It afterwards turned out that it was Whelpley's little child.

He will be retained at the station until he is sober and has made up his mind not to take his own life, when he will probably go to look for employment, or return home. — Bangor News.

HEAVY TYPE WRITING. — Some idea of the heavy work that falls now and then upon the court stenographers, may be had by looking at the record in the Gallagher case tried a few days ago in St. John. At the conclusion of the court, there, it was determined by the defendant to appeal, and have the case argued at this term of the supreme court. There was, consequently, no time to be lost by the stenographer in transcribing his notes. In four days, stenographer Risteen transcribed the whole case, making 1,050 folios, which would be about equal to ninety columns of THE HERALD.

Equity Court.

His honor, chief justice Allen, opened the equity court on Wednesday. Owing to the absence of stenographer Fry, he adjourned the court till Thursday, when the case of John J. Boone vs. Charles Boone, both of Keswick, was taken up. The plaintiff four years ago gave a deed of his land to the defendant on the condition that the latter would clothe and maintain him for the remainder of his life. This, he alleges, the defendant failed to do, and he now seeks to recover possession of the property under the bond which accompanied the deed. James A. Vanwart appeared for the plaintiff, F. St. John Bliss was the attorney for the defendant, but the latter, who now lives in King's county, not having put in an appearance, he did not choose to take part in the proceedings. The evidence of the plaintiff having been taken, the case was adjourned till Monday next, to give the defendant an opportunity, if he desired, to present testimony.

Police Pencillings.

The case of George E. Howard for fifth violation of the Scott act, was resumed at the police court Tuesday morning. John Schleyer, testified, that he knew the defendant, and knew where his place of business was. He had been in there between the first day of February and the 10th day of April. Howard, the defendant, was not then in the barroom but was in the billiard hall in front. He obtained dark braudy that day from James Crangle. Three of them went in together, and William Haney called for the drinks and paid Crangle for them. This was about the 20th of February that he was there.

On cross-examination, witness said that he would not swear that it was Howard's place of business, but knew that he had a sign there. He would swear that he had an interest in the business that day because he saw him taking pay from the billiard tables. He would not swear that there was a sign there, because he was not looking for signs that day. He would not swear that the person running the billiard hall had any connection with the person running the barroom.

James Crangle, the next witness called, testified, that he knew the defendant and knew that he kept a billiard hall at the corner of Queen and Carleton streets. The building, he knew, was owned by Howard and Crangle, and the Farmer office was a tenant of theirs. About the first of May, he had paid some money to the city treasurer for a billiard license for the defendant. The defendant had held a license for that place previous to the first of May and it had expired. He, (Crangle) and Micheal O'Leary worked at the billiard hall, to which there were four rooms without counting Macnutt's office. He was working there between the dates mentioned information, and O'Leary was there also. Howard occupied four rooms between those dates. He (Crangle) was not in the employ of Howard.

On being asked if he was a partner of Howard's the witness declined to answer for fear of criminating himself. The witness resuming, said that he was not employed by defendant between the dates mentioned in the information, but declined to say whether he was a partner then or not. The witness after describing the two first rooms on entering the billiard hall, said that the third room was fitted up for selling beer and cigars, and had a counter and ice-chest, the latter being stationary. There was no beer-pump in the counter.

Micheal O'Leary, the next witness, was called but failed to respond.

The case was brought up again on Thursday, but owing to the absence of Mr. Vanwart, the counsel for the defense, was fnrther adjourned until Monday morning.

On Wednesday mornlng, Annie McCarney was arraigned charge with vagrancy. She was given an hour to leave town. When asked if she had anything to say she told the following interesting story. She said that while up the Tobique river, she fell in with the celebrated "Gundy" Williams, and with him went to Andover, where they took a catamaran for down river, making the passage to the booms above town, in three days. There they upset and were rescued by some of the workmen at the booms. Learning that "Gundy" was married she left him, coming to town where she had been for the past two weeks. This account was given amid tears and screams which failed to create much sympathy among the bystanders.

THE WEDDING AT MARYSVILLE.

One of the Grandest ever seen in the Province.

At Marysville, on Wednesday, one of the grandest weddings that have ever taken place in the province, was celebrated at the residence of Alex. Gibson. It was the occasion of the marriage of Miss Mary Gibson, the youngest daughter of Alex. Gibson, to Frank Merritt, formerly of St. John, but now the typewriter operator in the cotton mill. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Chapman, the bride being supported by Miss Alma Gibson, Miss Merritt and Annie, John McConnell's little daughter, and the groom by his brother. The invited guests numbered about fifty among whom were, his honor, judge Skinner, Mrs. and Miss Skinner, of St. John; Mr. Ouilton, postal department, C. P. R., Dr., Ambrose, and Mrs Lawrence, of Boston; William and Mrs. Lipsett, of Calais; Thomas and Mrs. Robinson, of Blackville; John and Mrs. Boyd, of Gibson; Fred and Mrs. Williams, A. G. and Mrs. Robinson, James Gibson and Mrs. J. Gibson, Alex. Gibson, Jr, and Mrs. A. Gibson, John R. McConnell and Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. J. T. Gibson and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson, William Gibson, Arthur Gibson, Charles Hatt and Mrs. Hatt, and the relatives of the groom.

Allan Line.

Owing to the great demand for passages by the favorite steamer Parisian, there has been additional accommodation provided for cabin passengers, with all the modern conveniences, thus enabling her to carry even a greater number than hitherto.

Many persons accustomed to sail out of New York now prefer the staunch and comfortable steamers of the Allan line from Montreal and Quebec via the pleasant St. Lawrence route, and the cabin, intermediate and steerage traffic, both to and from Europe, is largely increased from this source.

In the face of many discouragements, the Allan line has always endeavored to be foremost in everything tending to the advancement of Canada, its people, and its commerce — and this policy will be energetically maintained.

Slightly Mixed.

The dilemma which the Gleaner has been in for some time past as to which side it ought to support in dominion politics, appears to be affecting its mind. It abounds in the most astonishing blunders from day to day. The following obituary, however, in its issue of Wednesday is entitled to the dough-pan:

"His voice will be heard no more on the wilderness side of the river, but he died with a strong hope of joining the Heavenly choir. James Crangle, who was the next witness called, testified: that he resided in Fredericton; knew George Howard the defendant in the case."

Laying of the Corner Stone.

A large number of ladies and gentlemen drove up in the "Ivanhoe" in charge of George Gunter, on Wednesday, to attend the laying of the corner stone, of the Centennial Methodist church at Nashwaak village. After this part of the services had been concluded, a tea meeting was held at the church at which a very pleasant time was spent. The ladies and gentlemen are loud in their praises of the manner in which they were entertained by the people of the village.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL.

Public Closing Exercises Yesterday.

There was a small gathering at the public closing exercises at the Normal school yesterday morning. Among those seated on the platform were chief superintendent Crocket, Dr. Harrison and the several teachers of the school. An elevated platform had been arranged at one end of the room, and was tastefully decorated with flowers and flags. A photograph of the senior class held a prominent position over this platform, which had been specially prepared for the young ladies and gentlemen who were to take part in the recitations, etc. The program, which was very interesting, opened with a chorus by the students, after which Mr. Creed put the senior class through a systematic drill in mathematics. Several readings and recitations were delivered under the management of Miss Clarke; the recitations of Mr. Trueman, Misses Ryan, Fenwick and Kirkpatrick being specially worthy of mention. Miss Clark had also charge of the physical exercises, which formed a very interesting feature of the program. After another chorus by the students, the classes were put through a lesson on botany and natural science by Mr. Brittain. The singing of "My Own Canadian Home" by the students brought the morning's exercises to a close.

In the afternoon the attendance was much larger, the seating capacity of the room being taxed to the utmost. Among those present were bishop Medley, rev. G. G. Roberts, rev. Mr. Alexander, his honor chief justice Allen, prof. Duff, Dr. Harrison and prof Bailey. The program opened with a chorus by eight young ladies, which was exceedingly well rendered. Principal Mullin next talked with the students about the manner of teaching certain subjects, obtaining from several the subjects to which they would devote special attention in teaching. Miss Fleetwood, of the senior class, taught an excellant writing lesson to some young pupils of the Model school, illustrating clearly how a lesson of this character should be taught. The piano duett of Misses Borque and Girourard was excellent and excited enthusiastic applause. Miss Ganong gave an interesting lesson in botany to grade five of the Model school. After a solo by Miss A. Smith, which was very well rendered, and another chorus by the students, Sir John C. Allen presented to Miss M. Tibbits the medal for the senior division, and to Miss Ganong that for the junior division. Mr. Trueman, in a few well-chosen words, presented to principal Mullin, as a representative of the Alumni society of the Normal school, a photograph of the senior class of '91. The valedictory address was then delivered by Miss Beatteay.

Valedictory.

For the last time, as Normal school students, we have been assembling together today, and now there only remains a few moments in which to say the farewell words which have seemed to be lingering in the air all day, and in the heart of every student.

But as the poet expresses it:

"'Tis like some low and mournful spell
To whisper that one word — farewell."

and before it throws its charm around us we would spend a few moments in reviewing the time which we have spent together in study or in recreation.

We are reminded to-day of our first meeting together. The results of the opening examination having been announced, those who had successfully passed it, and the number was larger than that of any previous year, met in the assembly hall. By a few kindly words from the principal we were welcomed to the school and given the few necessary directions for the beginning of our work. We remember vividly the different feelings which we then experienced. Among those who had left home perhaps for the first time there was probably a feeling of homesickness, but it was for the time forgotten as we cast curious glances on those with whom we were to be so intimately connected as fellow-students. Curiosity deepened into interest as we began to receive the first impressions, and form those first opinions which affect so largely our after intercourse and friendships.

A feeling of homesickness or strangeness could not remain with us long, however, as hearty welcomes from every quarter assured us that we had many friends who were interested in our welfare. The people of Fredericton have, indeed, in every possible way, shown that kindness and hospitality which has helped to make our visit such a pleasant one. We remember gratefully the kindness of the pastors and members of the different churches as they met us with words of welcome; and the thoughtfulness which was shown so early in our stay has been steadily continued throughout the whole term, and has been, we are sure, productive of very much good. We would take this opportunity also of extending to the members of the W. C. T. U. our sincere thanks for the way in which they have endeavored to help us. Early in the term, through the kindness of the ladies we were enabled to spend an enjoyable sociable evening together, and for all their entertainments, arrangements were thoughtfully made that we might be able to enjoy them also. I am sure that when in the future we look back upon our visit to Fredericton it will be with only pleasant recollections of your beautiful city and the kindness of its people.

Of course, as students, most of our time has been spent in school and in study, and it would be hard to decide if this has not been the most pleasant part of it all. The pleasure we have found in the work has been largely due to the kindness of our teachers who have spared no pains to make it interesting and helpful. Our professional course has only increased the enthusiasm which every "born teacher" feels in his or her profession. A very complete course of science, with all the aparatus necessary to make it successful is enjoyed by the students, and no other important subject of study has been neglected. Time has ever been found in our busy life for training in physical culture the influence of which has been realized by all. During the winter months classes were formed for military drill and it was only a lack of time which forced us reluctantly to discontinue them. We would attribute in some measure to this training the fact that the school has been singularly free from sickness during the winter.

But as to-day we are eagerly planning for our future work we remember one who met with us at the first of the term but whose life-work has been completed. Near the close of the first term Miss McLean was obliged to give up her studies through illness, and only a few weeks ago we heard with deep regret that in this life we would never meet with her again.

"She is not dead — the friend of our affection,
But gone unto that school
Where she no longer needs our protection
And Christ Himself doth rule."

A pleasant break in the monotony of school work was made by the monthly entertainments. The different committees spent a great deal of time in preparing the programs which were carried out, and we owe to them and to the students who took part in the exercises, our hearty thanks for the pleasure which they gave us.

At the close of our lessons in civics we had the pleasure of seeing a practical illustration of the way in which the government of the country is carried on. Under Mr. Creek's direction a parliament was organized in which the questions of the day were discussed and valuable lessons in parliamentary usage received.

For the first time in the history of the school a paper has been published by the students to advance its interests. Although the beginning was small there has been a steady improvement in it. The editors, who represented the different classes of the school, were assisted by the students, whose contributions did much to make it successful. It is our earnest hope that the work which has only been begun in this direction will be taken up and carried on still more successfully by the classes which will take our place in the future.

A debating society was also formed by the gentlemen, but as we had not the privilege of listening to the debates, I can only make this brief mention of the organization.

There is another society, however, which claims the interest of all the students and more especially of the graduates. Two years ago the graduating class of the Normal school formed what is known as the alumni and alumni society. Its object was to bring together the graduates of the school, and in every possible way to promote the interests of the teaching profession. It was decided to devote the funds to the establishment of a library at the Normal school, and the class this year has enjoyed the benefits arising from this decision. Already, quite a number of valuable books have been obtained, and most of the principal educational papers find their way to the library. These are free to all the students and have proved to be both interesting and instructive. There is still much to be done, however, and it will be our privilege to enroll ourselves as members of the society and help to carry on the work. Realizing its importance let us as a class resolve to give it our hearty support and in this way help to place before the future student-teachers still greater opportunities for obtaining needed information on all educational subjects.

In the different duties of which I have spoken our time has been fully occupied and though we realize that "Labor with what zeal we will

yet the success which has attended even these efforts will be an impetus to still greater activity and plans for usefulness.

And now, on behalf of the students, I would extend to you, our principal, our sincere thanks for the kindness you have always shown us. We have felt that in bringing our troubles and perplexities to you we were not coming merely to an instructor, but to a personal friend of whose sympathy we were always sure, as well as your help, when it was possible to give it. Our numerous requests and petitions have received every consideration at your hands and, when practical, have been most cheerfully granted.

To the other members of the faculty we wish to express our gratitude also for the kindly interest you have shown in our welfare. We feel sure that whatever success we may have as teachers will be largely due to the examples of patience and sympathy you have always set before us. I cannot express a better wish for the classes which will take our place than that they may have for many years the advantages of your instruction and personal care which it has been our privilege to enjoy.

Mingled with the regret which we as students have felt at parting today, is a feeling of anxiety which is shared by all. We have yet to stand the test which will determine the success of our work here. Perhaps it should hardly be called a test for though some of us may not obtain the class of licence for which we have been working yet all must feel that the time spent at the Normal school has been beneficial in many ways. Friendships have been formed which will be remembered all our lifetime, and though we may all never meet again, we shall hear with the greatest pleasure of the success of those with whom we have been associated as fellow-students and class-mates. You are not leaving the school without a sense of the responsibility which rests upon you as teachers. The work is one which is especially far reaching in its influence for good, and full of opportunities for helping to raise the standard of education in the province, and both the moral and intellectual life of its young people. Because we have as yet had no experience is no reason why we may not be successful. Just as the steady every day training here has been fitting us for our work, so the same patient endeavor to be faithful in the smallest things will bring us the results for which we are working.

For the structure that we raise
Time is with material filled;
Ours to-days and yesterdays
Are the blocks with which we build.

Truly shape and fashion these
Leave no yawning gaps between;
Think not because no man sees
Such things will remain unseen.

In closing I can only express the wish that you may all be successful in your chosen vocation and realize for yourselves the happiness which comes through the earnest and faithful performance of duty.

After the address the chief superintendent and president Harrison, of the university, made a few remarks, upon which the services closed by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the Queen."

SPORTS OF THE SEASON.

The Very Latest in Base Ball, Athletic and Turf Circles.

Base Ball.

The press nine and R. S. I. club are playing at the A. A. A. grounds this afternoon.

The Shamrocks defeated the Y. M. C. A's in a five inning game at St. John last Saturday by a score of 10 to 9. They are playing the second game of the series this afternoon.

The bankers and lawyers tried conclusions at the A. A. A. grounds Tuesday afternoon. The game was noted for the "kicking" done by the bankers, who also showed their small knowledge of the rules to great advantage. At the end of the sixth inuing, with the score 13 to 17 in their favor, the bankers left the field. On the umpire warning them that if they did not immediately take the field, the game would be forfeited to the lawyers, the bankers again took the field and succeeded in winning the game by a score of 18 to 17.

The meeting of the Park A. A. A. held at the Commercial hotel, Thursday evening, was very slimly attended. No business was done, beyond the appointing of a managing committee, of a member from each base ball club. A committee was formed to interview the byciclists about town, with a view of forming a bycicle club.

The Potato Peelers suffered their first defeat at the hands of the Easters this morning. The game was very interesting.

The Rifle.

In the second match in the dominion telegraphic league series, which was shot on Saturday last, the Fredericton marksmen made a much better showing than in their first attempt. They scored 672 points, which places them well up in the list. The R.I.S. made a total of 621 points. The efforts of lieut. Perkins and others, to keep alive an interest in markmanship in this city, is worthy of all praise. The local company in this match also defeated the St. Stephen marksmen by the narrow majority of three points. During the month of June there will be no league matches, but on the 13th the various cities of the dominion will be pitted against each other by teams of fifteen men, not confined to the militia. The match will be shot with the Martini rifle. The scores made at the Saturday match at Fredericton are as follows:

A Missing Fredericton Man.

Charles H. Pollock, a young carriage trimmer, has been missing since last Saturday, and his friends are becoming alarmed. He left his lodgings, No. 103 Union Park street, about 5 o'clock Saturday evening, and that was the last seen of him. He was apparently in good health and spirits, and his friends cannot account for his absence, except that he may have been injured or met with foul play, although they cannot suggest any motive to support the latter theory. At the time of his disappearance he wore a light-colored suit and a brown derby hat. He is a thick-set man, about 26 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, and has a small light moustache and blue-gray eyes. When last seen he had about $10 in money with him. He never drank to excess. He worked at No. 159 High street, and had no relatives in Boston, his home being in Fredericton, N. B.—Boston Herald.

DESPITE all the peril from fog and ice and from the fury of cyclones and hurricanes the steamers of the transatlantic lines are now so staunchly built and so capably handled that a man is less likely to meet with accidents on board one of them than he would be in walking the streets of a crowded city. Never before have so many passengers been carried as are carried now.
