THE HERALD.

FREDERICTON, AUGUST 1, 1891.

A PEEP AT THE NEST.

Just at this time when the spirit of penance and reform is being so earnestly invoked by the conservative party and press, it will not be without interest to examine the credentials of those from whom such reform is to proceed. Let us take a cursory glance at the men by whom the era of righteousness and purity is to be ushered in.

At the head of the cabinet stands the Hon. J. C. Abbott. Mr. Abbott is the man who helped to engineer the famous C. P. R. raids upon the treasury. He is also the man who handled the Allen bribery fund of $300,000 in 1872.

Next in order comes Sir Hector Langevin, minister of public works and leader of the commons. Mr. Langevin received $32,000 of the Allen money and used it to bribe the electors of his native province. Mr. Langevin has now in the bank a sum of about $25,000 including interest, awarded to him as a testimonial, mainly from contractors who had dealings with his department, and who conceived this to be a suitable form in which to express their gratitude. It is also in evidence that Sir Hector received the sum of $10,000 from the contracting firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., in addition to which his promising son obtained $5,000, his chief engineer about $4,000, and other officials of his department various sums from the same source.

Next on the list is the finance minister, Hon. George E. Foster. Mr. Foster is a man who has admitted himself to be addicted to "moments of weakness," during one of which he was so weak as to speak in parliament in favor of prohibition, of which he had been, for many years, at $10 a night, a strenuous advocate on the lecture platform. He is also the gentleman whose general conduct as a representative rendered him so obnoxious to the people of Kings county, the strongest conservative constituency in New Brunswick, that it required $15,000 last winter to secure his election. Socially, Mr. Foster enjoys the rare privilege of being able to participate in many festive occasions from which Mrs. Foster is debarred.

Hon. Frank Smith and Hon. John Carling, the latter of whom is minister of agriculture, are the proprietors of several very prosperous distilleries and breweries, engaged in creating what Mr. Foster (in a moment of weakness) was wont to term "liquid fire and distilled damnation." It will hardly be doubted that any movement tending to the moral rejuvenation of the nation will be warmly supported by Mr. Smith and Mr. Carling.

Hon. John Costigan is the minister of inland revenue. Mr. Costigan has not paid any rent for some years. He occupies a costly residence, erected and furnished for him by contractors and government favorites, who were struck with the importance of recognizing Mr. Costigan's services to the nation in this tangible and substantial fashion.

At the head of the interior department is the hon. Edgar Dowling, of fragmentary memory. Mr. Dowling was first appointed Indian commissioner and then governor of the North-west territories. The period of his incumbency comprised an era of scandal and fraud, in which the Indians were plundered and supplied with rotten meat and the half-breeds driven to a rebellion which cost the Dominion millions of dollars to suppress. In the interior department, to which he was translated as a reward for his eminent public services, occurred many of the disgraceful scandals which are now being investigated.

Hon. John Haggart, the postmaster general, is now the subject of what the Toronto Telegram calls "an able-bodied scandal." Certain ladies in the employ of the department appear to have thought it advisable to indulge in a change of climate from time to time, during which, however, their pay went on with undiminished regularity. Readers of one of Byron's most famous works will have no difficulty in discovering Mr. Haggart's prototype.

Sir Adolphe Caron, the minister of militia, despite the warlike spirit that surges within him, has many softer moments, which, however, we do not deem it advisable to refer to particularly. It will be remembered that General Middleton, when charged with looting fires in the North-west excused his conduct by producing a letter from Sir Adolphe asking that some of the "souvenirs" should be preserved for him.

Hon. J. A. Chagnon held office in the treasury of Quebec during the period of the infamous "Tanneries" and "Land Swap" scandals. The eminent part he played in these transactions was felt to entitle him to be made secretary of state in 1882, a position he held until 1887. Early piety is generally believed to have been one of Mr. Chagnon's chief misfortunes.

The above, with ex-grand master Dowling, Sir John Thompson and a son of Sir Charles Tupper, make up the thirteen members of the cabinet. Mr. Tupper occupies a seat because he is fortunate enough to be the son of his father and to be recognized as such. Sir John Thompson, though personally the ablest and most honorable member of the cabinet, fills the position of minister of justice because the other engagements of the bishop of Antigonish prevent him from filling it himself. Mr. Powell is chiefly remarkable for his eminent insignificance.

Surely with such men as these at the helm, it will not be doubted that an era of national reform and universal rejuvenation is at hand.

DEATH OF SENATOR ODELL.
The news of the death of Senator Odell was received with surprise in Fredericton. His illness was of very brief duration and he died peacefully on Sunday afternoon last at Halifax. Mr. Odell was one of the senators appointed to represent New Brunswick at Confederation. It cannot be said that he at any time showed any special aptitude for politics, or that he was a man of progressive views upon matters affecting the popular welfare. He was a gentleman of the old school, and what can be truly said of him is that he leaves behind him a clean and honorable record in all the relations of life.

At the time of his death the Senator was nearly eighty years of age. Another vacancy is thus created in the New Brunswick representation in the senate of Canada, for which it is said there are several applicants. There can be no doubt that the late senator's usefulness in the position he held was much impaired by the fact that he was a non-resident of the province he purported to represent.

STANLEY NOTES.

The Grapes—The Foresters in a Prospering Condition—A Suggestion for Arbor Day—The Man of Many Professions on the Wing.

The farmers have got fairly under way haying, and the click of the mower is now heard on every side. Though the hay crop will not be up to the average it will be much better than the season, which was very unfavorable at the beginning, led us to look for. Grain and other crops have grown very rapidly since the long delayed rains set in.

The Roman Catholic church has had a new roof put on it and is being newly painted, which will add much to the appearance of the village.

The royal temples have had a new roof put on the terrace hall, but that they will add some other much needed repairs to that building. The upper part is occupied by the temple and the lower by the foresters, who have fitted up their room in a manner which speaks much for the taste and enterprise of that body.

Court Stanley banner lately enjoyed the pleasure of an official visit from H. C. R. Creed and H. J. S. Creed of Fredericton, and prov. dep. Sheriff of Norton station. Leslie White is C. R.; J. E. Lawson, R. S.; B. McKenna, M. P.; S. Douglas, treasurer. The court now numbers about thirty members.

Those who are inclined to doubt that arbor day, if properly observed, can do much to add to the beauty of our school grounds (and private parties could profitably observe the day also) would do well to note the beautiful trees in front of Dr. Moore's residence. These trees have only been planted some two or three years yet they already afford a pleasant shade, as well as adding very materially to the beauty of the place.

I believe Stanley had a visit from Mr. Gregory a few days since. Politics? Does he "foresee an election?"

"That Crop of Magistrates."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

Sir,—The Gleaner, which is nothing if not waspish, came out on Friday of last week with a would-be crushing editorial headed "The Crop of Magistrates." In general the editorials dealing with local or provincial affairs afford fair amusement to fair minded readers, in watching in that eccentricity of insinuation or windy declamation the redoubtable editor will indulge; and Friday's article is a masterpiece of the kind in its best style, and above the average in being provocative of laughter.

It is somewhat brief for the Gleaner, but contains some of the most telling and pointed remarks that have appeared in the paper since its publication. It is somewhat brief for the Gleaner, but contains some of the most telling and pointed remarks that have appeared in the paper since its publication.

Of the remaining four sentences, two contain facts, or rather the one fact is cut in two and made to fill up double space—the editor being so much in the habit of cutting up that he cannot even let facts escape. (His readers ought to be thankful for getting the chance of reading two versions of the same fact, as the allowance of such is somewhat scanty in their daily bill of fare.)

The other two are simple summaries of the writer's statements—quite a common practice of the infallible J. H.

Given this groundwork of two sentences of fact, which might have been condensed into one, we have a grand and elaborate by the usual tissue of glaring misrepresentation, insinuations and insult. Is his intellect so occupied with the higher flights of fancy that it cannot see two or three plain facts in his way? Are not the magistrates of to-day appointed in accordance with the statutes of the province, enacted before the attorney general had sought to win a body of clients or even before the Gleaner's editor arose to diffuse the brightness of puerile criticism on his course? Do not J. J.'s, and even commissioners, sometimes die, even though adorned with doubtful honors by the unworthy hands of the attorney general? Can he not see that in attempting to spit his venom against Mr. Blair, he is deliberately, and for no purpose, insulting a body of men, not one of whom could possibly be guilty of anything so mean and dirty as the imputation of "Jeana," in charging them, without a possible particle of proof, of being political hangers-on? Does not the name of J. P. being unable to sign his name bring more disgrace upon him than the daily manufacture of improved and unprovable charges, the conductor's meddling in the perpetual tergiversations and preparations which fill up so much of the Gleaner, do upon the editor and proprietor thereof?

It is worth some thought upon this rampant of the press which battles upon the neck of corruption which is the product of his own too fertile fancy; or it may be we wrong him; maybe there is behind the scene another whose congenial occupation is to conjure up all manner of unclean chimeras to be forth with issued to the public as the doings of his "enemy," the attorney general.

Thanking you for the space in your paper, I subscribe myself,

Social Amusements.
Rather a small crowd attended the excursion by the steamer Florencia to Gagetown on Wednesday morning.

A large crowd from the city and Maryville attended the Fredericton brass band festival at the grove on Tuesday evening. The Maryville and Fredericton brass bands attracted considerable attention, and were much favored company. The refreshment table did a good business, while the "McGinty" family met with its usual reception.

The picnic under the auspices of Fredericton lodge, No. 6, K. of P., at Burton, on Thursday, promises to be the picnic of the season. The prizes for the sports are very handsome, and will probably make the event very interesting.

About seventy persons from this city attended the picnic under the auspices of the 71st band at Zionville on Thursday. This number, however, was increased to a considerable number at Gibson, Maryville, and a large number from Zionville attended. The usual sports were indulged in.

Gibson and St. Mary's.
Charles Boan, of St. Mary's, is recovering from his recent attack of grippe.

In the church hall at Gibson a large number of young people assembled on Monday evening to hear Mrs. Russell deliver another interesting discourse on music.

J. G. Keith, who ran a small steam furniture factory at St. Mary's, has left very suddenly for parts unknown and a number of unpaid bills remain behind. His property is heavily covered with mortgages and bills of sale supplemented by an execution.

AN OHIO MAN WITH TWO WIVES ONLY 15 MILES AWAY.
During a trial at Findlay, O., Tuesday to test the validity of a mortgage it was brought out in evidence that Peter S. Williams, an extensive dealer in lumber, widely known throughout Northwestern Ohio has been leading a dual life. Testimony showed that he had a wife and two children in Fostoria and a wife here.

Williams was in court when the case was taken up, in the morning, but the officers could not find him in the afternoon. It is supposed that he has fled.

Both wives are young and comely. Though living only 15 miles apart they were ignorant of Williams double life, as his business kept him on the road most of the time.

It is said that a line to connect Detroit and Chicago, in connection with the C. P. R. system, will be built at once, to be called the Bee line.

BIG PRICE WANTED.

Edward Malley is sued for breach of promise—The Firmness of Jennie Cramer—Tragedy Again Retold.

New York, July 27th.—It seems as if public interest in the famous Jennie Cramer murder case would never die out. In one way or another the case is always coming up to bring those concerned into fresh notoriety. Only a few days ago Mrs. Cramer, the mother of the beautiful and unfortunate victim of the mysterious crime, hanged herself, and now despatches from New Haven announce that Edward Malley, the father of Walter and the uncle of James Malley, is being sued for breach of promise.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Marie Reinhardt, a handsome and comparatively young governess, who is said to be living in this city at present, although her whereabouts is kept a secret by her counsel, who considered such a course advisable until the case comes up for trial.

Mrs. Reinhardt is probably the best known man in New Haven. For over a score of years he has been the proprietor of the largest dry goods store in the place and his wealth is estimated at nearly a million dollars. Mr. Malley is getting along in years, but he still possesses many of the attributes of a sportsman. He is an inveterate hunter and fisherman and devotes much of his time to sport of these kinds. Mr. Malley has lived quietly for many years in the large mansion in which Jennie Cramer is supposed to have been poisoned.

Mrs. Reinhardt is said to be an accomplished English woman who married a German named Reinhardt abroad. They came to New York ten years ago, but quarrelled, and Mrs. Reinhardt secured a divorce and made a living by teaching.

Mr. Malley, whose wife had died years ago, married a second wife in 1885. His bride was a handsome young lady of this city named Miss Byrne. She also died in 1887, leaving two small children for her husband to bring up. It is said that soon after her wife's death, Mrs. Malley advertised for a governess to care for the children and Mrs. Reinhardt took the position. She was a resident of the Malley household for nearly a year, when she suddenly packed up and came back to New York.

Five weeks ago Mrs. Reinhardt is alleged to have returned to New Haven and sought out lawyer Charles Hamilton, whom she instructed to bring a suit against Edward Malley for breach of promise of marriage, placing the damages at many thousands of dollars. In her complaint the plaintiff is said to relate a tale of woe well calculated to win the sympathy of a Connecticut jury. Mrs. Reinhardt alleges that Malley, by the liberal application of promises and changes, caused her to forget her usual duties. She asserts that she came to this city and gave birth to a child. An interesting exhibit, which promises to play a prominent part in the trial, is said to be a voluminous bundle of letters written to Mrs. Reinhardt by her aged admirer. Some of these letters are said to contain inclosures ranging from $10 to $50, as well as promises to marry the complainant at some future date. Some of the missives are said to be signed, "Ed," while others bear no signature.

Mrs. Reinhardt says that her child died, but that Mr. Malley acknowledged his paternity before his decease. She alleges that Mr. Malley paid frequent visits to her at New York and called upon her at her boarding house, and that she introduced the New Haven millionaire to her friends as Mrs. Reinhardt. Mr. Malley has engaged Alley & Webb to defend the suit, but New Haven people profess to believe that it will be discontinued.

If Mrs. Reinhardt persists in pressing the case it will come up for a hearing in the superior court during the September term. Mr. Malley does not appear to be worried over the fresh notoriety he is getting. He tells his friends that there is no truth in Mrs. Reinhardt's story.

Mrs. Reinhardt's lawyer is at present on a vacation in Nova Scotia.

ELECTROPLATED THE CAT.

Queer Freak of Lightning in the Green Mountains State.

A freak of lightning, probably more remarkable than any hitherto recorded, has occurred here, during the storm of the 26th of Salem, Vt., at the foot of the Heidelberg mountains. Arent S. Vandyck occupies an old mansion, in the parlor of which hangs a collection of revolutionary swords, one of which was heavily plated after a fire which destroyed the house.

The sword, which was apparently the silver image of a cat curled up in an exceedingly comfortable position. As far as the shape and posture of the animal was concerned it might have been a live cat. Each glittering hair was separate and distinct, and each silver bristle of the whiskers was as sharp and pointed as the whiskers of a real cat. The cat was lying on its side, and its tail was curled up over its head, and its paws were tucked up to its chest.

It was found a round hole about the size of a half-dollar, where the lightning had evidently entered. There was a charred streak across the seat, where the electrical fluid had made its way to the sword, down which it passed to the cat, carrying with it the silver, which it deposited upon the animal. Of course the cat was instantly killed, and therefore remained in the position in which it was quietly sleeping when the lightning struck. It is thought the plating of the cat's body will prevent decay and that probably it may be retained among the collection of curiosities, which is more remarkable than all. Local scientists are puzzled by the occurrence, and one of the members of the Albany Institute is investigating the case.

AN AWFUL CHARGE.

A Farmer Said to Have Committed Suicide While His Invalid Wife was Alone in the House.

Benjamin Barnes and Frances Jane Garraway, of West Williams, London, Ont., were brought to the county jail Saturday night by detective Allen on a very serious charge—that of arson—Barnes a farmer, aged about 55 years in life, Garraway an English girl, who left the old country about three years ago, and who is scarcely out of her teens. The commitment charges Barnes with arson and the girl with being an accessory before the fact, and both with conspiring to commit the deed. Barnes has lived in West Williams for about eight years, coming from Beach township, near Whitby. The girl Garraway was employed by him as a servant, Barnes wife being a helpless invalid. It is alleged that Barnes was found by neighbors while the fire was in progress very busy getting some papers out of an old chest, while his invalid wife lay in another room unable to move, though the flames were spreading rapidly.

Until Mrs. Thomas Dignam arrived, no one knew anything of Mrs. Barnes, and to Mrs. Dignam's heroic action in rushing in and rescuing the unfortunate woman, the latter is said to have owed her life.

AROUND THE WORLD.

The Week's Events in Brief—The Cream of our Exchanges.

Diphtheria prevails to a serious extent at St. Johns, N.B.

In the vicinity of 1,500 names have been struck off the voters' list for Cumberland county in the preliminary revision.

A despatch from Vichy states that Dom Pedro, ex-emperor of Brazil, has suffered a relapse and that he is again confined to his bed.

The strike of St. John millmen has been settled. The men go to work on the nine hour system. The rate of wages has not been decided.

Another mutiny is reported in the British army. The privates of the second battalion of Coldstream guards are the disaffected parties this time.

A Washington despatch says secretary Noble of the interior department has resigned on account of poor health, and the president has accepted his resignation with regret.

The heavy rains of last week have brought out all the logs hung up in the Miramichi tributaries earlier in the season, and there is no doubt now that all will reach the booms.

The British court of appeals has reversed the verdict of the lower court giving $1,500 damages to Miss Wiedman in her suit against Capt. the Hon. Horace Walpole for breach of promise.

David Allison, L. L. D., has accepted the presidency of Mount Allison university, Sackville, and has tendered the local government his resignation as superintendent of education of Nova Scotia. The resignation is to take effect on the 31st of October.

A steam launch belonging to the U. S. steamship Pensacola was blown up in the harbor of Arica by the Chilean torpedo cruiser Contell and six men on board were killed. The Contell, which was one of Balboa's cruisers, mistook the launch for an insurgent boat.

Fifteen inches of rain had fallen in Bombay, within 24 hours. The downs of Mahooda and Bhownagur, in the province of Cujerat, are flooded with water, and the crops are being washed away. Three hundred people are a countless number of live stock have been drowned.

A few weeks ago a brigand chief, Domingo Nochia, was released from the Naples prison, after having been shut up for sixty years. He is now 83. After an unusually brilliant career of brigandage, and $5,000 francs had been set upon his head, he was condemned to prison for life in 1821.

During the half year ending June 30 there arrived at Montreal 4,254 immigrants, a decrease of 378 from the same period of last year. Of this number, 1,028 were from the United States. Besides these, 9,980 passed through the city by rail, and 4,517 of them went to the United States.

The most destructive rain and hailstorm of the season visited Elm Creek, N.B., Wednesday evening. Hailstones 1 1/2 inches in diameter fell, leveling small grain to the ground. Garden vegetables are completely ruined, while corn is riddled and cannot be recovered. Scarcely one-half of the small grain has been harvested.

At the triennial council of the orange association held in Toronto last week, the gentleman elected to the presidency of the Dominion government has received information that, owing to the bright crop outlook in Manitoba and the northwest, the Canadian Pacific railway has ordered fifty new locomotives and 1,500 box cars to transfer this season's harvest to the seaboard, and to the west coast. The estimated yield will require 10 trains daily for seven months to move the crop.

The Richibucto Review tells the following tale: A Choekish road master, who, it appears, had no watch, being unable to borrow one, concluded to carry a clock so as to keep the correct time, and he was seen marching to and fro with a large eight day clock under his arm and a very severe expression on his intellectual looking phiz, while watching the men at work.

The surgeon's knife disclosed the fact that the death of three-year-old Raymond Finerman, of 908 North street, on Wednesday, N. J., who died a few minutes after his mother spanked him, was due to a shoe button. The child, the physician thinks, must have had the button in his mouth when his mother spanked him and the shock knocked it down his throat, causing strangulation.

Wednesday morning a small boiler exploded in the repair shop of the Hill City oil mill, Vicksburg, Miss., weighing 2,000 pounds, flew into the air and fell into the house of Mrs. Lowenberg, 300 feet away, going through the roof, floor and ceiling, and landed on her breakfast table. No one there was hurt, the family having left the table when they heard the report caused by the explosion.

Messrs. William O'Brien and John Dillon, the two Irish members of parliament who have been undergoing sentences of six months' imprisonment for inciting the tenants of the Smith-Barry estate at Tipperary to resist the payment of rents, were released from Galway jail, Dublin, at 9:25 Thursday morning. Dillon and O'Brien showed but slight traces of having suffered from the rigor of confinement in jail, and in fact seemed to be enjoying perfect health.

A fatal poisoning occurred this week at the state farm, just over the line in Bridgewater, Mass., which the officers of the institution have kept very quiet. It seems the wood alcohol is used in the paint shop of the chair manufacturing department, and several of the workmen have been drinking it on the sly. As a result it is stated that one man died in terrible agony Tuesday, another on Wednesday, and that a third now lies at the hospital in a critical condition.

The Shore line ran over an old man about twenty miles from St. Stephen Thursday afternoon, and he died from the effects of the injuries received. The old man, who was about 65 years of age, was walking along the track and the engine driver saw him too late to bring the locomotive to a standstill, although he made every effort to do so. The train was stopped and the man, with both arms and legs broken, put on board and brought to St. George, where he breathed his last just after the train arrived there.

It is a fact not generally known that president W. O. Van Horne, of the Canadian Pacific, recently renounced his allegiance to the United States of America and promised to become a loyal subject of Victoria, queen of Britain and empress of India. Mr. Van Horne was moved to this because an alien cannot hold the position of president of the Canadian Pacific road and steamship lines, which, by special proclamation, were declared some time ago to be an imperial highway of the kingdom of Britain and the empire of India.
