The interment took place in the protestant burying ground above the city. A large number of the Knights of Pythias, of which order the deceased's husband is a member, walked in the procession.

Burpee Jewett, a well known resident of Upper Keswick, died on Thursday morning.

Cricket Booming.

Cricket is beginning to get a foothold in Fredericton again, and there is little doubt that it will soon become the leading game once more. On Friday afternoon a one inning game was played in the grounds of the F. A. A. club, between an eleven composed from the cricket club and a team made up from the base ball managers and players, as follows:

CRICKET CLUB.	BASE BALL CLUB.
B. Fisher	H. C. Rutter
L. Fenety	J. H. Hawthorn
W. T. H. Fenety	D. Lee Babbitt
H. G. Fenety	L. C. Macnutt
Stewart Campbell	Larebee
J. D. Harrison	Burns
A. Harrison	Underwood
A. Akerly	Stynes
Geo. Babbitt	Schrode
Sergeant Walker	McCormac
Lee Street	Thayer.

The cricketers won by a score of 57 to 50. A great feature of the game was Hans Hawthorn's catch of two pop flies, one of which struck in his vest pocket. Hans is so elated with his success that he talks of giving up base ball and going in for cricket. Harry Rutter led the field in scoring.

Shore Line Railway.

The annual meeting of the stock-holders of the Shore Line railway company was held last Wednesday in St. John and the following directors elected: Messrs Russell Sage, R. J. Cross, Giles E. Taintor, Sidney Shepherd, H. M. Ruggles, New York; Frank Todd, St. Stephen, and H. H. McLean. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. Cross was elected president and H. H. McLean vice-president and managing director. The reports submitted showed the road to be in a prosperous condition. Extensive improvements are now being made to the roadbed, and it was decided to rebuild some of the bridges and to straighten out the road at Musquash and the New River branch, and also to have the extensions at the cantilever bridge and at St. Stephen made. Preliminary surveys have already been made and a statement of the estimated cost of these works was submitted and arrangements were begun so that the work can be finished this fall. The Shore Line road for Calais, joining the Maine Central at Ellsworth, will be completed next year.

Our City Florists.

It has not been a good summer so far for flowers. Growth has been slow and bloom scanty. Nevertheless our city florists' establishments are well worth a visit.

Bebbington's is too well known to call for an introduction. This year he is better able to meet the demands of customers than ever. As the fame of his greenhouses becomes wider he increases his facilities for doing business, and seems in a fair way to absorb the surrounding neighborhood with his tasteful and valuable establishment.

Miss Schleyer, the up-town florist, is not so well known, because her place is much newer, but a surprise awaits any one who pays the premises on Charlotte street a visit. The result of two years' work is quite remarkable both for the quantity and variety of plants. Miss Schleyer has some rare West India plants, brought to the province by Mrs. Vanwart, which she is having much success with. Both at this garden and Bebbington's one is sure to find the latest varieties of house and bedding plants.

Police Court.

A complaint was recently entered at the police court against John Hunter of Bloomfield Ridge, for violation of the Scott act. Hunter was in the employ of a widow woman who keeps a little store there, who states that the only drink sold in her store, was some stuff she bought from a peddlar without the slightest suspicion that it was of an intoxicating nature. At the request of Mr. Wilson, who appeared for the defendant, the case was adjourned for a week.

On Tuesday evening a man complained at the police court that he had been robbed of twenty dollars, in a house of ill repute in the city. A woman named Marshall was arrested for the offence, and on being taken before the police magistrate, denied the charge. The informant not appearing the case was dismissed.

Wedding Bells.

At the residence of D. Buchanan, near Apohaqui, Kings county, on Wednesday his daughter Maggie B. and E. Bliss Morton of Fredericton were united in marriage Rev. Thos. Stewart of Sussex preformed the ceremony. Mr. Morton is a native of Penobsquis, Kings Co., but is now in the railway employ at Fredericton. He was for some time in the I. C. R. station at Norton with S. McCready, Miss Buchanan taught school for several years, her last school being at Salisbury. The happy couple passed through St. John yesterday en route to Grand Falls. They have many friends through the province who will unite to wish them a long and happy life.—Sun.

Canada's International Fair.

Ira Cornwall, the indefatigable secretary of the St. John exhibition association, sends us a copy of the prize list of the exhibition to be held in that city from Sept. 24th to Oct. 4th. If you want a copy of the list, write to Mr. Cornwall for it. The premiums amount to $12,000 and the classes are very comprehensive. Every effort ought to be made by Fredericton people to have our city industries well represented at the fair.

Odds and Ends.

The picnic which was to have taken place at camp Comfort was turned into an evening party at Mrs. Blair's.

Miss Burnside gave a party on Thursday evening, for her cousin Berton Beckwith who returned to New York on Friday.

The second birthday of Fred. B. Edgecomb's son and heir, Charlie, was celebrated by an infants' party on Thursday afternoon. The guests retired at an early hour.

CATS.—Some residents of St. John street complain greatly of very full grown cats which they much want looking after.

THE RAYMOND EXCURSIONISTS.

Their Trip to Fredericton Delayed for a Time.

The Raymond excursionists have been visiting the chief places of interest in the province during the past few days. The first point touched at was St. Andrews, the famous summer resort. The trip last year proved so pleasant and profitable that they came down this year again in largely increased numbers. It was the intention of the party, which numbers over forty, to have come direct from St. Andrews to Fredericton; but the lack of suitable hotel accomodation in the capital city, decided the party to visit Nova Scotia, Cape Breton and P. E. Island, returning to Fredericton later in the season when the hotels are in a position to accomodate them. In order that the excursionists may feel as much at home as possible when they arrive, THE HERALD now introduces the members of the party to the citizens of Fredericton. The Base Ball Team.

There appears to be considerable dissatisfaction with Fredericton's professional base ball team as at present composed, and the record of the team would seem to justify the feeling. There can be little doubt that the team is too weak to play ball with the nines it has to meet. There is not a team in the league (with the exception of the St. John's as at present constituted) which cannot play all around the Fredericton nine. Any one who has attended the games played on the home grounds could not fail to notice that several of Fredericton's high salaried professionals are playing in too fast company, and have been, since the first game of the season; and the question naturally arises: why keep these men and pay them high salaries? If the team as at present composed cannot win a fair share of the games, why not weed out the weak players and fill their places with men who can play. If this is not done why not disband the team? All interest in the game is gone, when the chances of being defeated are ten to one against winning, and when the interest dies out the attendance falls off. Fredericton is paying a large enough weekly salary to have as good a team as anyone. It is vaguely whispered that the management intend releasing some of the players, but if they intend to do so, they should do so at once. Nothing can be gained by waiting until all possible chance of winning the pennant is gone. Let us have a new team or no team—which shall it be?

Running A Blind Pig.

On Tuesday afternoon officers Vandine and Roberts, acting on the information of John I. Morrison, went down to the mills and took into custody a colored individual named James Brown, who has been importing liquor into the locality and dispensing it from a small schooner to the millhands, much to the annoyance and loss of the mill-owners. On Wednesday morning Brown was taken before the police magistrate and being charged with selling liquor from a boat near Morrison's mill, between the 20th and 29th of June last, and also with a like offence on the 15th inst., was fined $100 and costs, or five months' jail. He went to jail pending the arrival of the money from the savings bank in St. John, and on Thursday upon its arrival paid the fine and was liberated. The liquor, about two gallons, which was seized, was destroyed. Mr. Jas. A Vanwart appeared for the prosecution.

The Cromar Trial.

Speaking of the Cromar trial to a Globe reporter, the solicitor general who conducted the case for the crown, said the case made out against Cromar, the bank agent, was that from some time last fall he had at different times taken money from the cash and used it without making charges, and that he had made false entries with regard to two large notes, one of $4,000, which made his cash square and thus tended to ward off suspicion. When the inspector arrived to go over the accounts Mr. Cromar remained about for two days, and then, on the morning of the third, he sent a note saying he was going away for the day, but would be back next morning. That was the last seen of him and instead of returning he went out to Michigan. The defence set up, Mr. Pugsley said, was that the errors in the books were only errors in book-keeping and were not intended to deceive. The jury, however, took a different view, and the young man was found guilty and sentenced to three years in Dorchester. Mr. Pugsley said the scene in the court room when judge Stevens announced his decision was a very affecting one. The court room was crowded with persons, young and old, men and women, Cromar having been a general favorite, and there was hardly a dry eye in the building. Cromar lived extravagantly on a small salary. He bought expensive furniture and kept valuable dogs, for which he paid large sums of money, one of the animals having cost $90. The total defalcation was nearly $6,000.

Electric Display.

On Wednesday evening about six o'clock lightning struck the telephone wires above the tree, which stands on the corner of Brunswick and Regent streets, near S. A. Purdie's residence, and glancing to each side killed the foliage in one or two places. Then the current seemed to find its way to the lower wires and was carried away on them. At least this is how it appeared to Daniel Cagney, who saw the occurrence. Later in the evening a most extraordinary display of lightning was visible in the southwest. For more than an hour flash followed flash so closely that it seemed like a continuous blaze of light.

Exercise for the Laddies.

A slight fire on the roof of the New Brunswick Foundry called out the department on Thursday afternoon. No serious damage was done.

Nearly noon on Friday the rear portion of Thomas C. Atherton's residence, on the corner of Queen and Westmorland streets caught fire on the inside. The department was promptly on the scene but the fire was extinguished before water was turned on.

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

A Successful Celebration in St. John—The Orangemen in Line of March—Some Stirring Speeches.

The celebration of the 200th anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, held in St. John on the twelfth, was one of the grandest and most successful displays ever given by the Orangemen of North America. It was acknowledged by all who saw it to eclipse anything of the kind ever held in New Brunswick, and reflected credit upon every orangeman throughout the land.

Everything was favorable to a successful celebration. The weather was fine and cool and the streets of the great city by the sea in the best possible condition for marching. The police authorities had made every arrangement to keep order and preserve the peace, but indeed their services were not required. The time has gone by when the march of the orangemen on their gala day is looked upon as a menace to the freedom of any class or creed, or in the light of a hostile display, calculated to stir up feelings of prejudice or disquiet. The orangemen are allowed their day and their celebration the same as the Masons, the Hibernians, the Oddfellows, the Knights of Pythias and the Foresters, or any other secret society. And so the police were not needed, and their presence only added to the long line of uniformed marchers.

It was 11.45 when the advance was made, quickstep time. From the advance accounts published in the press, the spectators had been led to expect a grand display, but the beauty of the banners and the brilliancy of the regalia and uniforms, especially those of the black knights surpassed all expectations. The members wore the regalia of their several lodges, and some of the scarlet and orange sashes looked very pretty. A great many of the members who did not wear a high silk hat wore a soft felt one, which in shape and style was a fac simile of the head-gear worn by the grand army of the republic in the United States, the only difference being the decoration.

There were about 2,000 men in line, but that by no means represented the number of Orangemen present, as many of the older ones did not feel equal to the task of making a long march, while others had not secured the necessary regalia, the demand for which far exceeded the supply in several districts. The line of procession was a very long one, finally bringing up in the Lansdowne rink, where several patriotic and interesting addresses were delivered.

Grand Master Armstrong

was the first speaker. He said that his own share of the speaking would be small. He had been very hard at work for weeks and months past and now his part was about concluded. He must, however, thank the brethern most heartily for their attendance. He would especially thank a number of brethren from Nova Scotia, who left their homes and their own parades to join in this magnificent celebration; and a number also from the neighboring republic, who had joined in it. During his long connection of nearly 29 years with the order he had never seen a day when he had so much cause to be pleased with the L. O. association as on this day. (Cheers). He must be an Orangeman hard to convince, he must be a citizen hard to convince and made of peculiar stuff who would not be convinced by this demonstration that the Orange association is a live body of men. (Cheers). They had come together as no other body of men could be got together. If any one held the idea that theirs was an association on paper only, he must now be convinced of his error. (Cheers). The speaker was pleased to see them and proud of their appearance. There must have been long and diligent work in the lodges preparing for this great day. It was fitting that on this day they should talk for a little of the noble leader whose memory they honored, and talk of what they had done and are doing and expect to do. The battle of the Boyne, merely considered as a battle, was not perhaps very much, but so far as regarded what it gave to the world, no battle since the world began ever equalled it. There met two great armies, led by two kings in person, and actuated by that zeal which religious strife alone could awaken. There was desperate determination on both sides. It was a conflict of freedom as against bondage, light against darkness, liberty of thought and speech and conscience, which the world has enjoyed ever since, against oppression and the surpression of these liberties. It was no wonder, then, that under God the victory was won that confirmed to Roman Catholics as well as Protestants liberties they would not otherwise have received. This was a glorious day in the history of the L. O. A. in New Brunswick and in the world. In every part of the civilized world where British subjects are found and in the United States as well, this day was being celebrated. The 12th of July, 1890, had long been looked forward to by Orangemen throughout the world and he trusted that everywhere the celebration had been as successful as here. Never before had so many noble, true hearted men assembled in St. John.

Past Grand Master Wm. Wilson

of Fredericton said it was a pleasure to be there and a double pleasure to reiterate the remarks of the grand master about this splendid and orderly procession. The old idea that their object was to perpetuate the antagonism and strife of former ages was passing away. No man could regard this procession as a menace to his political or religious freedom. They met to perpetuate the memory of the birth of principles that underlie the constitution of the country and that have imparted to it adaptability to the wants of the people. Everybody enjoys them and none therefore can look upon the celebration as a menace to freedom. It is pleasant to see people meet in obedience to law and order for a specific purpose. There had been great displays on this day, but none grander than that in St. John. He hoped nothing would mar its pleasure. The principles of liberty as they developed have been taken up and handed down till now they are ours, and for them we are indebted to grand men and women of all ages and classes. We have to thank Bishop Langdon and Pembroke, and later the writers of the Elizabethan era and hundreds of all classes and creeds before the revolution of 1690. And why should not William of Orange be recognized and honored? He did more than any man of his time to perpetuate these principles. His life was devoted to it. We commemorate the battle he fought as a landmark in the progress of his great work. We have these principles developed so that there is freedom for all classes and creeds. For this we are indebted to William of Orange. These principles need, perhaps, a greater degree of adaptability. It is the duty of every Orangeman to strive to give the constitution of the country the greatest degree of adaptability. So will they bear an important part in having achieved another triumph for the right. In conclusion he paid a pleasing tribute to old Ireland the land of his ancestors. He hoped the time would speedily come when she would be given that measure of justice so long denied her. In this respect he might, perhaps, differ from some of those present, but the principles of the Orange institution allowed liberty of thought and speech to all, and if they lose sight of this great fact, they would loss sight entirely of the great principles which the Orange institution was meant to perpetuate. (Cheers and applause).

BAND CONCERT. — The band of the Royal school of infantry played a beautiful programme of music on parliament square last evening. The night was beautifully fine, and the citizens young and old turned out in masse to enjoy the music.

IMPROVING.—The officers square is looking much better since it was sheared, it will not be a complete job however until the piles of hay are removed.

A Prominent Horseman Speaks.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir: Thinking it would be of interest to the sporting public to know the cause of so much talk about the two (2) year-old colt stake race to be trotted here this fall, I will give you the particulars as near as I can. First, the second payment of the entries closed July first, consequently any one not having paid his entry or entries arriving, bearing P. O. mark, July first, would, as a matter of course, not be eligible to start in the race. Now, John McCoy knows that our track was an association track, and that he would not be allowed to drive his colt on any association track, if he did not pay up on July first. Then the secretary of the track on July seventh sends out notices to each one that had paid up and no doubt all felt pleased that McCoy was out of it; as I understand McCoy has a few bets made that he will distance the field. However, he is, at present, out of it, but I am told on good authority, that an effort will be made to open it up again in order to give McCoy a chance to distance the party; but mark this, F. P. Thompson called on S. H. McKee, jr., a few days ago, and he asked Mr. McKee why it was that McCoy did not pay his entry up. Mr. McKee in reply said "it was a good thing for the party as he would shut them all out." Mr. Thompson said he "did not think he could shut Sir Wilkie out." S. H. McKee in reply offered to bet $100 that he could distance Sir Wilkie. Mr. Thompson told Mr. LaForest, the trainer of Sir Wilkie, and Mr. LaForest very quietly told Mr. McKee that he would do even better than that—that he would trot Mr. McCoy's Axtora for $100 a side, best 3 in 5, any day McCoy was ready before the first of August. Now whatever happened after he left J. G. Gunn's tailoring establishment on Thursday night, S. H. McKee will not likely tell, but Mr. LaForest read a telegram Friday morning from Mr. Clinch that McCoy would trot Sir Wilkie, but under what conditions? That the Fredericton Park Association allow McCoy to drive! Now McCoy knows that he has to pay back the $225 he won at St. John and $50 for changing the name of his horse, and get himself reinstated before he can drive a horse on any association track. Any one can see that it is only a back-down on McCoy's part. I don't think it will be opened, but it is evident that they have made a mistake when they tackled Sir Wilkie.

It has the resemblance to the St. John race offered McCoy by George Carvell, when he offered to match his stallion Speculation against any one McCoy owned, Mack F. preferred. So far there has been no race made. Mr. Carvell was even willing to go to Woodstock which is not in the association, where McCoy could drive, but as yet no match has been made. He knows Speculation is a trotter.

Parafine Emulsion.

I wish to make public the following recipe for making parafine emulsion to be used on fruit trees. It is the same as was published by the U. S. department of agriculture for the use in the orange groves in Florida, and it has been tested by persons in New Brunswick and the state of Maine and found most servicable. Applied for two years in succession it will remove bark lice, and one correspondent tells me that in his orchard, on which he had used it for three years in succession, there are no caterpillars, while his neighbor's trees are over-run with them. The same correspondent says that it will pay, in the reduction of per centage of wormy fruit, to apply it to an orchard every year. It might be found good for currant and gooseberry bushes. It may be applied with advantage when the trees are in full bloom, being sprayed on quite liberally:

"To five quarts of water add one pound of common soap, shaved fine, so as to dissolve readily. Add the solution to five gallons of parafine oil. Then agitate quickly with an iron rake for a few minutes and a perfect emulsion will be produced. For use take one part of the emulsion and ten parts of water. Apply it with any sort of spraying pump or syringe.

My correspondent says that to make the emulsion requires no skill and that anybody can do it in five minutes."

Secretary for agriculture.

Fire at Lower Gagetown.

Just as we are going to press this Saturday afternoon, we received word by telephone, that J. DeVeber Neales, attorney at law, of Lower Gagetown, lost his dwelling and outbuildings by fire this morning. The fire originated from a defective flue in the kitchen, and notwithstanding every effort was made to battle with the flames, the fiend proved too much for their noble efforts. Total loss, $2,000; insured for $900.

CAW'S DASHAWAY FOUNTAIN PEN

A Double-Feed Fountain Pen that Never Fails.

Caw's "Dashaway" Pen.

In this age of strife and hurry, when each individual is trying to outstrip his neighbor in the race for wealth, it is important that all who wish to win should be possessed of the most modern appliances to accomplish their purpose. These remarks apply particularly to those engaged in the profession, and in mercantile pursuits whose attention has been attracted to the merits of Caw's DASHAWAY FOUNTAIN PEN.

Any good writing or copying ink may be used, and one filling will write from forty to fifty pages of foolscap. It can be carried in the pocket ready for use in any emergency, and even if not used for months, as soon as touched to paper the ink begins to flow by capillary attraction and the action of the pen in writing.

Records, accounts, and letters written with this pen have a uniform color of ink on every page and line, because the ink is fresh and is laid on more evenly than with a dip pen.

It is the simplest, cleanest, readiest and most easily managed of all the fountain pens.

When the cap is removed it is ready to write, and when the writing is done the cap can be replaced and the pen is ready for the pocket.

The hard rubber is incorrodible, and with a gold pen there is nothing that can be affected by the ink, and unless unnecessarily injured it will LAST A LIFETIME.

A Letter from Benjamin Harrison,
President of the United States.

Yours of the 15th inst. received, also the second "Dashaway" Fountain Pen, which just suits me. The first one I gave to Mrs. Harrison for her use. Thanking you for your attention, I am,

Very truly yours,
BENJ. HARRISON.

Opinions of the Press.

Evening Post.—"Caw's 'Dashaway' surpasses all the rest."

The Herald.—"Certainly nothing can be had for the money that will afford so much profit and satisfaction."

The Tribune.—"The 'Dashaway' can be depended on at all times. It is especially valuable to mercantile men, stenographers and newspaper men, who are of necessity always more or less in a hurry."

The Times.—"The Dashaway' is not a stylograph, but a regular 14-carat gold pen attached to a fountain holder. It can be unused, carried in the pocket for months, and when needed is always ready."

The Mail and Express.—"It can be fitted to any hand, and does for the writer just what the continually threaded needle does for the sewing machine, and what the untiring locomotive does for the traveller."

The World.—"It is an amazingly simple contrivance, and so far as our experience goes, never gets out of order."
